Affects All Without Wives, Children.

National Quota Urged

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—In order to make uniform the drafting of men with dependents, Sen. Robert A. Taft [R., Ohio] today urged adoption of a uniform national selective service quota system so that local boards in some states are not forced to draft men with dependents while boards in other states have ample reserves of eligible single men. Taft held that in the interest of fairness pooling should be done on a nation-wide, rather than state-wide basis.

Illinois draft boards have been ordered to start inducting men with "collateral" dependents—that is, dependents other than wives and children with whom they are living — because the supply of 1-A men is virtually exhausted, Paul G. Armstrong, state selective service director, announced yesterday.

Paul G. Armstrong.

The boards are to begin using the 2-A men at once.

Included in the group made subject to call by the order, are those men who support parents, brothers and sisters, or other so-called secondary or collateral dependents.

Law Specifies Order.

Congress recently enacted legislation authorizing the selective service system to classify men in four groups and directed that they be called in the following order:

Class 1—Registrants qualified for military service who have no financial dependents.

Class 2—Registrants qualified for military service who have financial dependents other than wives or children.

Class 3—Registrants qualified for military service who have wives with whom they are maintaining a bona fide family relationship.

Class 4—Registrants qualified for military service who have wives and children or children alone, with whom they maintain a bona fide family relationship.

Reach End of Class 1

Armstrong said that despite "pooling" of 1-A resources [class 1], most boards are reaching the end of their supply. Those now subject to call are in class 2.

To ease hardship in the calling of men with dependents into the armed services, congress provided financial allotments for those dependents.

Armstrong and selective service officials in Washington, D. C., have predicted that married men without children will be subject to call shortly after Jan. 1.

Possible induction of the nation's 18 and 19 year olds, if authorized by congress, would not delay the drafting of married men more than a month or two, Armstrong said.

Consider Financial Need.

Local boards have been asked to consider each case of a man with dependents on the basis of financial need of the dependent, the degree of dependency, and the amount that will be paid under the allotment act, he said.

The order number of the men in their boards will determine their order in being called up, Armstrong said. Hence a man with collateral dependents and a low order number can expect to be called ahead of a man in similar circumstances with a higher number.

Armstrong emphasized that any man married since Pearl Harbor or at a time his induction was imminent or who voluntarily has acquired dependents since the start of the war is now subject to induction. "Likewise, any married man who doesn't live with his wife or children may be called," he added.

RUSSIANS MAKE NEW GAINS ON MOSCOW FRONT

MOSCOW, Aug. 31 [Monday]—(AP).—The Russian defenders of Stalingrad have hurled back all German attacks and struck counterblows in some sectors, a communique said today, while the Red army made new gains on the Moscow front and in a new offensive pushed back the German spearhead aimed at the Grozny oil field in the Caucasus.

Soviet troops supported by Volga marines and armed peasants launched counterattacks both northwest and southwest of Stalingrad, inflicting heavy losses on the enemy, particularly on an Italian battalion which was said to have lost 70 per cent of its men.

The Moscow radio announced that soviet troops had recaptured one populated place northwest of Stalingrad after they had fought the Germans "street by street and house by house."

Drive Germans from Hills.

"Towards the end of the day," the announcer continued, "the Hitlerites began to retreat, leaving hundreds of officers and men in the streets. Another unit of the Red army drove the Germans from nearby hills, thus obtaining a commanding position over the whole locality."

Earlier reports said the Russians had driven the Germans from two settlements on the distant approaches to Stalingrad.

On the Moscow front, which extends about 70 miles northward from Rzhev, the Russians said their forces had made a new crossing of a river [presumably the Volga] and were now fighting on the west bank. A previous crossing was announced yesterday.

In the Caucasus, where the Germans had pushed a slender wedge along the railway to the area of Prokhladnaya, about 50 miles west of the Grozny oil fields, the Russians also counterattacked and recaptured an unidentified village.

Repulse Two Nazi Attacks.

Southwest of Stalingrad in the Kotelnikovo area, the communique said one soviet unit repulsed two German attacks, destroying three enemy tanks and wiping out a company of infantry.

The intensity of air activity over the various fronts was indicated by an increase in airplane losses listed in the weekly summary of the soviet command. During the week ending Aug. 29, the communique said, the Germans lost 498 planes and the Russians 206. These figures are the highest in many weeks.

Despite the momentary Russian successes, dispatches made clear that the Germans were regrouping depleted forces and shuttling new troops to the Stalingrad and Caucasus fronts.

Pressed Back Toward Don.

The Germans were sorely disappointed; they had expected to be in Stalingrad by now and instead the severity of 11th hour Russian attacks on the plains between the muddy Volga and Don river was forcing them back toward the Don. Already some of the invading spearheads had been wiped out.

A Nazi effort to land troops on the Black sea coast by ships from the Kerch peninsula was frustrated by alert Russian marines and other forces who destroyed 10 cutters. On land south of Krasnodar, German advances under cover of strong artillery into dominating heights were erased completely by a wild, flanking counterattack of the Cossacks.

Rzhev had been fortified by the Germans for six months and two strong defense rings had been thrown around the city. The Russians broke one when they entered the northern part of the city.

Twin objectives of the soviet offensive were to erase a pocket dangerous to Moscow and to draw off attacking forces from Stalingrad and the Caucasus.

Senators Hunt New Billions in Spending Tax

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30 (AP).—Treasury proposals for a new wartime tax on individuals—a "spending tax" calculated to yield 5 billion dollars or more annually—will be laid before the senate finance committee Tuesday, Chairman Walter F. George [D., Ga.] said today.

Designed to tighten the brakes on inflation and boost revenues substantially beyond the 24 billion yearly estimated yield under rates voted by the house, the new levy would impose additional taxes on nearly all persons with more than $1,000 annual income.

Indicate 10 Per Cent Rate.

As outlined by George, the spending tax would be levied on the total of all money paid out by an individual during the course of the year in excess of certain specified exemptions.

Although George said he was not conversant with all the details, there were indications the rate may be as high as 10 per cent, possibly with graduated increases in the higher brackets of expenditures. It would be imposed over and above all other levies now in effect and proposed in the new bill, he said.

To compute his spending liability, a taxpayer would figure his net income for the year, taking into account all the deductions and exemptions he customarily is allowed in determining his income tax.

Deduction for Savings.

When this amount had been arrived at, he then could make additional deductions for payments on debts [including insurance premiums and taxes], purchases of government bonds, investments in capital assets [such as a house, but not a fur coat] and other expenditures the treasury may specify later.

After all these deductions had been made, the resulting figure would represent the amount of money he had spent, on which he would have to pay a percentage tax.

His head of family credit, under the pending senate finance committee bill, would be $1,200. He could claim $600 credit for his two children —$300 for each—as the committee has amended the bill. In addition he might have $100 in other expenditures which he could deduct in figuring his regular income tax.

Additional Deductions.

Thus his total credits for income tax purposes would be $1,900. In computing his spending tax, however, he would be allowed additional deductions.

Suppose he paid $400 on his home mortgage during the year, paid $100 of life insurance premiums, and bought $300 of war bonds. This $800 could be added to the $1,900, giving him an exemption of $2,700 in establishing the spending tax basis.

If, at the end of the year, he had the same amount of cash as when he started the year—that is, if he had saved nothing—he would have to pay the tax on $300, the difference between the exempted $2,700 and his $3,000 income. If the rate were 10 per cent, his spending tax would be $30.

George expressed the belief no one with annual income of less than $1,000 would have to pay a spending tax.

"Such a tax," George said, "is intended to serve a dual purpose. It would place a check on consumer spending and thus help meet the increasing danger of a further rise in the cost of living, and produce a substantial amount of revenue."

Realism of Battle

On the back page of today's paper appears a color feature consisting of scenes that will be reenacted at the Army War Show, which opens in Soldiers' field next Wednesday. This military spectacle, proceeds from which will be turned over to the Army Emergency Relief, will provide Chicagoland with the realism of the battle front.

In all issues of tomorrow's Tribune will be presented a color feature, "Self Defense for Women in War," which consists of sequence drawings by Richard Fletcher, showing how a nurse or a WAAC can protect herself against an enemy.

Student Tries to Bomb Albania Governor; Slain

ISTANBUL, Aug. 30 (AP).—Advices from Tirana, capital of Italian-occupied Albania, said today an Albanian student attempted to kill the Italian governor, Gen. Mulletti, with a bomb last Tuesday as he was leaving his residence. Mulletti was uninjured but two of his aides were killed, the reports said. The student was shot on the spot.

Mrs. Winnifred Ator and Sally Jo Ator, 5 years old, wife and daughter of Joseph R. Ator, an editorial writer for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, were drowned yesterday in a boating accident in Big lake, 14 miles west of Land O' Lakes, Wis. Ator and another daughter, Leslie, 9, were saved.

Mrs. Ator died in a heroic but vain attempt to save Sally Jo. Ator helped save Leslie, but almost drowned himself in the attempt. Both he and Leslie were rescued by three Chicago suburban youths who were nearby in an outboard motor boat.

All Hurled into Water.

They were nearing the end of a day's outing on Big lake when the accident occurred. The water was rough, with waves running nearly two feet high. The Ator boat slid deep into a trough between waves, and capsized. All four of the family were thrown into the water.

At the same time the boat's anchor came loose, dropped 10 feet to the lake bottom, and held the craft. The waves carried the Ators away.

The moment they were thrown into the water, Mrs. Ator, a good swimmer, went after Sally Jo. Ator swam after Leslie. He reached her, carried her back to the capsized craft and bade her to hold on. Then he swam to his wife, but lost consciousness and went under. Meanwhile, Leslie clung to the side of the boat.

Three Aid in Rescue.

Help was on the way in an outboard motor boat manned by Alan J. Young, 1801 South 50th avenue, Cicero, and John C. Blackmore Jr., 4131 Grove avenue, and Robert Brown, 4025 Franklin avenue, both of Western Springs. They pulled Ator, who was unconscious, out of the water, saved Leslie, then recovered Mrs. Ator's body. Ator revived quickly. Sally Jo's body was recovered later.

Mrs. Ator, the former Miss Winnifred Hughes, was 39 years old. She was born in Fargo, N. D., and was married in 1930. A brother, Leslie Hughes of Cleveland, O., was with the family at the resort. Mrs. Ator also is survived by her father, Hugh J. Hughes of Louisville, Ky., and two sisters. The Ator home is at 4119 Woodlawn avenue, Western Springs.

24 Enemy Planes Raid Solomons; 7 Shot Down.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30 (AP).—American forces defending their newly won outpost in the Solomon Islands shot down seven out of 24 Japanese planes which came over to attack them in two waves Saturday, the navy announced today, raising to at least 111 the enemy's plane losses to date in the Solomons campaign.

No American planes were lost, the navy reported, and "damage to our positions was minor." The Japanese planes destroyed included three bombers and four Zero fighters.

The raids were directed against United States troops and installations on Guadalcanal Island, site of a large Japanese airport which invading American marines have converted to their own use. The attacks came about eight hours apart. The first was made by six planes, which the navy did not identify as to type, and the second by 18 bombers.

Position Well Established.

The purpose of the raids apparently was to harass the Americans and disrupt their work of consolidating their positions in preparation for their next move, which may be either a blow at Jap bases in the northwestward Solomons or, if the enemy renews land and sea attacks, defensive action.

The Japanese have offered no serious threat in the Solomons for four days, and the navy announced last night that the marines had their positions well established.

The last report of any general sea and air action came from the navy on Wednesday and said that the marines were holding firm in the face of strong enemy thrusts. The Japanese relaxed their pressure and withdrew their sea forces, which had included aircraft carriers and at least one battleship, and since then the situation has steadily improved.

Marines Mopping Up.

It was announced yesterday that navy patrol bombers and dive bombers had intercepted a squadron of four destroyers en route to supply Japanese patrols in Santa Ysabel Island and had scored hits on three of the ships, sinking one, probably sinking another and damaging a third.

By last night the position of the marines had grown so strong that the navy could announce that only "mopping up" operations were in progress along with further strengthening of vantage points on six Solomon Islands now in American hands—Guadalcanal, Tulagi, Florida, Tanambogo, Makambo, and Gavutu.

10,000 Landed, Say Japs.

New York, Aug. 30 [Special].—A German Transocean News broadcast to the United States today reported under a Tokio date line that competent quarters in the Japanese capital had said that "10,000 United States soldiers who landed in the Solomon Isles are cut off from every help and are looking forward to their Dunkirk."

The German transmission, as recorded by the New York Times, said Tokio commentators had referred to a recent statement by Commander Hideo Hiraide, Japanese naval spokesman, that the United States had sacrificed 14 cruisers for the protection of its aircraft carriers, which, nevertheless, were severely damaged, according to enemy reports. [This extravagant claim is entirely unconfirmed by American sources.]

ADM. KING HOME, CALLS SOLOMONS HINT OF FUTURE

Lorain, O., Aug. 30 (AP).—Adm. Ernest J. King today declared the battle of the Solomon Islands was only a hint of what is in store for the enemy.

Returning to his home town to participate in a patriotic celebration, the commander of the United States fleet told workers at the American Ship Building Co. yards here:

"We cannot do the job we have to do without the help of every one. We need every killing tool we can get. This is a people's war and we are all in it until it is won."

The chief of naval operations asserted there now are five million men in the armed forces and that in another year "we will have eight million."

MacArthur Ambush Carefully Set; Flyers Aid.

GEN. MAC ARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Aug. 31 [Monday]—(AP).—Outguessing the Japanese and smashing them in a carefully prepared trap, Australian and American forces have hurled back the Japanese spearhead thrust into Milne bay and have saved Port Moresby for the fourth time, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

A special communique, handed out at MacArthur's headquarters with smiles all around, announced that the "Milne bay area is rapidly being cleared of the enemy. . . . His losses have been heavy. . . . All his heavy supplies and equipment, including tanks, were lost."

Then shortly afterward, in its regular daily communique, the allied command announced that Japanese ground troops had been repulsed with heavy casualties in the Kokoda area, just 60 miles east of Port Moresby, inland from the Gona-Buna area.

Japs Attack at Salamaua.

At the same time it was disclosed that Japanese ground activity had increased at Salamaua, 180 miles due north of Port Moresby, in another phase of the resurgence of fighting over a wide area of New Guinea. The allies attacked a Japanese cruiser and transport at Rabaul, big enemy base on New Britain, with results unobserved.

Two flights of three enemy planes raiding at night dropped bombs harmlessly in the harbor of Darwin, Australia and in a mangrove swamp, the communique said. A second ineffectual raid was staged this morning.

But it was the Milne bay action which provided the big news of the day. The first word of victory issued since the Japs landed at Milne bay last Wednesday said the Japanese still left there were being rapidly reduced in the narrow confines of the peninsula north of the bay.

Text of Communique.

The special communique said:

"The Milne bay area is rapidly being cleared of the enemy. Australian combat troops, ably commanded by Maj. Gen. Clowes and brilliantly supported by American and Australian air units, have thrown the enemy back into the narrow confines of the peninsula north of the bay, where he is being rapidly reduced.

"His losses have been heavy. Some remnants of his forces were probably saved from destruction by evacuation by naval warcraft under cover of darkness. All his heavy supplies and equipment, including tanks, were lost.

Flank Attack Fails.

"The operation represents another phase in the pattern of the enemy's plans to capture Port Moresby. This citadel is guarded by the natural defense line of the Owen Stanley range.

"The first effort was to turn its left flank from Lae and Salamaua, which proved impracticable. He then launched an attack in large convoy force against its rear.

"This was repulsed and dissipated by air and sea action in the Coral sea. He then tried to pierce the center in a weak attempt by way of Buna-Gona-Kokoda, subjecting himself to extraordinary air losses because of the extreme vulnerability of his exposed position.

Japs Fall Into Trap.

"His latest effort was to turn the right flank by a surprise attack at Milne bay. The move was anticipated, however, and prepared for with great care. With complete secrecy the position was occupied by our forces and converted into a strong point.

"The enemy fell into the trap with disastrous results to him."

The general's spokesman, who handed out the communique smilingly, said, "That's all for now. There is no amplification of this communique."

But it told plenty.

The soldiers who fought the Japanese to a standstill and then threw them back in Milne bay's treacherous ground and mud were Australian veterans and militia, commanded by Maj. Gen. Cyril Albert Clowes, an artillery officer, wearer of the distinguished service order, and a veteran of the middle east campaign with the Australian imperial forces.

The Japanese landed last Wednes-

MARINES' SLOGAN AS FIGHT NEARED: 'SEE YOU IN TOKIO'

Tells How Giant Convoy Sailed to Solomons.

The success which the marines enjoyed on Friday, Aug. 7, in the landing at Guadalcanal was very much like the opening football game of the season. The few hours of actual conflict represented many, many hours of skull practice, scrimmage, and careful scouting of the opposition's plays.

I was embarked on one of the navy transports which carried part of the force. When we left our base in the south Pacific, the marines I talked to were all in favor of going into action. They were in the war to lick hell out of the parasites of the Pacific and the sooner the better.

Few Knew Objective.

The long line of grim, grey war vessels steaming out of the harbor as we left our base must have been a thrilling sight from the beach—it looked very comforting from where I sat to see destroyers and cruisers fore and aft and port and starboard.

Scuttlebutt [marine lingo for unauthenticated rumor] concerning our destination included every place from Little America to Tokio. Only a handful knew the real objective and they weren't talking.

The convoy moved north and south and east and west, much in the manner of the famous scout who leaped on his horse and rode off in all directions. Every time I walked on deck the sun was shining from a different quarter. It must have all been very confusing to any Japanese spy who may have been lurking in the offing.

We moved without incident for several days, until one morning the loudspeakers broke into the crisp "ack-ack-ack" signal of general quarters—warning that danger, real or potential, was imminent.

Take Battle Stations.

There was no particular excitement on my ship. The crew moved to their battle stations with incredible speed and the marines retired in orderly fashion to the troop compartments. A few minutes later the "all clear" sounded. The three planes which had swooped over the horizon to the port side had been identified as friendly.

Later in the day, marines sunning themselves on deck saw two tiny specks on the horizon to starboard. Soon they could be recognized as ships. In five minutes, every off-duty man on board was crowding the rail. The same thing was happening on every other transport I could see.

The two specks became three, then five, then more. Men with binoculars spotted aircraft carriers, heavy cruisers, and giant transports. It was the best morale booster I've ever seen.

Convoy Falls in Line.

There was a terrific let-down for a few minutes when it appeared that the powerful convoy was going to steam right by, but it finally swung ponderously around and fell into line behind us.

Less than an hour after the first two specks had appeared to starboard, the ship's grapevine went into action with reports of another convoy rising from the sea to port. Sure enough, when I walked over to the rail I saw what appeared to be a mirrored duplicate of the earlier scene. I felt better—in fact, I felt very good.

For a couple of days we moved along together. Occasionally a ship or group of ships slipped over the horizon, only to reappear later on. During all this time the only dry land sighted was in the sand locker.

Move Thru Islands.

Finally, however, we began to move thru a group of blue ghost islands that seemed scarcely different from the cloudbanks the marines had been so positively identifying as terra firma. By that time it was generally conceded that a very tangible objective lay ahead of us.

Unit commanders gathered their men together and told them in detail of the plan of attack. The objectives of our force were Guadalcanal and neighboring Florida Island in the Solomons group.

The date, Aug. 7, was well chosen. Eight months after the treacherous assault on Pearl Harbor the allies struck a powerful initial blow in an action that is a forerunner to some day clearing up the Pacific. It was the kick-off by the best trained, best coached military team in the world. The goal line is many thousand miles away, but many marines who saw action at Guadalcanal will live to march victoriously thru the streets of Japan's capital.

"See you in Tokio!" is the watchword of the marines.

MacArthur Decorates 2 U. S. Soldiers as Heroes

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Aug. 30 (AP).—The soldier's medal for heroism was awarded today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur to Lieut. Col. Roscoe T. Nichols Jr., Liberal, Kas., and Sergt. Milton F. Kelm, Stillwater, Minn. The citation said the two men, disregarding their own safety after a plane crash, escorted some injured to a safe distance, then returned to the plane and rescued two other men just before the gas tanks and ammunition exploded.

HANGING HEAD DOWN, REPAIRS LANDING GEAR OF BOMBER IN MIDAIR

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Aug. 30 (AP).—The feat of repairing the retractable landing gear of a bomber in flight while hanging head down thru an open hatch brought a citation for valor today to Sergt. Billy C. Gribble of the United States army air corps, whose home is at Alverton, Pa.

The citation said Gribble had labored at his dangerous job for the better part of an hour while two other members of the plane's crew held him by the legs.

U. OF C. MILITARY STUDENTS TEST WAR KNOWLEDGE

One thousand members of the University of Chicago's Institute of Military Studies tested their newly acquired knowledge in a tactical exercise in Palos Park forest preserve yesterday.

The exercise resembled miniature army maneuvers with the battalion divided into two opposing forces while army umpires observed their skill in taking advantage of cover, use of communications, and deployment thru the woods.

Participants are completing three months of preinduction military training. Headquarters for the maneuvers was in the Swallow Hills picnic area on route 45 near route 83.

YANK PRIVATE ON TRIAL FOR KILLING BRITISH SOLDIER

WITH THE UNITED STATES ARMY IN NORTHERN IRELAND, Aug. 30 (AP).—Pvt. William E. Davis, 23, of Cleburne, Tex., will face trial before a military court tomorrow accused of killing a British soldier with a knife.

Davis was arrested after Pvt. Owen McLoughlin of the British Pioneers was stabbed to death in a brawl following a dance Aug. 1. Davis said he joined the fighting when British troops started beating some of his American friends.

If convicted of murder Davis would be subject to the death penalty, for manslaughter from three to 10 years' imprisonment.

'Rapidly Reducing' Foe; Captures Tanks.

Each communique indicated that the trend was inconclusive as the bitter struggle raged in the jungle and on the shore, but suddenly today there came the special announcement of victory.

For the first time, Gen. MacArthur gave a report on the enemy's efforts to capture Port Moresby, which would be a prime invasion base for moves against Australia.

The communique's mention that tanks and other heavy supplies were abandoned on the jungle beaches was the first word that such supplies and tanks had been landed.

Hope U. S. Fleet Will Aid.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, Aug. 30.—Australians today held out hope that the American fleet under Vice Adm. Robert L. Ghormley now based in the Solomon Islands may be released to aid in the defense of New Guinea against the Japs.

While there is no indication that the admiral intends to release any of his ships for this purpose, observers pointed out that if his offensive continues as far north as Rabaul, New Britain, the Japs in New Guinea will be outflanked and may be forced to withdraw.

However, there is a school of thought which believes that the action against Milne bay is the result of Japanese frustration in the Solomons and that the ships and men used here were originally intended for a Solomons counteroffensive.

In view of the heavy Japanese shipping in the Rabaul area, some Australian circles are considering the possibility that the enemy may be considering by-passing Port Moresby and Milne bay and making a direct attack on Cairns or Townsville, Australia. This would oblige the allies to draw off naval strength from the Solomons.

JAPS WILL FIGHT UNTIL CRUSHED, GREW DECLARES

Warns of Sacrifices; Cites Danger of Stalemate.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—Nothing less than a crushing defeat of the Japanese militarists can assure the future peace of the Pacific area, Joseph C. Grew, former American ambassador to Japan, warned tonight in a radio address.

Joseph C. Grew.

The talk was Grew's first statement since he returned from Japan last week on the exchange ship Gripsholm. He represented the United States in Tokio for 10 years.

Grew said he is confident of ultimate victory over Japan, but he warned that the going will be tough and said Americans will have to make great sacrifices to avoid a stalemate. He said the Japanese can surmount economic hardships and that force alone will defeat them.

Tells of Atrocities.

He described atrocities suffered by Americans at the hands of the Japanese and disclosed details of his last-minute negotiations to avert war before the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. He said he was not permitted to present a personal message to Emperor Hirohito from President Roosevelt.

"The Japanese military machine and military caste and military system must be utterly crushed, their credit and predominance must be utterly broken, for the future safety and welfare of the United States and the united nations, and for the future safety and welfare of civilization and humanity," Grew said.

"Let us put it in a nutshell: There is not sufficient room in the area of the Pacific ocean for a peaceful America, for any and all of the peace-loving united nations, and swashbuckling Japan."

Long Training Described.

Grew said the modern Japanese military machine has been trained and perfected thru many years and always has had in view eventually sweeping to the north against Russia and to the west and south to control what the Japanese have termed "the co-prosperity sphere of greater east Asia."

"The idea should not for a moment be entertained that the failure of the Japanese forces in China has discouraged the Japanese people," he said. "It has instead served to steel them for still greater sacrifices and to prepare them better for the war of deadly purpose to conquer upon which they have finally embarked.

"Probably no other factor has contributed more heavily to the preliminary victories achieved by the Japanese in this war than the offensive spirit which permeates all of the armed forces of the empire. The Japanese high command has counted heavily upon the advantages this would give them over less aggressive enemies.

Americans Viewed with Scorn.

"They have put great store in what they consider to be the white man's flabbiness. They look upon us American as constitutional weaklings, demanding our daily comforts and unwilling to make the sacrifices demanded for victory in a war against a military machine which has prepared and trained itself in Spartan simplicity and the hardness and toughness demanded by war.

"They attach great importance to the former disunity in the United States over the war issue and they still count on an appreciable interval before an aroused nation can find itself and develop a fighting spirit of its own. By that time, they feel, Japan will be in complete control of all east Asia."

He said the Japanese struck with all their force and power in the initial attacks and declared they will continue to fight in the same manner until they are crushed.

Danger of Stalemate Told.

"We shall crush them in due course," he said, "but if we Americans think that, collectively and individually, we can continue to lead our normal lives, leaving the spirit of self-sacrifice to our soldiers and sailors, letting the intensification of our production program take care of itself, we shall unquestionably risk the danger of a stalemate in this war of ours with Japan.

"I say this in the light of my 10 years' experience in Japan and my knowledge of the power of the Japanese army and navy and of the hardness and fighting spirit of the Japanese."

He said that during the voyage home three elderly American missionaries, one of them over 70 years old, gave him a demonstration of the "water cure" torture which had been inflicted on them repeatedly by the Japanese.

Given "Cure" Six Times.

"A friend posed as the subject of the torture," Grew said. "He was tied with his knees drawn up to his chin, his neck being bound to his knees, and his hands bound behind him so the cords in the actual torture had penetrated deep under the skin. Then he was rolled over with his face up and water was poured into his nose and mouth.

"Six large buckets of water were used by the Japanese police, so that the subject in every case lost consciousness and then was brought back to consciousness merely to have the same thing repeated. One of those elderly missionaries was given the water-cure six separate times in order to make him divulge information which he was supposed to have acquired as an alleged spy."

Grew said he had long known of Japan's preparations for war "and I kept my government currently advised of the information which came to my knowledge on that subject."

He said that late in the evening of Dec. 7, Tokio time, he received a telegram from Secretary of State Cordell Hull containing a message from President Roosevelt to be delivered to the emperor as quickly as possible.

Asks Audience with Emperor.

Grew said he immediately requested an appointment with Foreign Minister Tojo, and around midnight drove to Tojo's palace. He requested an audience with the emperor and Tojo said he would present the request to the throne.

At 7 a. m. the next morning, Grew said, he was telephoned by Tojo's secretary and told to come to the minister's residence. He arrived about 7:30, he said, and Tojo, "grim and formal, handed to me the reply to the President's message to the emperor, who I was told he had seen at about 3 a. m., presumably just after the news of the attack on Pearl Harbor."

At the same time, said Grew, Tojo handed him a long memorandum to the effect that Japan was ending current negotiations with the American government.

Tojo Makes Little Speech.

"I asked the minister whether he had presented to the emperor my request for an audience," Grew continued. "The minister merely replied that he had no intention of standing between myself and the throne. He then made a little speech thanking me for my efforts to preserve peace and as usual came downstairs to see me off at the door.

"He said nothing whatever about the outbreak of war between our countries and I returned to the embassy in entire ignorance that developments more serious than the breaking off of the conversations had occurred."

Grew said it was an hour or more before he learned of the Japanese attack thru a press bulletin. Later the official note declaring war was delivered to the embassy and the embassy staff was guarded and treated as prisoners.

U. S. ASKS JAPAN TO O. K. NEW PLAN TO AID PRISONERS

Proposes Red Cross Ships Meet in Africa.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30 (AP).—In the face of Japan's refusal to allow a neutral ship to carry food and clothing direct to imprisoned Americans under International Red Cross supervision, the United States has proposed that these supplies be relayed in American and Japanese Red Cross ships meeting at Portuguese East Africa, the state department announced tonight.

The proposal was made in a note dispatched by Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles to the Tokio government thru Swiss authorities.

At the same time Welles reminded the Japanese of their obligation under the Geneva convention to facilitate delivery of supplies to prisoners and internees and declared that the United States, "while looking to the Japanese government to fulfill its obligations under the convention, is fully conscious of its own obligations."

The note recalled that the Tokio government in February had agreed to abide by the Geneva convention.

The American Red Cross, the note continued, accordingly chartered the Swedish motorship Kanangoora and requested safe conduct for the vessel from San Francisco, Cal., to Manila, P. I., via Kobe, Shanghai, and Hongkong. A similar request was made by the United States government thru Swiss authorities.

The Red Cross announced yesterday that the Japanese had refused both requests but had agreed to permit relief shipments on vessels exchanging Japanese and United States nationals at Lourenco Marques, Portuguese East Africa.

Welles said, however, that the Gripsholm, which docked in this country last week with repatriated American nationals, "does not have sufficient cargo carrying capacity to transport the amount of supplies which it is desired to send to prisoners and internees in the far east."

"Moreover, the exchange ship does not provide a means of continued transportation of such supplies. Additional shipping space must therefore be employed if the prisoners and internees are to receive supplementary supplies as provided for by the convention."

CHINESE STORM NANCHANG, JAP BASE SINCE 1939

Recapture River City in Pursuit of Foe.

CHUNGKING, China, Aug. 30 (AP).—Chinese soldiers are storming the suburbs of Nanchang, Japan's major base in Giangsi province since 1939, and have recaptured the rail-river city of Lungyu in their eastward pursuit of the Japanese in Chekiang province, the Chinese reported tonight.

A high command communique said the Chinese began attacks on the Nanchang outskirts after pursuing the enemy units northward from Likiatu, 40 miles south of Nanchang.

Heavy fighting was reported in progress near Lientang, nine miles south of Nanchang, which the Chinese captured Thursday. Japanese reenforcements launched a counterattack.

All Positions Retaken.

Thus the Chinese were presenting their greatest threat to Nanchang since the Japanese captured it March 27, 1939.

[The Japanese and their German allies broadcast official reports belittling China's successes in Chekiang and Kiangsi provinces and saying the Japanese offensive launched last May had achieved its objective of preventing any possibility of the united nations establishing air bases for raids on Tokio. However, the Chinese already have recaptured the three major bases for raids on Japan—at Chuhsien, Lishui, and Yushan.]

The Chinese announced the capture of the village of Liangkiatu, about 12 miles south of Nanchang, and indicated that the Chinese thus had pushed the Japanese back to the area they held around Nanchang before they began their campaign last May to take eastern China airfields and seize a railroad route to Singapore.

The high command has not announced the capture of Lungyu, but a Central news agency dispatch said the city was occupied this morning. Lungyu is 20 miles east of Chuhsien, site of the biggest air base in China.

It was also reported unofficially that the Chinese had occupied Lanchi, 20 miles northwest of Lungyu and terminus of a branch rail line from Kinhwa.

Threaten Entire Railway.

The Japanese captured Lanchi May 30, 15 days after launching the drive which resulted in occupation of wide areas of Chekiang and Kiangsi provinces. The reoccupation of Lanchi would endanger Kinhwa and possibly expedite the withdrawal of Japanese troops from the railway between Lungyu and Kinhwa.

China's present offensive has recaptured nearly 350 miles of the Chekiang-Kiangsi railway and most of the territory Japan gained this summer in the two provinces.

[A Tokio report broadcast by Berlin quoted Japanese headquarters as saying the Chinese had not scored successes in their drive; that they had merely occupied districts evacuated by the Japanese in the course of a "regrouping" of their soldiers in the two provinces, and that the Japanese held "all important strategical districts" in the two provinces. The Japanese said several units of their forces in South China had established themselves along a new front after "attaining their objectives" against Chungking forces.]

Japs Pushed Back Farther in China

(Story in adjoining column.)

DEATH SENTENCE COMMUTED FOR 5 YOUNG IRISHMEN

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Aug. 30 (AP).—The government announced today the commutation of the death sentences of five young Belfast men, members of the outlawed Irish Republican army, who had been convicted of killing a policeman in Easter disorders.

The sixth man, Thomas H. Williams, 19, will be hanged Wednesday, it was announced.

The death sentences of four whose ages ranged from 19 to 21 were commuted to life imprisonment. The death sentence of Patrick Simpson, 18, was commuted to 15 years.

MUST RECONQUER SINGAPORE, SAYS EXPERT'S REVIEW

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30 (AP).—"Desperate and probably costly efforts to regain Singapore" eventually must be made by the united nations as a "prerequisite of victory," said a study released today by the American Council on Public Affairs, a private research organization.

Declaring that the fall of Singapore cannot be considered "exclusively a British responsibility," Prof. Eugene H. Miller of Ursinus college, author of the study, said that the huge naval base "remains the most vital key to the control of the Pacific and Indian oceans and domination of those seas constitutes an indispensable prerequisite of allied victory."

In an introduction to the study, Capt. W. D. Puleston, United States navy, wrote that "as long as we remain in need of vital raw materials in the far east, as long as we have any interest in Australia and New Zealand, just so long will Singapore remain strategically vital to our interests."

ROCKEFELLER TO START SHIP LINE TO LATIN NATIONS

$10,000,000 U. S. Firm Will Operate Vessels.

Miami, Fla., Aug. 30 (AP).—Nelson Rockefeller, whose duties as coördinator of inter-American affairs have assumed new significance since Brazil entered the war, was on his way to South America today to align a sailing vessel fleet and rich raw material areas with the war effort.

His plan looks to the establishment of local, interport services by auxiliary powered sailing craft and a schedule of limited calls at ocean ports by deep sea vessels. Thus the big ships will make fewer stops, quicker voyages and, said Rockefeller, "help whip the submarine problem."

Will Build Sailboats.

The $10,000,000 inter-American navigation corporation, set up by Rockefeller's government office, is to carry out the plan and assist in construction of a large number of additional auxiliary powered sailing craft in shipyards of Latin American nations.

These vessels will transport raw materials and ships' cargoes already available, and will become increasingly important in the plan to open up new areas of rubber production and other needed supplies.

Must Control Malaria.

Tactics which rival American operations in completing the Panama Canal will be used to open up the new areas. First malaria will be controled by health crews destroying mosquito breeding spots, then farmers will go in to plant crops, and workers will follow to tap rubber trees or remove minerals from the ground.

"There are large areas of untapped forests containing many rubber trees which cannot be penetrated until malaria is controled and food is produced," said Rockefeller.

He will be a guest of President Vargas of Brazil. An aide, Gen. George C. Dunham, will remain to complete the health and food projects. Rockefeller and another assistant, Frank Jamieson, will continue to Chile, Peru and Colombia.

COAST GUARDSMEN FIND BODY.

Coast guardsmen yesterday recovered the body of Joseph Zaporwski, 44 years old, 2308 Clybourn avenue, from Ogden slip. His wife, Rose, identified the body and said her husband had been missing four days. She said she did not know any reason why he would end his life.

GERMANS ADMIT RUSSIAN GAINS WEST OF MOSCOW

Say Stalingrad Defense System Pierced.

BERLIN, Aug. 30 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—DNB, the German official news agency, and the high command said today that powerful Russian smashes west of Moscow have gained some ground, but declared the strongly fortified defense system of Stalingrad on the Volga had been deeply pierced.

German forces continued to gain on the lower Kuban river of the western Caucasus despite "difficult terrain," the high command said.

It was insisted in official quarters that German defensive tactics and counterattacks have stopped the Russians in their offensive west of Moscow for the last month and have inflicted on them losses "out of all proportion to tactical considerations." The German positions, in the main, are intact, the high command declared.

Confident of Defensive Strength.

German sources did not discuss the value of the Russian attacks in the north as an operation to divert German strength from Stalingrad or the Caucasus, but left the impression that the high command is confident it has the strength to maintain offensives in the south and adequate defenses in the Moscow region at the same time.

DNB said the Russians had broken thru German defensive positions northwest of Medyn, about 100 miles southwest of Moscow. Here the Russian thrust was so powerful the Germans had to organize a counterattack which, DNB said, was "completely successful" and now is in the stage of a mopping-up operation. The high command's communique admitted the Russians had gained terrain at a high cost in men and material.

Bitter Fighting at Rzhev.

Fighting in the vicinity of Rzhev, 125 miles northwest of Moscow, was extremely bitter, DNB said. The Russians started a major attack on Aug. 28, the opening phase being an intense artillery bombardment. Then, at night, DNB continued, numerous Russian tanks attacked in successive waves "which broke down in our concentrated fire."

At one place, DNB said, the enemy succeeded in crossing a small river and penetrating German lines. At this stage of the fighting the Germans counterattacked in force, and the enemy "was eventually annihilated," DNB added.

The Russian attacks extended southward to a region southwest of Kaluga, south and west of Moscow. The operation there was described by the Germans as "defensive success," but no effort was made to minimize the power with which the Russian blow was struck.

Repel Crossing of Volga.

A Russian attempt to cross the upper Volga river at an undesignated place was "repelled with heavy losses," DNB said.

The high command stated that fighting around Rzhev and the region directly to the south had cost the Russians 1,572 tanks since July 13, and that 547 soviet planes were destroyed in operations extending over about 200 miles of front.

Northern sectors of the front near Leningrad livened up considerably, DNB added. Russians attacked southeast of Lake Ilmen and at the Volkhov bridgehead and south of Lake Ladoga.

SOVIET BOMBERS SET 48 FIRES IN RAID ON BERLIN

Koenigsberg, Danzig and Stettin Attacked.

MOSCOW, Aug. 30 (AP).—Soviet airmen pounded Berlin and other cities of central and eastern Germany last night, starting 17 big fires in the capital and at least 31 lesser ones, the government announced tonight. Nine heavy explosions were reported.

Koenigsberg in East Prussia, and Danzig and Stettin also were attacked, the government said. In Koenigsberg 29 fires were reported, 8 of them large ones, and 6 big explosions were noted by the soviet raiders.

Swedish reports said the alert in Berlin lasted for three hours.

Other results of the aerial operations were these: Danzig—Eight fires and four heavy explosions; Stettin—Six fires and two heavy explosions. All soviet planes returned safely to their bases.

RAF Strikes in Daylight.

LONDON, Aug. 30 (AP).—The British royal air force was held to its bases by unsuitable flying weather last night, but daylight hours brought a resumption of what is virtually a nonstop air attack on Germany and occupied territories in the west. The day's operations appeared to be limited to scattered intruder attacks on such cross-channel targets as docks, airdromes, repair depots, and motor caravans.

Admit Attacks by Russians.

BERLIN [from German broadcasts], Aug. 30 (AP).—"Last night soviet bombers, some of them flying at great altitude, carried out harassing flights over northeastern Germany. A little damage was caused by bombs dropped at random in some places," the high command said today.

The German air force bombed Brighton and Swindon in southern England last night, a DNB [German] news agency dispatch said.

JEWISH LODGES PLEDGE $50,000 FOR RUSSIAN AID

A contribution of approximately $50,000 to Russian War Relief, Inc., was pledged by the Landsmanshaft conference, an association of Jewish lodges, clubs, and societies, in a meeting in Hotel Sherman yesterday. Chicago's quota in the Russian war relief drive for 6 million dollars is $600,000. Among those who spoke at the Landsmanshaft meeting yesterday were Judge Harry M. Fisher, Rabbi Saul Silber, Rabbi Louis D. Goldman, Rabbi Morton M. Berman, Dr. Benjamin Miller, and Louis Zara. Dr. Miller is a member of the executive board of Russian War Relief. Zara, an author, is executive director of the Chicago committee.

U. S. TROOPS IN RUSSIAN GEORGIA, GERMAN REPORTS

BERLIN, Aug. 30—[from German broadcasts] — (AP). — Paul Schmitz, Transocean correspondent in Ankara, reported in a dispatch today that United States technical troops have entered Georgia, Russian province between the Black and Caspian seas, and are stationed near Tiflis.

Transocean said Russia, previously opposed to having foreign allied troops on Russian territory, had been induced to change its attitude in view of the German thrust into the Caucasus, and that an Anglo-American military mission has established itself at Tiflis.

Transocean also said an American mission in Teheran is reorganizing special troops of the Iran army.

Goebbels Goes to Venice for Talks with Italian Minister

U. S. ENVOY TO SPAIN TALKS TO SERRANO SUNER

MADRID, Aug. 30 (AP).—Foreign Minister Serrano Suner yesterday received United States Ambassador Carlton J. H. Hayes at the foreign ministry and later talked with the ambassadors from Germany and Portugal.

The subjects discussed were not disclosed. President Roosevelt proposed Friday for the Americas to help Spain repair civil war damage to her cultural treasures and stimulate postwar tourist travel to the Iberian peninsula. The President's suggestions have not yet been published in Spain, but they are expected to be well received.

[The President said he had talked of the plan with Nelson Rockefeller, coördinator of inter-American affairs. The program would be voluntary and funds would come from contributions and foundations, Mr. Roosevelt said, adding that the program was predicated on the assumption of Spain's neutrality.]

BRITISH STRIKE FOR CONTROL IN MEDITERRANEAN

Commando Style Raid on Greek Island Bared.

LONDON, Aug. 30 (AP).—A mysterious Commando-style raid on the tiny island of Antikythera, between Greece and Crete, and a hot 24 hours of air action directed against Sicily from reënforced Malta, indicated today that the British once more were striking strongly for the initiative in the Mediterranean.

At the same time British submarines were reported to be taking a heavy toll in attacks on convoys trying to get reënforcements to Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, whose expected offensive in the direction of Alexandria and the Nile delta appeared to be fading with the waning of the desert moon.

A Reuters [British] news agency dispatch from "aboard a British destroyer in the eastern Mediterranean," reported that a British force of destroyers rained shells on Rommel's tank repair shops and stores at El Daba on the Egyptian coast early Saturday morning.

Tell of Attack on Island.

The first word of the raid on Antikythera, which the Italians call Cerigotto, came from the Italian high command which said a "small enemy unit" made a landing attempt on the night of Aug. 28, but "fled on the quick intervention of our defenses."

The island is about five miles long and from one to three miles wide, has a population of only a few hundred, and lies just south of Kythera, southernmost of the Ionian Islands. Rocky and barren, it is almost midway of the 60 mile distance between Greece and Crete.

An authoritative source here said, "It is not unlikely that some sort of landing was made," but added he would not be surprised "if we never heard of it officially. There may have been something there our forces wished to destroy. The landing doubtless was of minor importance, corresponding to little more than patrol activity," he said.

Frequent Raids on Sicily.

The raid on Sicily started last Wednesday night, the air ministry announced today, when a small number of axis planes tried to pierce the defenses of Malta, the world's most bombed place.

Malta, which only recently received important reënforcements from a convoy which cost the British a cruiser and a small aircraft carrier and other losses, got into action at once. British night fighters swarmed over to Sicily, attacked a seaplane base, brought down one German seaplane and shot up a motor vessel from a low level.

On Thursday British Spitfires strafed the Sicilian airdromes, shooting up groups of soldiers, hangars, barracks, storehouses and railroad properties. Enemy planes were attacked in the air and on the ground.

The British claimed 14 axis planes destroyed for certain and said they probably destroyed or badly damaged many others.

Switch to Offensive Policy.

The attack by the RAF was interpreted here as a significant switch to an offensive aerial policy designed to drive the axis craft, based in Sicily, back to Italian bases.

The land situation in Egypt was reported to be static with British night patrols making deep sorties into the forward axis lines, presumably to sound out defenses.

The routine bombing of the battle area and the axis rear continued last night, RAF medium bombers on this occasion being accompanied by naval aircraft which attacked tanks, transport, and encampments.

TELLS OF AIR ATTACKS

BY LARRY ALLEN.

ABOARD A BRITISH DESTROYER OFF THE EGYPTIAN COAST, Aug. 30 (AP).—Attacked by more than 50 Stukas [dive bombers], this British destroyer fought her way back to port today under one of the fiercest, most intensive dive bombing attacks made upon any warship in this war.

Hundreds of bombs fell about her as Nazi and Italian planes, operating from bases near El Alamein, droned out of the blinding sun, dropping stick after stick of high explosives and machine gunning her decks. Even the Nazi shore batteries joined in the fight in an assault unparalleled in my experience since the bombing of the aircraft carrier Illustrious.

Shell Cases Litter Deck.

The officers and crew of the destroyer went thru one of the longest days of their lives, firing thousands of shells in a tremendous concentrated barrage trying to keep off the planes which zoomed down in spine chilling roars, peeling out of the sun in seemingly never ending formations. Empty shell casings by the hundreds littered the decks. Heavy lidded gunners, literally dead on their feet, kept up a constant stream of fire. These were hours of hell, but the destroyer steamed on.

From the bridge of the destroyer just before dawn Aug. 29 I watched her and other warships fling thousands of shells into Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's tank base, repair shops, and supply depots hidden in the desert two miles from the coast at El Daba.

[The German high command was quoted by the Berlin radio as saying a British destroyer had been badly damaged by bomb hits off El Daba and that 12 British planes were shot down. This may have referred to the same action.]

Bombard for 42 Minutes.

The entire squadron raked the area in a fanlike bombardment for 42 minutes. There was no answering fire from the shore.

At 4:57 a. m. this destroyer took the lead, pulling away from the shelling position. It was followed by the other warships. Just off starboard a short distance away was the Egyptian coastline and the Nazi air force. The moon disappeared and in its place rose a blood red sun.

I knew an air attack was inevitable.

Six o'clock—and out of the sun swooped six Nazi dive bombers. With a terrific screeching they made for our ship. Every gun aboard the destroyer and the other warships roared. But the Germans paid little attention to them or, for the remainder of the day, to the rest of the destroyers.

Coastal Batteries Join.

As the sun rose higher, the attacks were intensified. Always the bombers seemed to come out of the sun and always they were almost upon us before the gunners could get a good crack at them. German coastal batteries joined in the bombardment for a time.

All thru the forenoon and afternoon there were constant, weary shouts: "Stukas diving."

I thanked God that at least we had not run out of ammunition. If that ever had happened, the Stukas might have blasted us out of the sea like a sitting duck in a dime shooting gallery.

H. G. WELLS POPS UP WITH UNIQUE IDEA ON THE WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Among suggestions offered by military strategists, amateur experts, and authors today as the third year of the war neared a close was a unique proposal by H. G. Wells that the united nations declare war on the pope and bomb the Vatican.

"The present pope is in open alliance with the Japs," he wrote in the Sunday Dispatch, "and is the declared enemy of our ally Russia. Why not a 2,000 pound bomb on the Vatican garden as a warning now? What mysterious influence or what diplomatic imbecility is it that prevents this clear and decisive action?"

The Rev. Dr. John C. Heenan, in a "Catholic Reply to Wells," said that "with the exception of Jehovah's Witnesses, nobody now takes him [Wells] seriously when he talks about history or religion." The Rev. Dr. Heenan said the pope is the "enemy of the [axis] new order."

FRANCE ARRESTS 144 LINKED WITH 'COMMUNIST' RING

VICHY, France, Aug. 30 (AP).—Nantes newspapers published dispatches today describing the arrest of 144 persons, allegedly members of a "communist ring," and a large number of Spanish refugees.

Some of the persons apprehended were accused of having been responsible for terrorist attacks and acts of sabotage, "as well as many assassinations."

Police said they became aware of the existence of the band after the arrest of a Spaniard at a railway station. In his baggage they found quantities of illegal leaflets.

HANGS HIMSELF IN CELL.

Jerome Farrell, 24 years old, 2512 West 47th street, who was arrested at 3 a. m. yesterday for driving a car without lights, was found dead by hanging last night in a cell in the Brighton Park police station.

PETAIN WARNS OF 'TRAITORS'; PAST IS DEAD, HE SAYS

Dodges Political Issues in Speech to Legion.

Marshal Henri Petain.

The marshal's first political speech since he explained the circumstances of the appointment of Pierre Laval as head of the French government last April was made at an imperial soil mixing service on the second anniversary of the founding of the French legion, the only sanctioned political movement in unoccupied France.

He told the legionnaires that a "sect mocking the noblest sentiments pursues its labor of treason under cover of patriotism."

Silent on Politics.

While the marshal insisted the Vichy government will carry out its program of "revolution" despite all obstacles, he failed to elaborate on details of French domestic politics, his international policy, or the government's drive to send workmen to Germany. He also passed over the status of Dakar.

French papers published dispatches from Berlin charging that the United States fleet is preparing to take possession of Dakar, the Azores, the Canary and Cape Verde Islands as soon as the rainy season is past. The impression prevailed that Dakar and other French territories in Africa have assumed tactical importance because of Brazil's entry into the war.

[Rumors reported in Stockholm dispatches said Laval was about to agree to demands from Berlin to permit the stationing of a German division at Dakar to protect French territory from the Americans.]

"Too many Frenchmen look back and think it is still possible to return to the ease of former days, to the old régime," Petain said. "They include capitalists blinded by their selfishness, trusts greedy to get back their old privileges, elements passive if not openly hostile.

"Past Dead and Buried."

"A page in our history has been turned. The past is dead and buried. That is why my government and its chief, Pierre Laval, continue the national revolution, and will carry it on to completion despite obstacles.

"Much can be asked of a nation when the chiefs who guide it have faith in their mission. I have faith in the one that has been entrusted to me. I admit no doubts, no matter where they come from."

The soil mixing ceremony on Gorgovie plateau, where the Gallic chief Vercingetorix stood against Caesar in 52 B. C., consisted of placing handfuls of earth from all parts of French territory in a large urn which is to be preserved in a vault.

There was no soil from American or Japanese occupied territory, but De Gaullist French Equatorial Africa was represented by particles of earth taken from the leather jacket of a Vichy loyalist who escaped from a De Gaullist concentration center.

Soil from De Gaullist Syria was obtained from a Frenchman who had kept some as a memento from his child's grave.

U. S. 'LOSING WAR,' GEN. SOMERVELL WARNS INDUSTRY

New York, Aug. 30 [Special].—A warning to American industry that "we are losing the war" and that we will continue to lose it until we unite unselfishly, is sounded by Lieut. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, chief of the army's services of supply, in an article in the September issue of the Factory Management and Maintenance magazine.

Answering charges that the army was causing waste of critical materials by insisting on unnecessarily rigid specifications in contracts, Gen. Somervell said the army will save nearly 2 billion pounds of critical materials by substituting others. He said 400 million pounds of copper, "probably our most precious metal today," would be saved by using steel in cartridge cases instead of brass.

VESSEL IS SUNK IN CARIBBEAN; ANOTHER SAVED

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30 (AP).—The navy announced tonight the sinking of a medium sized 449 British merchant ship by an enemy submarine in the Caribbean about the middle of August. The navy said that survivors had been landed at a United States east coast port.

The navy also announced a medium size American vessel had been torpedoed but not sunk in the Caribbean early in July. Two crew members were killed.

Survivors said the submarine came to the surface and navy gunners fired a shot at it narrowly missing the U-boat's conning tower. A Canadian ship arrived 12 hours after the attack and towed the freighter to a Caribbean port.

Four hundred forty-nine vessels have been sunk in the western Atlantic area since Pearl Harbor, according to an unofficial tabulation by the Associated Press. Since then 2,395 persons are known to have lost their lives, 1,700 are missing, and 13,358 have been rescued.

TWO ROB HOTEL OF $890.

Two masked robbers entered a second floor office in the Maryland hotel, 900 Rush street, yesterday and robbed W. John Hill, 1729 North Mead avenue, the auditor, of $890, the hotel's bank fund.

Flyers Praised

Denver, Colo., Aug. 30 (AP).—American pilots have returned to battle "time after time to overwhelm the enemy against tremendous odds" in the Pacific war zone, and their stamina and courage are earning them the reputation of "the best pilots in the world."

This praise for United States flyers came from Lieut. Gen. George H. Brett, commander of the allied air forces in the southwest Pacific, on a surprise overnight stop in Denver.

Accompanied by nine officers and enlisted men, Gen. Brett left this morning for an undisclosed destination in the four motored Flying Fortress—the "Swoose"—which his aides said established a new Australia-United States speed record.

"The flying time was 36 hours and 10 minutes—better than the record of Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, and commercial flying times," said Maj. Frank Kurtz, pilot.

The trip from Brisbane, Australia, to the western coast of the United States was made about 10 days ago, Maj. Kurtz said.

BRAZILIANS RUSH TO ARMS; LABOR VOWS AID IN WAR

BY ANTHONY PATRIC.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Aug. 30.—Brazilians are firmly supporting their government in its war against Germany and Italy. So great was the rush of volunteers for the armed forces before the decree of a general mobilization that the war, navy, and air ministries reported no more volunteers could be accepted.

More than 30,000 attended a meeting promoted by undergraduates and heard Gustavo Capanema, minister of education, declare that the term "fifth columnist" no longer applies to Nazi sympathizers. "They are traitors and must be treated accordingly," he said.

One hundred thousand workmen pledged full support of President Getulio Vargas and will hold a huge street demonstration Sept. 2, and 35,000 clerks of Rio business firms and banks will gather at Guanabara palace to offer unconditional support to the government.

Women are joining the Red Cross and entering industry. The railroads have started to employ women conductors.

20 MILE AUTO JAM GREETS OPEN HOUSE AT NEW CAMP M'COY

Camp McCoy, Wis., Aug. 30 [Special].—A motor caravan of private vehicles, carrying nearly 50,000 spectators, jammed highways for a six hour period today as new Camp McCoy near Sparta, Wis., was opened to the public for the first time. Highways 20 miles from the gates were filled with cars awaiting admittance.

As the guests of Col. George M MacMullin, camp commander, the public saw this newest and largest army camp in the north central states which contains what is believed to be the largest artillery range in America.

Vehicles from many states, including sight seeing buses and taxis, traveled in such a steady stream that army officials did not allow any of the vehicles to stop. Military police guided the caravan thru the camp.

Only a few miles separate the huge new Camp McCoy from the old Camp McCoy, both of which were named for the late Maj. Gen. Robert B. McCoy, former commander of the 32d division.

Germans Claim Jugo-Slav Guerrillas Beaten in Battle

LONDON, Aug. 30 (AP).—The Berlin radio, quoting a DNB dispatch from military sources, said German and Croat troops had defeated Jugo-Slav guerillas in heavy fighting in western Bosnia last week. In one area north of the Sava river, the radio said, the Germans followed the guerillas into the mountains and captured 983 and shot 100, while Croat units killed 50 guerillas and captured 500.

JOHN E. WARNER ADVICE IS REAL HAIR INSURANCE.

Thousands of men have saved and improved their hair through the Warner method of treatment, but no case is ever accepted unless beneficial results are reasonably certain. There is never any charge for a private examination and consultation—and in every case honest advice is given as to whether or not treatment can be helpful.

Fees for treatment are very moderate and are payable as the treatments are taken—not in advance. There is a separate department for women.

Other Warner offices located in Boston, Pittsburgh, Hartford, Philadelphia, Detroit and Los Angeles.

BUILD AIR FORCE SECOND TO NONE, BROOKS ADVISES

Senator Talks at Opening of Peoria Airport.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 30.—Every moment during a blackout should be spent vowing and planning to make American aviation the most powerful in the world, Sen. Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.] declared today at the dedication of Peoria's new million dollar airport.

It was a scene for a color camera as 10,000 spectators milled about the hangars and dozens of red, yellow, blue, orange, and silver planes which flew here for the celebration, soared overhead. Proud Peorians said the field is better than any for a city of comparable size.

Sen. Brooks, who flew here from Chicago, said that the concrete ribbons of highways represented achievements of the past. Coming in to land, he said he realized that the broad concrete runways were the pattern which other Illinois cities must adopt to keep up with the times.

Sees Field as Beginning.

"We hope that this is but the beginning of the full development of aviation facilities thruout Illinois," the senator declared.

"The united nations were handicapped in their war effort because of their lack of supremacy in the air. The attainment of that supremacy was handicapped thru our failure to realize or believe that a battleship could be sunk by air power.

"The battle of the Coral sea demonstrated that warfare on the water would be determined largely by the air forces of the respective navies, for the ships which engaged in that battle were reported to be at least 80 miles apart.

"The difficulty confronting the American people today is the distance we have to travel with our men, our materials, and supplies to meet our enemy, plus the great problem of landing on enemy shores from the water in the face of a superior land based air force.

Supremacy Key to Future.

"Every phase of this war thus far indicates that the freedom of any country in the future will be based upon its supremacy in the air.

"As we prepare out here in the middle west to black-out our cities we should realize that we are blacking out the cities of liberty loving people in fear that the sons of the enemies of our civilization may fly thousands of miles to drop their bombs upon us from the sky.

"Every black-out moment should be a reminder of the necessity for every American citizen to contribute in every possible way to the training, the health, and the education of the youth of our country, to make the United States of America foremost among the people of the world in the air.

"Every black-out should remind us of the necessity of training from the cradle to the grave to make America foremost in the science of aviation.

Broader Education Urged.

"The combined courage and creative genius of youth and age can develop and produce the finest pilots and planes in the entire world.

"Every city and school should develop some phase of education that will contribute to the future power of America in the air. We must do it to win the war. We must do it to win the peace. We must do it to sustain the freedom we love."

Brooks has long advocated the use of such equipment as was displayed on this field today to form an aerial umbrella over submarine infested coastal waters. The many sportsman pilots and their planes are eager to be used, he contends. The navy department has been cool to his proposal, altho ship sinkings continue at a rate considered alarming.

The improved Peoria airport has 510 acres, in comparison to 640 acres for Chicago's expanded field. Two runways are 100 by 3,700 feet, one is 150 by 4,400, and the fourth is 150 by 4,000. The runways, of course, are smoother than Chicago's macadam.

Among the speakers today was Edward Bern, vice president of American Airlines, which is prevented by the war from using the airport. American and Chicago-Southern Airlines hold franchises to use the field.

"I'm glad to be here with Sen. Brooks," Bern said. "Like me, he was overseas in the last war, and I know he's the type of fellow who will help win this war."

U. S. FLYER IN RCAF KILLED.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 30 (AP).—Sergt. Billy Orin Gates of Loveland, Colo., was listed as dead by the royal Canadian air force today. Sergt. Gates previously had been reported missing. His next of kin was given as his father, B. R. Gates, Loveland.

Two Drown as Boat Upsets

Mrs. Winnifred Ator, who drowned in Big lake, Wisconsin, in a boating accident. One of her daughters drowned and her husband and another daughter were rescued.

BLIND MAN'S BID FOR JOB IN TANK AT FRONT FAILS

Altho turned down as an army tank driver because of his blindness, George M. Harper Jr., 24 years old, 1300 North Menard avenue, is determined to do something to help the war effort. Harper now has gone to Morristown, N. J., to obtain a Seeing Eye dog and train for a job in a war industry.

Harper wrote the army that he understood a tank driver worked from directions by an observer, without seeing outside. He believed his reactions in such a job would be quicker than those of a man who could see. He offered to pay his travelling expenses to any place the army chose for a test.

Col. Frederick M. Thompson, director of the armored force school tank department at Fort Knox, Ky., explained that tank drivers sometimes steer with the flaps open and that they must read instrument panels and sometimes steer by compass. A periscope is used only when the flaps are closed, he said. Col. Thompson commended Harper as having "the spirit that will make our arms successful."

SALT ON FIRES TO HELP PROVIDE SMOKE PALL IN CAMOUFLAGE TEST

Common salt and several other substances will be thrown on fires in a south side area of 50 square miles tomorrow night as 5,000 janitors create a smoke pall in an air raid camouflage test, Ralph H. Burke, deputy civilian defense coördinator for the Chicagko metropolitan area, said yesterday.

Several substances will be tried out, Burke said, to determine which creates the smoke most desirable for camouflage. The salt, he said, creates a white smoke.

In addition to the smoke ceiling, various other camouflage tricks will be tried out from 11 p. m. to midnight. The test area extends from Pershing road to 103d street, and from Western avenue to the lake.

Block captains, air raid wardens, and a few assistants will assist with the camouflage, which will be studied from the air by OCD workers. Burke said there will be little, if anything, to be seen from the ground.

ONE DEAD, ONE WOUNDED.

George Washington Eddins, colored, 39 years old, was shot to death, and James Eckfort, colored, 38, was wounded in an altercation last night at a rooming house in which they lived at 3117 South Wabash avenue.

DEDICATE NEW LOOP WAR BOND CENTER TODAY

A new war bond sales and war equipment display center of the Illinois War Savings staff at 72 West Adams street will be dedicated at noon today with a parade, speeches, and entertainment. Among those who will take part are Mayor Kelly, Gov. Dwight H. Green, Brig. Gen. Thomas Hammond of the Chicago ordnance district, and C. Y. Freeman, president of the Commonwealth Edison company which is donating 9,000 feet of display space.

The parade will start at 10 a. m. from Wacker drive and Michigan avenue and will include Red Cross units, Boy Scouts, members of the Women's Defense Corps of America, the Commonwealth Edison Drum and Bugle corps, and patriotically decorated trucks, buses and taxicabs. John G. Gallaher, deputy administrator of the Illinois War Savings staff, will accept the center for the treasury department.

James Cagney, movie star, will arrive in Chicago tomorrow to start a three day bond selling tour. Cagney will appear at more than 20 rallies to assist in selling 3 million dollars in war bonds. He will attend a million dollar war bond dinner in the Ambassador East hotel on Thursday night.

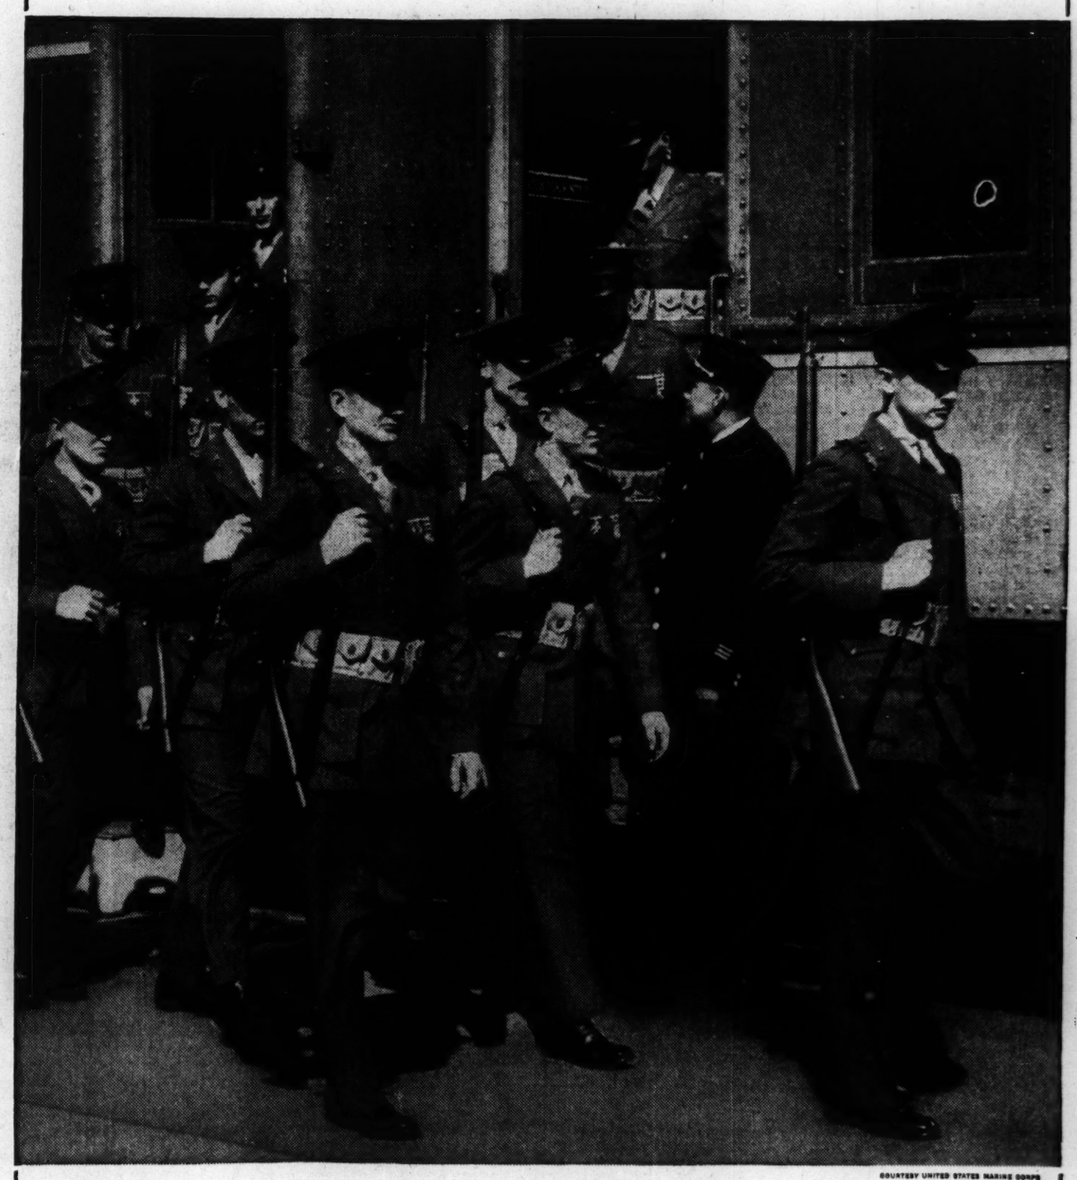
LABOR DAY is no holiday in moving troops!



COURTESY UNITED STATES MARINE CORPS

It takes a lot of sleeping cars to move them, and the only place Pullman can get additional cars, these days, is to take them out of civilian service whenever they are needed.

Therefore, please make your plans for Labor Day—and every other day—with these facts in mind:

1. In wartime, moving troops comes first.
2. Frequently, troop movements are made on emergency notice—with hundreds of sleeping cars assembled into troop trains almost overnight.
3. Most troop movements are for long distances—1500 miles or more—tying up Pullman cars for several days on each movement.

At all times, as many Pullman cars as can be spared from military duty will be made available for civilian travel.

Sometimes—and the Labor Day Holiday will very probably be one of those times—this car supply won't be enough for all who may want to travel.

If it isn't—if you have to change your plans because you can't get Pullman accommodations on the train you want to take—please remember this:

Some soldier is asleep in the bed you might have had.

SHANGRI-LA. Mythical taking-off place of the U. S. Army Bombers that raided Tokio—and since applied as a designation for secret U. S. Air Force operations anywhere.*

Little did the author realize when he wrote the famous best-seller, "Lost Horizon", that its fictional locale, "Shangri-la", would conveniently hide either the base of our recent military flying operations against Japan or the whereabouts of part of The Great Silver Fleet . . . the converted DC3s operated by Eastern Air Lines for the Air Transport Command.

However, that's where many a Silverliner is today—carrying cargo under contract to the U.S. Army. And what it's doing in "Shangri-la" is, of course, a military secret—yet part of the story can now be told . . . and but goes to prove that truth is stranger than fiction!

The title for this new epic of the air very well might be "Found Horizon"—for that describes just what has happened. The action of the Army Air Forces amazed the world with an entirely new vista of war transportation . . . fast hauling of military cargo and personnel via commercial planes to anywhere on the globe—with clock-like precision in scheduling and in flying operations.

Already hundreds of thousands of tons of materiel and supplies have been flown from the U.S.A. to the farthest corners of the world . . . from the Arctic to the Tropics!

The U.S. Army found Eastern Air Lines ready and willing to take over its share of the greatest mass air transportation job in history—in addition to maintaining necessary service over its domestic routes! Due to the importance of air transportation to the nation's war production program, it was vital for The Great Silver Fleet to do both—and, no surprise but to the Axis, Silverliners were equal to the task.

Later on when such information will be of no service to the enemy, it will be possible to answer fully the question, "What's your Silverliner doing in 'Shangri-la'?" It must be a comfort to you now, though, to know that the space you recently may have given up is being occupied . . . by 1st priority fighting equipment—items upon which the very success of our troops may depend.

Look at that as a direct contribution to winning this war! And remember, the sooner it's over, the sooner we'll be able to give you unlimited air service again!

OPA Orders Rubber Heels Bear 'V for Victory' Mark

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30 (AP).—A victory trademark goes on the nation's rubber heels Tuesday, the Office of Price Administration announced today. "V—for Victory" must be stamped on all rubber heels which now are being made from scrap rubber of the type collected in salvage drives, the OPA said.

MAYWOOD FLAGS KEEP FAITH WITH SONS ON BATAAN

Avenue Dedicated to 192d Tank Battalion.

Recent victories in the Pacific may have begun to replace earlier war setbacks in the public mind, but out in Maywood hearts and thoughts still remain with the fighting men of the 192d tank battalion lost on Bataan peninsula in the Philippines.

Yesterday, faithful to their vow not to forget, relatives of men now in Japanese hands dedicated an "avenue of flags," in the 1900 and 2000 blocks of South 2d avenue. Mrs. Oscar Heilig, president of the American Bataan clan, led the simultaneous raising of 15 flags. Heads were bowed and a bugle sounded "Salute to the Flag."

Tells History of Flag.

Clarence P. Hale of Maywood gave a résumé of the 166 year history of the American flag and added: "We're conducting this ceremony in heartfelt memory of the men who fought on Bataan. But we're not living in the past alone. We're also conducting the ceremony in honor of the men who are yet to meet the enemy. Maywood shall be heard from again."

Meanwhile, several thousand Americans of Lithuanian ancestry gathered at Oak Grove, 119th street and Archer avenue, to celebrate Chicago's fifth annual Lithuanian day. Each bought at least one war stamp as the price of admission.

Sell War Bonds.

Keynoting Lithuanian day, dedicated to the reconfirmation of democratic principles, was the sale of war bonds. Returns late in the day indicated a $250,000 goal was reached.

A parade, led by army and navy color guards, and including the drum and bugle corps of the Darius-Girenas post of the American Legion, almost 500 American-Lithuanian mothers of men in the armed services, Red Cross units, and service men home on furloughs was held earlier in the day.

J. Raymond Nunan, representative of Donald M. Nelson of the War Production board, and army, navy, marine, and treasury department representatives spoke.

Representatives of Polish clubs and lodges attended a Victory rally sponsored by district 20 of the Polish-American council in the auditorium of Holy Trinity church to observe the third anniversary of the Nazi invasion of Poland. County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki presided.

NAVY AIR CADET DRIVE IN AUGUST 200 UNDER QUOTA

Naval aviation cadet enlistments in the Chicago area fell nearly 200 short of the August quota of 1,000 flyers, the naval aviation cadet selection board reported yesterday.

Naval officers said that with school starting in September many young men eligible for the navy air force are expected to give up their summer jobs and enlist in sufficient numbers to make up the August deficiency.

A special squadron of cadets known as the Calumet Area Falcons will be inducted today at Hammond High school, Hammond, Ind. The 35 members were recruited in Hammond, East Chicago, Whiting, and Calumet City.

PAMPHLET ASKS GRAND JURY QUIZ OF DIES GROUP

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30 (AP).—Under the heading "Investigate Martin Dies," the National Federation for Constitutional Liberties urged a grand jury investigation today into activities of the Texas Democrat who heads a special house committee investigating un-American activities.

The federation issued a pamphlet accusing Dies and his committee of having, "thru a campaign of diversion and suppression, obscured the activities of the Nazi network in the United States."

Thru his secretary, Robert E. Stripling, Dies said he had no comment.

CHICAGO YANKS IN ENGLAND ON W-G-N PROGRAM

Voices of American doughboys in England, including three Chicagoans, were heard in a half hour program, the "American Eagles Club," over W-G-N and Mutual stations yesterday. The three soldiers from Chicago were Capt. James Fleming, whose wife lives at 9551 Winston avenue; Pvt. Nicholas Plastina, who sent a brief message to his mother at 4424 Iowa street, and Pvt. Mickey Baskin, whose voice was heard by his mother who lives at 3509 West 12th place.

Hat Is Nest for Wounded Bird

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Saved by Police

A baby sparrow, which apparently had left its nest too soon, was discovered by Woodlawn police yesterday in a street sweeper's cart in an alley behind their station at 64th street and Harper avenue. Its mother was watching it anxiously from a tree and bringing it food occasionally. Fearing the sweeper might separate the sparrows when he came for his cart or that a cat might eat the little bird, the policemen built it a new nest from an old felt hat. They suspended the hat in the tree and put the baby sparrow inside. They gave it a slice of bread, too, and the baby and its mother seemed pleased.

Phelan, State Legion Head, Will Be Honored Tonight

Francis E. Phelan of Winnetka, who was elected state commander of the American Legion last week, will be honored tonight at a civic celebration in the Matz community house in Winnetka. Gov. Dwight H. Green will be one of the speakers. William H. King Jr., past commander of the Winnetka American Legion and former president of the Chicago Bar association, will be toastmaster. Phelan is a member of the Winnetka village board.

NEW SUBURBAN GROUP WILL AID AIR CADET DRIVE

A citizens' Oak Park-River Forest committee has joined the Air Force Sponsors of Chicago in their drive to recruit 20,000 men from the Chicago area for the Army Air Cadet Examining board, it was announced yesterday.

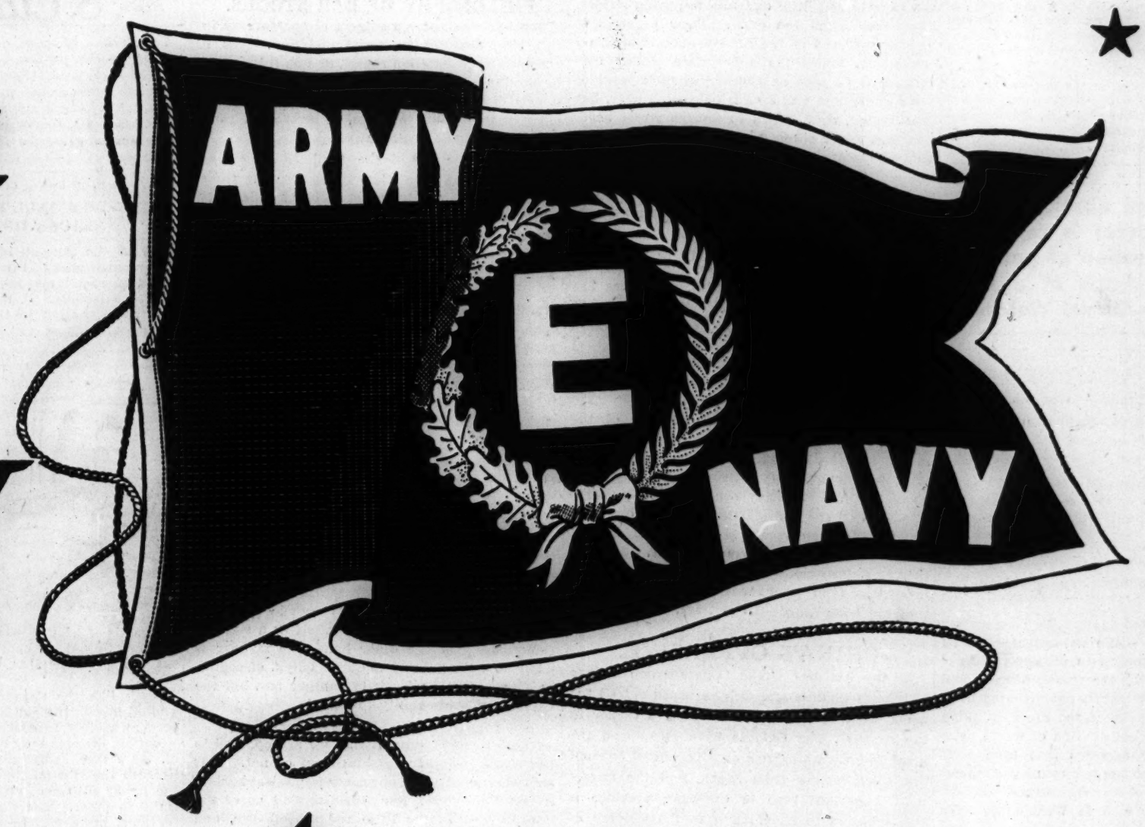
All Out FOR VICTORY AT Firestone



To the men and women of the Firestone organization, whose loyalty, skill, and efficiency have won the nation's highest industrial tribute, we extend our sincere appreciation of the fine spirit and whole-hearted cooperation which merited these Army-Navy Production Awards.

To our fellow Americans, we of the Firestone organization affirm that we regard this high honor as a challenge for the future as well as a reward for the past. It shall serve as a continuing inspiration to all of us to strive for increased quality and quantity of production in further contribution to the war effort and to final victory.

Harvey S. Firestone, Jr.

WAR DEPARTMENT
OFFICE OF THE UNDER SECRETARY
WASHINGTON, D. C.

August 1, 1942

Mr. Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., President
Firestone Rubber and Latex Products Company
Fall River, Massachusetts

Dear Mr. Firestone:

This is to inform you that the Army and Navy are conferring upon your organization the Army-Navy Production Award for high achievement in the production of war equipment.

The award consists of a flag to be flown above your plant, and a lapel pin which every member of the Firestone Rubber and Latex Products Company may wear as a mark of their inspiring contribution to the future of our country.

The accomplishment of the men and women of your organization during the past year has set a high standard of practical patriotism. The Army and Navy are confident that their record of accomplishment in the future will raise that standard even higher.

Sincerely yours,

Robert P. Patterson
Under Secretary of War

Mr. Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., President
Firestone Tire & Rubber Company
Firestone Park Plant
Akron, Ohio

Dear Mr. Firestone:

This is to inform you that the Army and Navy are conferring upon the Firestone Park Plant of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company the Army-Navy Production Award for high achievement in the production of war equipment.

This award is the nation's tribute to the spirit of patriotism and production effort of the Firestone Park Plant and its employees. The men and women of that plant have every reason to be proud of their great work in backing up our soldiers on the fighting fronts.

In conferring this award the Army and Navy will present a flag to be flown above the plant, and will give to every member of that organization a pin which they may wear as a symbol of their permanent contribution to human freedom. This symbol is accorded only to those plants which are exceeding all production expectations in view of the facilities at their command.

I have full confidence that your present high achievement is indicative of what you and your employees will do in the future.

Sincerely yours,

Robert P. Patterson
Under Secretary of War

The entire and absolute freedom of the press is essential to the preservation of government on the basis of a free constitution.—Daniel Webster.

THE SUIT AGAINST AP.

We don't suppose there is any one in the United States so naïve as not to know that the action brought by the attorney general against the Associated Press had its origin in spite and anger. The true purpose of the litigation is to show the newspapers of this country that they will take orders from Washington if they know what is good for them. They wouldn't take orders at the recent meeting of the Associated Press in New York and accordingly the complaint has been filed.

The attack is directed against the entire press of the United States—little newspapers as well as big ones. It is intended to disrupt the Associated Press and destroy the values, tangible and intangible, which its members have created in it. The great work of the Associated Press in taking the leadership in the distribution of world news from foreign private agencies that used their facilities, often, to damage our country is apparently disregarded as of no consequence.

In their anger the men in Washington have not hesitated to do a very serious injury to the United Press and the International News service, both of which have long records of usefulness. They are written down as negligible, which they are not. Certainly if the government's allegations are true, these competing services cannot long survive if any one now using them may obtain Associated Press service for the asking. If the government is correct in its contentions, and if it should succeed in its suit, the result of this attack on alleged monopoly would be the destruction of competition in the distribution of news and a complete monopoly for the AP.

In that sense this suit may be regarded as a threat to freedom of the press. In another and more important sense, the threat is the gravest which has arisen since the first amendment was adopted. Here we see the full force of government brought to bear with a view to demonstrating to all editors and all publishers that they must do what Washington tells them to do—or else.

The constitutional guarantee exists primarily to protect those who see the need to criticize public officials and expose administrative derelictions. This action is calculated to intimidate and punish such independence of mind and expression.

THE TRIBUNE is a defendant in a suit alleging monopoly. It is not our purpose to try the case in these columns but we feel justified in calling attention to the fact that we have had many competitors possessing membership in the Associated Press but at no time in our long career have we ever bought one of them. The Times, the Record, the Herald, the Inter-Ocean, the Chronicle were among the papers that couldn't make the grade in a freely competitive market. They folded up. Their memberships lapsed for that reason and only that reason.

SMOKES FOR YANKS.

American soldiers in Egypt have been buying, at 22 cents a pack, cigarets supplied by the "Smokes for Yanks" collections in this country. The cigarets were paid for in this country, and it was assumed by all who contributed that the soldiers would get them for nothing.

An explanation has been offered which leaves a great deal still to be explained. Somebody [unnamed] running one of the post exchanges in Egypt decided that he ought to offer a wider selection of cigarets than was available in the stocks on hand. Accordingly, the post exchange traded some of its cigarets for some other brands in the Smokes for Yanks shipments.

Maybe that makes sense, tho it is difficult to see why the Smokes for Yanks weren't given away as long as they lasted. That's what the donors wanted, and there is no reason to suppose that the soldiers in Egypt felt differently about it. We can't believe that there would have been any serious complaint from the men if the canteens or the mess sergeants had distributed free cigarets. At any rate, the military authorities in Cairo acknowledge that a mistake was made and say it will not be repeated.

The price of 22 cents is explained as in accordance with an agreement between our army and the Egyptian government, which provided that the post exchanges would not sell below the wholesale price in Egypt. Presumably that stipulation was intended to prevent the bootlegging of American cigarets in the Egyptian markets, but whoever made it doesn't seem to have been much concerned for the soldiers. Tax-free American cigarets could probably be sold profitably at a dime a pack in Egypt, and 15 cents would certainly cover all the costs and then some. We should think that the soldiers who are risking their lives for the protection of Egypt would deserve consideration from the Egyptian government.

Readers of this newspaper contributed generously to the Smokes for Yanks collections. On their behalf we feel justified in calling upon the authorities in Washington to determine whether there have been abuses, and if so to correct them.

THE HIGH SEA NAVY AND THE HIGHBALL NAVY.

Sen. David I. Walsh of the naval affairs committee reported the other day that within less than two years the navy has handed out 55,668 commissions to civilians, or more than five times the entire number of officers in the peacetime navy. In the same period commissions of equal rank were granted to only 2,966 regular navy men with years of training and experience.

No less than 49,379 men from civil life have been commissioned ensigns and lieutenants, junior grade, since Sept. 16, 1940. A luckier group of 4,878 received full lieutenancies, and 1,411 new lieutenant commanders blossomed out. It is unknown how many of these even underwent a sketchy training course, but the guess would be that it was not a large number.

A great many of the new officers are doctors and some more have other professional qualifications but it has been notorious that young men with the "right" family and appropriate social graces have had little difficulty acquiring stripes. Thus they avoid the draft. Their progress is usually reported in the society news, which, on the whole, seems the appropriate place. One surmise is as good as another whether most of these gentlemen will ever see seagoing duty, but Washington, New York's 90 Church street headquarters, and stations in cities remote from the wild waves are well stocked with them. A great many of them seem to be press officers, but they do not soil their cuffs at their jobs, and if any battle actions are reported, a working newspaper man usually turns in the story.

If the Japs turn up at tea dances, soirées, or in cocktail lounges or the better night clubs, we should quickly overpower them. Our lilies are well gilded and there is sufficient gold braid to overawe the most presumptuous enemy gate crasher. Nor does water intimidate our land going navy. They have satisfied themselves that it can be swallowed when diluted in a highball without any deleterious effects.

What the qualified officers and men of the regular navy, fighting their battles in the Coral sea, at Midway, and off the Solomons, or making their hazardous patrols in the Atlantic, may think about the highball navy can easily be guessed. The WAVES are now starting training, however, and we will soon have available a sufficiency of officers frank enough to wear skirts. It would then seem possible to introduce the highball navy to waters even stronger than those to which they are accustomed—the salt sea, no less.

CHINA'S OFFENSIVE.

In the last few weeks Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese armies have wiped out all the gains made by Japan in its offensive earlier in the summer. The Chinese have recaptured the great Chuhsien airdrome only three and one-half hours by bomber from Japan, and the second most important base in Chekiang province is also reported to have fallen to the Chinese at Lishui. The third "bomb Japan" base in east China was seized when Chiang's armies drove into Yushan a week earlier.

The Chinese offensive has also regained 220 miles of the Chekiang-Kiangsi railroad, almost half of the 450 mile line which was entirely in Japanese hands at the end of June, while the Chinese are driving hard toward the big Jap base at Nanchang in Kiangsi province.

The Chinese are modest about their success, professing themselves mystified as to how they managed to roll ahead so quickly. They say that the Japs may have found themselves overextended and decided to tighten up their lines. This, however, does not account for evident Japanese nervousness. The other night, for instance, the Japs blacked out Shanghai for the first time in many months. They seem to have bombers on the mind. It is, therefore, all the more strange that they surrendered the bases from which their own country can be bombed without the fiercest kind of struggle. The most obvious explanation is that the Japs have been forced into a retreat because of a shift in the balance of air strength.

The American air force in China is not great, but in recent weeks enough planes have been flown in to give the Chinese ground troops an air complement that they have never had before. American air attacks confronted the Japs with difficulties which were not comprehended in their previous experience, when the planes were all their own. This support must have greatly heartened the morale of the Chinese soldier, accustomed for so many years to being bombed and strafed from the air without any means of replying.

It may be that more important than the accession of air support to the Chinese cause has been a reduction in Japanese air strength much greater than may have been suspected. The Japanese used their planes prodigally in their conquests in the winter and spring, and large numbers of them were lost then. Ever since, our forces have been cutting away at the Jap air force. The Flying Tigers in Burma knocked down an astounding number. Hardly a day passed but Jap planes were destroyed on the ground by bomber raids, and the combat toll in the southwest Pacific has been high. Most formidable of all, probably, have been the losses inflicted thru the destruction of the Jap carrier force.

It has never been generally appreciated to what an extent Japan depended upon the naval air arm. The navy for years used Chinese cities as targets to perfect the skill of its flyers. A great proportion of Japanese attacks were launched from carriers stationed off the China coast. Whatever Japan's land air force may amount to, it may not be an exaggeration to say that the bulk of the air missions were carried out by naval flyers. Now, with the Jap carrier force enormously reduced, and with all planes gone with the sunken carriers, the Jap army air force may not be up to its tasks.

Japan hasn't the productive capacity to make good such air losses as it has suffered, nor has it the facilities for training great numbers of pilots. There is hardly a limit on the planes and pilots that America can produce, and, if the surmise is true that depleted air strength accounts for Japan's present reverses in China, the outcome of the Pacific war should not be too long in doubt.

Editorial of the Day

A WRETCHED SHOWING.

[Rockford (Ill.) Register-Republic.]

County Clerk Margaret Short makes an amazing disclosure. Of about 20,000 persons otherwise eligible to vote in the county outside the city limits of Rockford, only 265 have registered.

Under the law passed by the last session of the general assembly, voters may register at their convenience any day except Sunday in the county clerk's office. Every facility to make registration easy has been provided, and the office is open at reasonable hours.

The amazing indifference of rural residents generally to this opportunity for registration to some extent may be attributed to the fact there are to be two days, Sept. 19 and Oct. 6, when they can register at the usual polling places. But many who procrastinate now will fail to register on either of these two days, thus adding their bit to community indifference to one of the most sacred and essential responsibilities of citizenship.

Imagine how the peoples of other nations now caught in the grip of tyranny and oppression would treasure the opportunity of being able to register so that they could vote into office candidates of their own choosing! That very thought should stir indifferent citizens from their lethargy.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

PHILOSOPHY OF BAR STOOLS.

The bar stool, now a subject of controversy in this city, deserves its social historian. Was it ordained by prohibition repeal, or was it invented by master minds in the retail liquor trade? Was it part of the camouflage which transformed the old style saloon into the so-called tavern or a sales device to entice female patronage?

* * * *

We ought to have a ready answer for these questions, but the thing crept up on us insidiously while we were trying to figure out whether the depression was going up or down. Our guess is that the stool was a spontaneous evolution from sedentary habits of the populace, acquired by sitting in speakeasies. During the nightmare of prohibition, a joint with a bar would be making open confession of its illegal purpose, while any dark backroom containing tables with gingham covers could pretend to be a restaurant. Moreover, there was a physiological necessity for sitting—one shot of bootleg liquor might blow the customer right off his pins.

* * *

Sitting drinkers are, in general, more profitable to the joint than standers. A sitter will continue to say, "Lesh have 'nuzzer round" long after his legs have gone out of action, but the stander is likely to decide that it's time to go home when he feels his knees caving in. The sitter develops a tendency to take root, and the hours he can spend at a table, when well saturated, are astonishing. If he had to sit at his desk in the office that long he would regard himself as a slave of capitalism. On the other hand, the stander is likely to walk out any minute. Often, of course, he staggers half a block to another bar, but the exercise aids his ability to take it.

* * *

These remarks suggest that we are opposed to bar stools, whether co-educational or not. This attitude is only one of our many prejudices against so-called progress. Bar stools remind us of the dunce's seat in the little red schoolhouse, and we have even observed choice specimens, with grown men sitting on them, that resembled a high chair with a tray to hold Baby's bowl of mush.

HEARD IN THE GRANDSTAND.

Now Lizzie, please don't make me laugh!
D'you mean to say that big giraffe
That's pitchin' now looks good to you?
He looks as if he'd break in two!
As for his pitchin' I would say
That his best bet is pitchin' hay!
I've known that bimbo many moons!
Say, he can't pitch for pickled prunes!
And kid, believe me, he's so slow
That when he runs the lilacs grow
Beneath his feet. And if he'd hit
The ball just once I'd have a fit!
For when he bats he's pitchers' meat;
His battin' eye is in his feet!
I think his father owns the team.
O, he's a corker! Stay, don't go!
The game's just gettin' good, you know!
What! You don't tell me? Holy mack!
D'you mean that he's your brother Jack?

W. L. Hudson.

History of the Gold Coast—XII.

On Aug. 18, 1835, about 5,000 Pottawatomies and their brethren assembled at the council house on Rush street, across from the Lake House, in accordance with the Treaty of 1833, and staged their formal farewell ceremonies before leaving for their new home in Kansas. A war dance was held, in which about 800 took part. They were naked except for breechclouts and their faces and bodies were hideously streaked with paint of various colors.

At a signal the warriors started west on Kinzie street, leaping and brandishing war clubs and spears, now jumping forward, then backward, now left and then right, and howling and shrieking all the while. The rest fell in behind and they slowly made their way to the bridge over the north branch, turned south on the west bank to Lake street, where they crossed the south branch and made their way to the fort, where they were taken in hand by Bob Kinzie and others appointed to lead them on the "longue traverse" to the west. With them went the few remaining French-Canadian traders.

The old Chicago, the first Chicago, the settlement of the Indian, French, and British days was gone forever. The Yankees had arrived, and having taken the situation in hand, were prepared to make the best of it. Captain John.

FOR AN AIR CADET.

"Star-light, star-bright,
First star I've seen tonight. . . ."
Shine with a protecting light
On Allied warplanes in their flight.
Up above the world so high,
He is learning how to fly,
Learning of a cloud's formation,
Learning how to help his nation.
Star-light, star-bright,
On Allied warplanes in their flight.
And after we have won the fight . . .
Send him back, just as he went,
That he might know the sweet content
Of lips that softly tantalize
Brushing star-dust from his eyes!

Essay in Run-on Rhymes.

There's a difference in the people that each day one meets—going back and forth upon the city streets—some will show an interest in your smile as you pass by—and sort of flash an answer from the corner of their eye—while others so self-centered will calmly stare you down—and follow up that haughty glare with just the slightest frown.—Pretty girls a-tip-toe pass with clear-eyed gaze—just enough of casualness to cause you some amaze.—But I confess the smile I like and often put to test—is that telegraphic humor smile with which some men are blest. WHEN THE GALL BLADDER KICKS UP.

EVEN tho the gall bladder is but a small part of the entire digestive tract, it may stir up considerable trouble. It has been well said that irritation in this region is our most common cause of chronic dyspepsia.

In addition, about 25 per cent of all adults will harbor gallstones. But this does not mean that illness is in prospect or that the slightest discomfort will be experienced. Tens of thousands of healthy persons go thru life hoarding these concretions without being aware that they possess them.

Much like the appendix, which is a blind pouch, the gall structure may become acutely inflamed. In such a situation, distress may be complained of. As a rule, symptoms appear just beneath the ribs on the right side of the upper abdomen, radiating to the right shoulder. There are many exceptions, however. In fact, the seat of pain may be the gastric area—the pit of the stomach. If the inflammation is less violent there may be merely a feeling of fullness or heaviness.

Occasionally, these manifestations call for rest in bed and plenty of fluids, altho little or no medicine need be given by mouth. Sedatives are usually advised to allay restlessness. Under this plan the acute phase may pass within a few hours. Should the white blood cells increase in number, however, surgery may be demanded.

While a single bout may end the matter for years to come, if not for a lifetime, there may be many return engagements. Sometimes the episodes settle down into periodical "spells" with vomiting, nausea, or jaundice.

In such circumstances, will surgery be required? Yes and no. If there is no obstruction, consuming meals with a substantial amount of fat [cream] will cause the sac to contract. Again, bile salts may exert a beneficial influence. Many of those so afflicted will be found to lack hydrochloric acid in the gastric juice and this substance must be supplied. If, despite the best efforts of the physician, the seizures continue—lasting for hours or even days—the services of a skilled surgeon may be essential.

But long before a trip to the operating room is decided upon, skilled medical management should be given a chance. The sufferer may be kept in reasonable comfort with good hygiene, regular repasts, adequate sleep, proper elimination, and plenty of fresh air.

The victim dare not gorge. He must eat his food slowly. A bland regimen should be followed. For the most part, four or five smaller snacks will be better handled than the routine three. Every 5 to 10 days the menu can contain fatty material such as cream, olive oil, and egg yolk. If he is definitely overweight, a number of pounds may be dispensed with. Furthermore, pus pockets about the teeth, tonsils, or within the sinuses may be eradicated.

The least we can do is to study every case of indigestion with the behavior of the bile apparatus clearly in mind. If diet and better hygiene will solve the problem, well and good. Usually we encounter very little difficulty in obtaining X-ray pictures of the region which will tell us accurately the state of affairs.

A tiny opening in the spinal column which should be occupied by bone. It is a "born with" defect.

Test Your Horse Sense By Dr. George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 28.

1. You should except to find how many tenacles on an octopus?
   4 6 8 10.
2. A United States army officer with a single gold oak leaf on each shoulder, would be a Captain General 1st Lieutenant Major.
3. Which one of these is designated as a base metal?
   Iron Platinum Gold Silver.
4. Where should our flag be displayed on the platform with reference to the position of the speaker?
   On the right On the left Behind him In front of him.
5. Which one of these bears its young alive?
   Salmon Catfish Turtle Whale.
6. The terminal syllables "logy", mean "the science of," and are frequently used in English, as in geology, which is the science of the soil or rocks. Try to match the various sciences named in the left hand column below with the fields to which they refer. You are entitled to one point for each correct judgment.

[a] Entomology	[v] The science of behavior.
[b] Physiology	[w] The science of shells.
[c] Psychology	[x] The science of insects.

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

DIVE BOMBER RIDE.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—My 19 year old nephew in the marine air corps writes of his first ride in a dive bomber: "At 7,500 feet, the pilot was over the target. He opened the bomb flaps, checking the flight. The ship nosed over and we went down and down, at what seemed to me like 550 miles an hour, straight down. The air was straining every part of the ship. I started to scream to relieve the pressure in my ears. The earth came rushing up at us, the pilot released his bomb, and we started to pull out of the dive. As we started up, the pilot asked if I saw the first bomb hit. I said I couldn't make it out. We made three more dives, making better hits each time, and when the last bomb was used we lit out for home."

I wonder if young men physically able wouldn't like this? Chicago needs 2,000 new navy flyers by the end of the coming month. It takes courage, and Chicago boys have plenty. E. W. HALL.

CREDITING BOND PURCHASES.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—We would like to clear up the point which was made in this morning's Voice of the People by "Buy More Bonds." The writer stated that he was buying bonds on the salary allotment plan and "while our salary checks are made payable from local banks, our war bonds are mailed from the home office in an eastern state, that state taking credit for the sales."

We would like to state very positively that sales of E, F, and G bonds are credited to the state and county in which the purchaser resides. In other words, whether buying thru a bank, corporation, or postoffice, arrangements have been made by the treasury department to see that credit is given the city, county, and state which is shown as the residence of the buyer.

Now that each county and state has been given a quota, it should be made clear that the allocation of proper credit is considered important by the treasury department, and that every means possible is taken to see that credit is given where credit is due, regardless of where the bonds are bought or mailed from.

VOICE OF YOUNG AMERICA.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—I have a son in the marines and would like to quote a sentence from a letter of his: "Sometimes I get lonesome for home, but when I realize there is a war on, that lonesome feeling goes away and I am O. K. again. I am doing my bit for my country and I feel proud." I think he speaks for young America. T. K.

NEGLECTED SOURCES OF SCRAP.

Great Lakes, Ill., Aug. 25.—Robert W. Wolcott's letter in today's Voice was of interest to me for two reasons: [1] We have been so persistently radio bombarded with "save your scrap" and "an old garbage pail will make a bayonet and save a soldier's life," etc., etc., and [2] returning last week-end from a brief navy leave and passing thru Two Rivers and Manitowoc, I was impressed by the blocks and blocks of abandoned street railway rails lying in safekeeping partly covered with asphalt. I also noted at the south end of Manitowoc a junk yard crammed with obsolete jalopies. The question that immediately arose was why, if there is such an acute shortage of scrap, are such obvious sources ignored while we hunt for old garbage pails? Surely enough volunteer labor could be recruited in either of these towns to tear up these rails and fill the holes. And surely the existence of that lucrative junk yard is not a secret with me. And if this situation exists here there must be a multitude of others. The family that is diligently unearthing minute scrap contributions doubtless wonders, as I do, why there is no more apparent system or thoroness in this treasure hunt. CURIOUS.

AID TO NAVY RECRUITING.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—On behalf of Adm. Randall Jacobs, the chief of naval personnel, we acknowledge THE TRIBUNE'S generous response to his recent letter in relation to the navy's advertising and recruiting program. We particularly realize the great value of the extra support you are now devoting to the campaign. The additional time and effort expended on the navy's recruiting program by your newspaper represents a valuable patriotic contribution to the war effort, and you may be sure that the navy appreciates this cooperation.

PRESIDENT POLK.

Mishawaka, Ind., Aug. 26.—In THE TRIBUNE'S leading editorial today it is stated, "No southerner has been elected President on the Democratic ticket since Andrew Jackson more than a hundred years ago." Just to keep history straight, James K. Polk, a native of North Carolina, was elected on the Democratic ticket from Tennessee eight years after Andrew Jackson's final term. W. E. G. FORD.

PEACH PITS AGAIN.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—Why not start a "peach pit drive" as in World War I.? I understand the kernels can be converted into cyanide very easily. K. W.

WARNING BELLS.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Church bells ringing in the wee hours of the morning disturb war workers and others who claim the right to be allowed to get their rest. I suggest a city law against these noises, at least for the duration. Why not draft into service the bells on all churches as air raid warnings? They would be much better than some of the black-out warnings heard last Wednesday night. R. N.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

ROOM RENT.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a rooming house and a couple owes me $22 rent and telephone bill. They have owed this since June 19. They moved out but left their belongings—clothes, etc.

1. Can they take them without paying?
2. How long must I keep them before I can sell them? R. B.

1. You have no right to hold their belongings without court proceedings unless they have been left with you for the express purpose of security.

2. A creditor does not, merely by virtue of being in possession of goods belonging to his debtor, have any technical right to sell without legal proceedings, altho the right of set-off would give him a qualified immunity if he sold without right. Hence, unless the value of the goods is small compared with the debt, so that they are not likely to be reclaimed, a safer course is to proceed under the 1921 statute which gives any person who has expended labor or material on a chattel, or furnished storage at the request of its owner, a lien analogous to the familiar mechanic's lien on real estate. Such lien ceases at the expiration of 60 days from delivery of the goods to the owner, unless claimant files in the recorder's office a lien notice. Such lien may be foreclosed by ordinary chancery proceedings or by advertisment and sale, the first step of which is to deliver to the sheriff a certified copy of the claim for lien, indorsed with request for foreclosure. Adverse parties may within 10 days deny the lien, in which case foreclosure in chancery must be begun within an additional 10 days. If no denial, the sheriff advertises and sells.

If your principal object is to get the goods off your hands, it is simpler to ask a storage warehouse to call for them for the owner's account. The warehouse can sell for its charges without bothering you further.

A 1941 act [Ill. R. S., Chap. 82, Sec. 47 a. to f.] authorizes after 6 months a sale by the holder on 10 days' notice without intervention of the sheriff, where the value is less than $25, but since publication of the notice in a newspaper of general circulation is required, it is not clear that the new proceedings will be any cheaper than those under the 1921 statute.

NO BUGLE WAKES WAVES AT DAWN! GONG DOES TRICK

Today It Summons Them to First Classes.

BY MARCIA WINN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Northampton, Mass., Aug. 30.—No bugle shatters the tranquil dawn on the campus of Smith college here to arouse the girls at America's first naval training college for women.

Lieut. Comm. McAfee.

No, sir! The WAVES are awakened by the sound of a gentle gong. They get up at 6:15 on weekdays and at 7:05 on Sunday, and they have 45 minutes to get dressed, have their rooms inspected, go thru Gene Tunney's bustle removing setting up exercises and march thru the neat, clean streets of Northampton to Wiggin's tavern for breakfast.

For three days America's first WAVES, all officers with probationary commissions, have been lolling around at leisure, playing the piano, cuddling into Duncan Phyfe chairs, and learning to sleep in double decker bunks. Tomorrow with the arrival of Lieut. Comm. Mildred H. McAfee, president of Wellesley college and director of the WAVES, they settle down to a routine they must follow for the next four weeks.

Lights Out at 10 P. M.

That routine begins at 6:15 and ends at 10 p. m. with taps, again sounded with a musical gong. From 9 a. m. to 11:50 they attend classes. From 1:10 p. m. to 2:45 they drill on the athletic field. From 3 to 6 p. m. they attend classes. From 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. they study. Lights must be out by 10 each night except Saturday, when the curfew sounds at midnight.

Their class work during these weeks will be a fast, breezy indoctrination into naval subjects which ordinarily take up as much library space as Dr. Eliot's five foot shelf. They will study the organization of the navy, afloat and ashore; navy personnel; naval administration [regulations and military law]; naval correspondence; type of ships and aircraft; naval history; naval customs, traditions, usage, and etiquette.

When this is all over, they will be accorded a privilege ordinarily given only to high ranking officers who attend the naval war college for tactical training: They may write a letter of criticism to the navy department.

Ladies Are Scholars.

The first list of WAVE officers' names bristles with letters of learning. As a result, when the WAVES' advisory council of women, a group of seven educators headed by Dean Virginia C. Gildersleeve of Barnard college, arrives tomorrow to help inspect this organization which they have helped create, every one should feel right at home. With at least five deans of women's colleges in the corps, it will be old home week.

Reporters, informed that the WAVES will be restricted to shore duty within the limits of the continental United States, asked Capt. Herbert W. Underwood, school commandant, why a course in types of ships and aircraft is included in the indoctrination curriculum. He replied that the navy wants its women to be able to hold their own conversationally.

Problems Not Social.

It is quite doubtful, however, if a problem such as this comes up, as a WAVE probably will get no nearer to an admiral than to a ship. The 1,000 officers and 10,000 enlisted men which the navy hopes to have on active WAVE duty as soon as possible will be used in the fields of general communications and clerical duty, with a few in very, very junior administrative positions.

None will be doing this before February, for the WAVES here now for preliminary training school will be used to man the other training schools, and the first batch of officers for shore duty proper start school here Oct. 6 and will not emerge for four months.

At all times they are subject to navy regulations and discipline, for the WAVES are in the navy.

13 SEARCHLIGHTS FOR ARMY SHOW STIR RAID FEARS

Send Up Huge Beams to Spot Aircraft.

Thirteen army anti-aircraft searchlights swept Chicago's skies last night, bringing many telephone inquiries to THE TRIBUNE from persons who suspected that an air raid might be impending.

The lights, it developed, were a curtain raiser for the Army War show, which opens an 11 day run in Soldiers' field Wednesday night. The searchlight crews were scattered thruout the city, demonstrating how they locate enemy planes in night raids.

Lights Mounted on Trucks.

The lights are of 800 million candle power and are mounted on trucks with trailers carrying their power plants.

Many persons watched the soldiers who will take part in the show arrive in two special trains yesterday morning at the Illinois Central station near the field. Thousands more looked on from passing automobiles and from Burnham park as the soldiers pitched their camp southeast of the stadium.

Col. Wilson T. Bals, commander of the show's task force, suggested that Chicagoans wait until Wednesday to visit the camp. Each day of the show, from 2 to 4 p. m., the camp will be open to visitors. He also said visiting officers and men will be busy with rehearsals and other preparations until the show opens.

The soldiers, equipped with the latest military implements, will stage the nearest thing to actual warfare the city ever has seen.

Nearly All Branches in Show.

Virtually all branches of the army, except parachute troops, will be represented in the show. There will be flame throwers, tanks, tank destroyers and all sizes of machine guns. A medical detachment will display its work and Negro horsemen from the famous 9th cavalry at Fort Riley, Kas., will appear.

Army airplanes will maneuver before the show, then provide the "targets" for anti-aircraft guns as searchlights spot the planes.

In the finale, as all the weapons are brought into use, a "Japanese" position will be stormed and captured by the troops. The realism of this battle scene, in which only the bullets are absent, has won high praise in every city in which the show has appeared.

Army authorities predicted that if good weather prevails a total of a million Chicagoans will attend. The show has played before more than one and a quarter million persons in eight cities. Audiences at its 42 two hour performances have averaged 30,000 persons.

Welcome Staff Today.

Col. Bals and his staff will be officially welcomed by Mayor Kelly and others in a program at 10:30 a. m. today on the La Salle street side of the city hall. The war show band and three companies of riflemen will pass the reviewing stand.

Net proceeds will be turned over to the Army Emergency Relief Fund. Tickets may be purchased in advance from show headquarters, 22 East Randolph street, at the Tribune Public Service offices, or from drivers of the Chicago Motor Coach company.

44 TIN DEPOTS SET UP TO AID CAN COLLECTION

Supply May Be Hauled to Locations Listed.

Forty-four tin can depots have been established over Chicago to supplement the collection system used in the tin salvage campaign, William L. McFetridge, Chicago area salvage director, announced yesterday.

McFetridge said the depots are placed to serve 46 of the city's 50 wards, and that his office hopes eventually to have 10 such depots in each ward. Housewives may take their tin can accumulations to these depots.

City Trucks Collect Cans.

City garbage trucks collect tin cans weekly, if the cans are placed in a separate container alongside a garbage can, but he said private scavenger trucks have not augmented the city collection to the extent desired.

Chicago, McFetridge said, has turned in only 370 of the 1,100 tons of tin cans asked of it during August.

Business establishments willing to serve as tin can depots should volunteer the service by calling his office, McFetridge said.

List of Depots.

The War Production board announced scrap producer merit awards for scrap dealers in the nation's drive to ship 17 million tons of iron and steel scrap to mills by Dec. 31. To earn an award a dealer must ship a third more scrap during a month than his monthly average in the first six months of the year.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

A. G. H. writes: I am 33, married, no children, 3-A. I have recently completed a course in aircraft engine precision inspection. Prior to this I completed a 72 hour C. A. A. ground school course and about 85 hours of flight. Can you suggest how I can best put this training to use?"

ANSWER: The navy has a number of openings as flight instructors for men between 21 and 35 who have had approximately 80 hours of certified solo flight. Men having to their credit an excess of 140 hours of certified solo flight will have an opportunity to qualify for officers' commissions. Men who are accepted for these commissions will be assigned to civilian pilot training centers for 8 weeks of refresher courses in ground and flight work. Men having any one of the following qualifications may be considered for A-V [T] commissions without being required to take the civilian pilot training: [1] 300 hours of flight time in planes rated above 100 horse power, [2] a commercial license, [3] a secondary C. P. T. instructor's rating. See the Naval Aviation Cadet board, room 302, 141 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago.

C. D. McD. asks: "Is it contrary to army regulations for privates, noncoms, and commissioned officers to wear a mustache or goatee?"

ANSWER: The regulations are silent on the matter. Presumably the commanding officer of each post is supposed to keep the situation under control.

J. B. asks: "Can a coast guardsman having nearly completed basic training get into the navy or marine air corps either as a flyer or mechanic? I have one year of college credits."

ANSWER: If you think you would make a good flyer or a good mechanic, you might discuss your possibilities with your commanding officer.

P. F. B. asks: "Does the navy have a 'blimp' school? Where is it and what does one have to have to get in it?"

ANSWER: The navy has a "lighter than air" school at Lakehurst, N. J. If you are interested in applying, go to the Flight Selection board, Board of Trade building, Chicago, or inquire at any navy recruiting office about the navy V-5 program. Applicants must be citizens of more than 10 years' standing, be between 18 and 27 years of age, have 20/20 vision, and be in good physical condition.

G. T. writes: "I am a British subject but have applied for my citizenship papers, and it will be the proudest day of my life when I become a citizen of this country. I would like to get in and do something connected with boats, but I am afraid my present status will prevent me from doing anything."

ANSWER: The first thing you should do is to get proper clearance papers from the Bureau of Navigation office, 610 South Canal street, after which you will be in a position to contact the Lake Carriers' association at 9251 South Chicago avenue and accept a job on any of the lake boats needing help. With these papers you also could apply at any sea port for a job on ocean going vessels. Any noncitizen may volunteer for service thru his draft board, and the waiting period for citizenship papers is shortened to six months.

More Officer Candidates Leave for WAAC Training

CHARGES UNIONS CUT TIRE OUTPUT BY SLOWDOWNS

Production Called Less than Before Dec. 7.

Akron, O., Aug. 30 (AP).—Akron is the "worst labor spot in the country," William O'Neil, president of the General Tire and Rubber company, charged today. He blamed labor with cutting the rate of tire production "to less than it was before Pearl Harbor."

"And don't kid yourself," he said, "until this situation is licked, we won't be able to produce the tires the army needs."

Elaborating on management's grievances, O'Neil said "production now is geared to 85 per cent of the capacity of the slowest man in the plant.

Want 4½ Hour Day.

"The union leaders smack down any worker who turns out more than his minimum quota. They actually broke the nose of a fellow who earned just five cents more than the regular hourly rate.

"Now they're trying to cut the six hour day down to four and a half hours. We're paying them $7.93 and $8.80 for six hours, and they want the same pay for four and a half."

O'Neil said there had been three wildcat strikes in his plant since Pearl Harbor—"not against us, mind you, but against decisions of the union."

O'Neil's attack was met with quick denials and countercharges from a spokesman for the CIO United Rubber Workers of America, bargaining agent in Akron's four big tire companies.

Nonsense, Spokesman Says.

"We don't deny that labor is discontented," said the spokesman, "we don't deny there have been a good many wildcat strikes, but if management would coöperate, we could solve the situation. They're taking advantage of our no-strike pledge. As for production being less than before Pearl Harbor, that's nonsense."

The union spokesman said labor was anxious to keep its no-strike pledge, and was keeping it, squelching wildcat strikes with all possible speed.

"If only they'd put us on hourly rates, it would help, he said. "They keep making new time studies and monkeying with the rates and it keeps the men in a turmoil."

POLLEN BREEDER HOLDS PLACE AS PUNCTUAL PLANT

No one ever has called ragweed a comforting plant, but even its most cordial haters—the hayfever sufferers of the nation—agree that for punctuality it's a hard bit of flora to beat.

Every year, within a day or so of Aug. 31, the lowly ragweed gives out with might and main, and the pollen count soars from a mere 50 or 60 to as high as 1,000 granules per square yard.

Take yesterday, for instance. From the 69 granules registered on Saturday, the count jumped to 549 in a matter of hours. And because of army regulations, hayfever sufferers can't even be comforted by being told whether a pollen-dispersing breeze is on the way. Yessir—k'CHEW!—the ragweed's on time again this year.

OBITUARIES

Miss Mary C. Marre.

Miss Mary C. Marre, whose father was a hunting companion of "Long John" Wentworth, one of Chicago's early mayors, died Saturday night in Wesley Memorial hospital. Miss Marre was 88 years old and a resident of Chicago for 86 years. During her girlhood her family lived at what is now the intersection of Wells and Quincy streets, where one of the neighbors was William Pinkerton, the detective. Miss Marre lived until recently at 6256 Winthrop avenue. The funeral will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow from the chapel at 6216 North Clark street to St. Gertrude's church.

Edward Haight Younglove.

Edward Haight Younglove, manager of the steel industries division of the Johns-Manville corporation, died of a heart attack in Union station yesterday on his return from a vacation in Canada. He was 63 years old, and lived at 465 Skokie road, Glencoe. Mr. Younglove had been with the Johns-Manville company 40 years. He leaves his widow; a daughter, Mrs. William W. Steffey, and a son, Edward T. Younglove. Services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Wednesady in the chapel at 1567 Maple avenue, Evanston.

Mrs. Lena Miller.

Mrs. Lena Miller, 71 years old, 6425 Maryland avenue, mother of Assistant Corporation Counsel Milton H. Miller, died yesterday. She had operated a woman's apparel shop at Roosevelt road and Halsted street for 25 years. She leaves in addition to Attorney Miller, a daughter, Mrs. Mildred Levinthal, and two sons, Harry and Michael Ruderman, by a former marriage. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 5145 Broadway.

Mrs. Elizabeth Schulz.

Mrs. Elizabeth Schulz, 81 years old, a resident of Chicago all her life, died unexpectedly yesterday at her home at 6660 Northwest highway. A daughter and two sons survive. Services will be held at 3 p. m. Wednesday in the chapel at 6754 Northwest highway.

Mrs. Juanita E. Stoos.

Mrs. Juanita Engstrand Stoos, of Naperville, formerly public librarian in Pekin and De Kalb, died last night in Westlake hospital, Melrose Park. She is survived by her husband, Joseph, and two children.

William Ryan Jr.

Danville, Ill., Aug. 30 (AP).—William Ryan Jr., United States marshal for the eastern district of Illinois, died today of a heart attack.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[THE TRIBUNE will pay $5 for each question submitted by a reader and used by THE TRIBUNE. Today's question was submitted by Helen Morrow, 840 Forest avenue, Evanston.]

THE QUESTION.

Has the regular purchase of war bonds increased your monthly savings or would you have saved as much anyway?

WHERE ASKED.

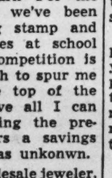
Mallers building, 5 South Wabash avenue.

THE ANSWERS.

Dave M. Newman, watchmaker, 1827 South Avers avenue—This year I managed to save all the extra change in my pockets. I never realized before how much it would total. It used to be easy to spend it, but now with a stamp book it is a big inducement to save more than ever.

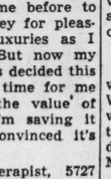
Barbara Dutton, student, 619 North Grove avenue, Oak Park—In the years before, an allowance has always been something to spend. Now for the first time I've managed to save a big percentage of it. All the other girls are saving for bonds, and we feel better than if our bonds had been given to us.

Paula Simanski, student, 311 North Grove avenue, Oak Park—For the first time we've been conducting stamp and bond drives at school and the competition is just enough to spur me up to the top of the list. I save all I can while during the previous years a savings account for students was unknown.



Leo M. Greenfield, wholesale jeweler, 4222 Grenshaw street—Without a doubt I know my savings are bigger this year. I've had savings accounts before, but it has always been too convenient to draw the money out of the bank when I wanted extra money. I wouldn't think of cashing a bond.

Betty Romilly, student, 1127 Augusta street, Oak Park—It has never bothered me before to spend money for pleasures or luxuries as I pleased. But now my mother has decided this is a good time for me to learn the value of money. I'm saving it and am convinced it's for a better purpose.



J. Kercher, physiotherapist, 5727 Winthrop avenue—Last year there weren't as many constant reminders around to save money. Now I can't turn around but what some one is pinning a corsage of stamps on me and makit easy for me to save my money. I know I've saved more this year.

NEUROTIC CASES DECLINE IN WAR, EXPERTS REPORT

The number of neurotic disturbances among civilians in belligerent countries has decreased since the present war started, speakers participating in a University of Chicago Round Table broadcast on "Health in Wartime" asserted yesterday. The decrease was attributed to improved diet and other health habits among civilians.

Participating in the broadcast were Dr. Dean Clark, chief of the medical emergency division of the United States Public Health service; Dr. Russell Wilder, head of the Mayo Foundation's department of medicine; and Louis Wirth, professor of sociology at the University of Chicago.

The experts said armed service personnel was in better health than during World War I., but said 400,000,000 man days were lost among civilian workers last year, 64 times the total lost because of strikes. Many war workers are not physically fit to give a maximum effort, they said, because of a shortage of doctors and hospitalization facilities in boom towns near new war plants.

Sect Member in Evanston Booked on Handbill Charge

Harry Nelson Dague, a member of Jehovah's Witnesses, a religious sect, was booked by Evanston police yesterday on a charge of distributing handbills in violation of an Evanston law. Sergt. D. Lowell Petersen booked Dague for appearance at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow before Chief Justice Harry H. Porter of Evanston Municipal court. Dague, a former trucking contractor, is 44 years old and lives at 337 Wesley avenue, Evanston.

DR. S. W. RANSON, N. U. NEUROLOGY PROFESSOR, DIES

Head of Medical Research Institute Since 1928.

Dr. S. W. Ranson.

Dr. Stephen Walter Ranson, professor of neurology and director of the Neurological Research institute, Northwestern university medical school, since 1928, died yesterday in his home at 180 East Delaware place. Dr. Ranson was 62 years old.

He was born in Dodge Center, Minn., Aug. 28, 1880. He was graduated from the University of Minnesota in 1902, took a master of science degree from the University of Chicago in 1903, and a doctor of philosophy degree from the same school in 1905.

Began as Anatomy Instructor.

While attending the University of Chicago, Dr. Ranson was a fellow in neurology from 1904 to 1906 and in 1907 he received his degree in medicine from Rush Medical college. After an internship of a year in the Cook County hospital, Dr. Ranson joined the faculty of Northwestern university as an instructor in anatomy.

Dr. Ranson became head of the department in 1912 and served for 12 years, when he left to head the department of neuroanatomy and histology of the Washington university medical school in St. Louis, where he remained for three years, returning to Northwestern in 1928.

Author of Textbook.

Dr. Ranson was the author of the textbook, "The Anatomy of the Nervous System," now in the seventh edition. He also was a contributor to numerous scientific journals and a member of the editorial board of the Archives of Neurology and Psychiatry.

He was a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and a member of the American Neurological association, the American Association of Anatomists, which he headed from 1938 to 1940, and the American Physiological society.

Son Is Physician.

Dr. Ranson is survived by his widow, Tessie; a son, Capt. Stephen W. Ranson, a member of the Northwestern university medical unit stationed at Fort Custer, Mich.; and two daughters, Mrs. Margaret Lacy, and Miss Mary Ranson.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in the Fourth Presbyterian church. Interment will be private.

TRIM LEGS HAVE NO STANDING AS 2D CLASS MAIL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30 (AP).—A picture of a girl with pretty legs may brighten a magazine occasionally but it isn't what the post office department wants to carry at a loss of $108,144,994 a year. And that, officials said today, is why you see fewer and fewer magazines fronted with risque pictures and filled with more of the same.

In the past two months, the department has barred the second class mails with their low rates to more than 20 periodicals. Fred A. Ironside Jr., right hand man to the postmaster general, explained that what appears to be a crusade against obscenity in the mails is nothing more than observing the provisions of the second class mail privilege established by congress more than 50 years ago. The law applies to periodicals "originated and published for the dissemination of information of a public character, or devoted to literature, the sciences, arts, or some special industry."

Ironside said the department was insisting that the special privilege of fast handling and low cost should be available only to those publications which satisfied that specification.

RED PARACHUTE STIRS ALARM IN AURORA REGION

Farmers raised an alarm yesterday when they saw a small scarlet parachute floating down from the sky three miles north of Aurora. Small boys made a search for the parachute, which they found on the farm of John Hau. They telephoned Aurora police, who notified Sheriff Marcus W. Damisch of Kane county. He informed the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and then went out to investigate.

Sheriff Damisch found no saboteurs or explosives when he examined the parachute. Instead there was a weather recording device, with a tag attached which said the finder would receive a $1 reward for returning the device to the University of Chicago institute of meteorology.

Dr. H. P. Byers, executive secretary of the institute, said that the institute sent up two balloons carrying recorders yesterday and that the weather bureau sent up one. Happens every Sunday, he explained.

At Memorial Rites

[Acme Telephoto: Cabled yesterday from London.]

The duchess of Kent with the Rev. Digby Creighton in the town of Iver for memorial services for the duke yesterday.

LONDON, Aug. 30 (AP).—The duchess of Kent, heavily veiled, attended a memorial service today for her husband at the little parish church of Iver near which the Kents lived. The duke was killed last week in a plane crash in north Scotland. The church was crowded by villagers. The service, originally planned for yesterday when the funeral was held, was postponed at the request of the duchess so she could attend.

WOMAN HURLED TO DEATH WHEN CAR OVERTURNS

Mrs. Ann Hutchinson, 33 years old, 391 Addison street, Elmhurst, was killed Saturday night when thrown from her automobile as it turned over on a gravel road near Aurora. George Stran, 35, of 178 Houston street, Batavia, who operates a gasoline station in Aurora, was driving the car.

Edward Yudgentis, 28, of 300 Midland avenue, Rockdale, south of Joliet, died in St. Joseph's hospital Joliet, of injuries suffered when he was struck by a motorcycle on U. S. route 6, south of Joliet city limits. The motorcycle riders, William Hostert, 23, and his wife, Laura, 20, of Lemont also were injured and are in St. Joseph's hospital.

Mrs. Stella De Witt, 58 years old, 9740 Avenue L, died early today in the South Chicago hospital of injuries suffered last night when she was struck by an automobile at 98th street and Avenue L. The driver was Maurice J. Karpen, 34, of 1624 Farwell avenue, manager of a plumbing supplies house.

Andrew Hice, 46, of 2633 East Railroad avenue, Evanston, died in St. Francis hospital, Evanston, after he was hit by an Evanston Bus company bus at Howard and Clark streets. Robert Calkins, 25, of 7642 Bosworth avenue, was the driver.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 466 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of this number, 360 lost their lives in Chicago where 13,647 others were injured.

CHICAGO-FLORIDA TRAIN DERAILED; COOK INJURED

Clinton, Ind., Aug. 30 (AP).—The southbound Dixie Flagler, a streamline train operating between Chicago and Miami, Fla., was derailed near here today.

Amos Weeks of Jacksonville, Fla., second cook in the diner car, was scalded when he was pinned beneath a steam table.

The eight passenger cars and rear truck of the locomotive went off the rails but stayed upright and the tender overturned. C. H. Fisher, superintendent of transportation, said the cause of the accident had not been determined.

Engine, 12 Freight Cars Derailed South of Elgin

The locomotive and 12 cars of a westbound freight train left the main track of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad a mile and a half south of Elgin yesterday. Railroad officials said the locomotive struck a derailer about a city block from a trestle spanning the Fox river. Because of the mishap an eastbound passenger train was ordered held, and its passengers taken by bus to nearby Spaulding and entrained for Chicago. Several boxcars were smashed but no one was injured.

GRAHAM TAYLOR, SOCIAL WORKER AND WRITER, DIES

Secretary of Group That Studied 1919 Riots.

Graham R. Taylor, well known as a civic worker both in Chicago and in New York City, died yesterday in New York after an operation. He was 62 years old, and a son of Graham Taylor, founder of the Chicago Commons, pioneer social service settlement. He had been associated with the Commonwealth Fund in New York for the last 20 years.

Former Editor of Survey.

After his graduation from Harvard in 1903, Mr. Taylor worked for a time as a newspaper reporter, then became editor of The Commons, the settlement publication, in Chicago. He also served as editor of the Survey, a social work journal. Some of his written studies, notably those concerning industrial cities, have been published in book form.

In 1916 Mr. Taylor went to Russia as a special assistant to the American ambassador. Later he served in the consulate in Moscow and was there during the bolshevik revolution. In 1919 Mr. Taylor was appointed by former Gov. Frank O. Lowden as executive secretary of a commission to study the causes of the 1919 race riots in Chicago. The report of his committee is still called one of the finest on interracial relations.

Sister Heads Chicago Commons.

Mr. Taylor is survived by his widow, a son, a daughter, and two sisters, the latter Miss Lea Demarest Taylor, head resident of Chicago Commons, and Katharine Taylor, director of Shady Hill school, Cambridge, Mass.

The funeral will be held in New York Wednesday.

CHURCH BURGLAR SEIZED BY USHER, A POLICEMAN

Policeman Joseph Newman of the Central station is an usher at St. John's Catholic church, 100 West 18th street. He was walking into the rectory office yesterday with the collection from the 11 a. m. mass when he noticed a man hurrying out of the office of the Rev. Thomas J. Reed across the hall.

Newman stopped the man, who said he was looking for something to eat. Suspecting the visitor was a burglar, the policeman telephoned for a patrol wagon.

The man fled. Newman, who was carrying his revolver, pursued him up and down alleys for more than a mile until he caught the fugitive, who identified himself as Joseph de Poalo, 21 years old, of 341 East 124th street, New York. Newman sent him to the lockup after finding in his possession Father Reed's watch and $5 which the priest said had been taken from his coat, which was hanging in the office.

POLICE RESCUE 3 FROM CAPSIZED BOAT IN RIVER

Approximately 400 spectators looked on yesterday afternoon as three persons, whose 16 foot home made motor boat had capsized, were rescued from the Chicago river at Dearborn street by a police inhalator squad and a fire department rescue squad.

Laddie Bakalik, 1906 South Loomis street, owner of the boat, suffered a cut in a shoulder. The other occupants, George Veseley, 1520 West 18th street, and Mrs. Bakallk, were not injured.

Veseley, who is crippled and whose crutches were not recovered from the water, clung to the boat while Mr. and Mrs. Bakalik worked it toward the shore. The rescue squads then pulled them out of the water. The craft was righted by crewmen of the city fireboat, the Fred A. Busse.

9,500,000 BRITONS PAY OVER BILLION A YEAR THRU INCOME TAXES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 30—Sir Kingsley Wood, chancellor of the exchequer, speaking this afternoon at Dundee on Britain's financial front, said the weight of taxation today was such that if the government took away every penny of income above $8,000 from its people the annual gain to the exchequer would only be about $120,000,000.

The budget he said had increased by four million the number of persons of the smaller income groups liable to direct taxation, and approximately 9½ million wage earners are paying $1,080,000,000 annually thru income tax.

Sir Kingsley estimated that the number of persons with net incomes between $4,000 and $8,000 had fallen since 1938 from 155,000 to 105,000, those between $8,000 and $16,000 from 56,000 to 30,750, those between $16,000 and $24,000 from 12,000 to 1,170 and those with incomes of $24,000 or more from 7,000 to 80. Small savings mounted to $6,000,000,000 since the beginning of the war. Unsolicited gifts totaled $80,000,000, of which $60,000,000 had come from governments overseas.

Dan Cupid Has a New Helper: It's Uncle Sam

BY JUDITH CASS.

DAN CUPID seems to have no better assistant these days than Uncle Sam. Each week-end brings its quota of engagement announcements and as each additional batch of recruits goes marching off to the service new diamond rings appear on the fingers of "the girls they left behind."

From Greenwich, Conn., comes word of the engagement of Miss Nancy Hope Lawder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lawder of that city, to Robert Eugene Field, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roswell F. Field of Winnetka and a grandson of the late Eugene Field, the poet. Miss Lawder, who with her parents formerly lived in Evanston and Highland Park, attended Greenwich academy and was graduated from Rogers hall in Lowell, Mass. She is a granddaughter of Mrs. Florence M. Thorsen and the late James C. Thorsen of Highland Park. Young Mr. Field, a graduate of the Loomis school, attended Dartmouth college and the University of Chicago. At present he is in training in the south with a parachute regiment.

Helen Hardin Engaged to Lieut. Donald Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marks Hardin of Evanston announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen, to Lieut. [j.g.] Donald Wrigley Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bell Clark of Evanston. Lieut. Clark, who has been on duty with the Pacific fleet until recently, has been home on a visit, and the wedding will take place during his next leave. Miss Hardin studied in Tours, France, and was graduated from Duke university. Her fiancé attended the Admiral Farragut school and Hamilton college.

At a tea yesterday in their home in Hinsdale Mr. and Mrs. Russell C. Eustice announced the engagement of their daughter, Ethel Marie, to John D. Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Young of Cortland, N. Y. Miss Eustice was graduated from the Chevy Chase school and at present is attending Chevy Chase Junior college in Washington, D. C. Her fiancé, a Colgate university graduate of the class of 1941, received his master of science degree in public administration this summer at Syracuse university. He plans to leave shortly for a southern post to enter an officers' training school.

Mrs. Cholmeley-Jones Rogers and T. E. Schulte Jr. to Wed.

At a small cocktail party on Friday Mrs. Cholmeley-Jones Rogers of Winnetka and Theodore Edward Schulte Jr. of Glencoe told a group of their friends that they are to be married on Oct. 3 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Barrett of Winnetka. Mrs. Rogers, the former Dorothea Cholmeley-Jones of Philadelphia and New York, was divorced from James Harriman Rogers in 1937. She has two sons, James Jr. and Edward Sidney Rogers II. By a former marriage Mr. Schulte also has two sons, Theodore III., who at present is here on a 10 day leave from his classes at Princeton, and David Robert Schulte. Mr. and Mrs. Schulte Sr. live in Scarsdale, N. Y.

At the same time that Mr. and Mrs. John D. Pickett of Highland Park are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Grace Jean, to Byron Cole Howes Jr., they are telling of plans for the young couple's wedding on Sept. 12 in Highland Park. Miss Pickett attended the Principia in St. Louis and at present is studying at Northwestern university. Her fiancé, whose parents also live in Highland Park, was graduated from Principia college. He recently resigned from a position with a west coast aircraft company to enlist in the army air corps.

Frances Ellis Betrothed to Homer A. Haswell.

Mrs. William Henry Ellis of Wilmette announces the engagement of her daughter, Frances, to Homer A. Haswell, son of Clayton W. Haswell of Madison, Wis. The news was told on Saturday night at the wedding reception of Miss Ellis' sister, Elizabeth Jean, and Robert Kenneth Vernon, who were married in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church of Wilmette. Miss Ellis was graduated from Carleton college, and her fiancé received his degree from the University of Wisconsin. Before he reported for service here with the navy he was in business in Chicago.

The Rev. and Mrs. Herbert W. Prince will be returning soon from New Hampshire, where they have been vacationing on their farm at Tamworth since July and where their daughter, Margaret, was married on Saturday to Donald Grant Morgan. The ceremony took place at 5 o'clock in St. Andrew's-in-the-Fields, Mount Whittier, N. H. The bride's father, who is rector of the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest, performed the ceremony, and fortunately Ensign Edward Prince was able to obtain leave to attend his sister's wedding. Mr. Morgan, who received his Ph. D. degree this summer at Harvard university, will take his bride to Hartford, Conn., to live. He is on the faculty at Trinity college there.

Sennott-Maloney Wedding to Be Performed Tonight.

"An Irish sixpence in her shoe" will be part of Miss Catherine Maloney's wedding ensemble tonight when she becomes the bride of Ensign Robert F. Sennott, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Sennott of Evanston. For the traditional "something old," the bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Maloney of Evanston, will carry the lace bridal handkerchief of her grandmother, Mrs. Thomas A. Burke. Dr. and Mrs. Burke are here from Cleveland, O., for the 8:30 o'clock ceremony in St. Mary's church in Evanston, as are the bride's aunts, the Misses Gertrude, Bertine, Lucy, and Genevieve Maloney, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Burke Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Allan W. Fritzsche have come from Elyria, O. A small reception at the Shawnee Country club will follow the ceremony.

The newly married junior George Gaylord Olmsteds are settled in an apartment in Excelsior Springs, Mo. Mr. Olmsted and the former Gwendolyn McAlvany, daughter of Mrs. Charlotte McAlvany of North Damen avenue, were married on July 31 in the Methodist church at Excelsior Springs, with the Rev. Roland Boone of Central college in Fayette, Mo., officiating. Mr. Olmsted's marriage to the former Jayne Trude ended in divorce earlier this year.

Volunteer Helps Service Men with Travel Problems

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Women in War Work . . . . By India Moffett

All America is on the move, those who work with the Travelers' Aid society are certain, and any one who has traveled recently, or even gone into a railroad station, feels sure of the same thing. The women case workers and volunteers of the Travelers' Aid do much to make traveling more comfortable and pleasant for thousands of travelers, including men in uniform. Eleven thousand persons ask information or help from the offices of the organization each week-end. These are strategically placed in the six main railroad stations, two bus terminals of the city, the USO club at 131 South Wabash avenue and the Chicago Service Men's Center at 176 West Washington street.

Volunteers receive intensive training before they are permitted to act as case aids. They meet trains, help children change trains, and give inexperienced travelers aid. Volunteers also act as hostesses in the four lounges situated in the stations for the use of troops in transit and other men in uniform or members of the merchant marine. These women are chosen carefully and have had special training so that they can adapt themselves to the moods of the service men in the lounge.

For instance, sometimes a hostess stays quietly in the background and other times she must be ready to become a gin rummy partner or even a seamstress if a newly acquired chevron needs some stitches. After several hundred men have been in a lounge, the hostess must become a good housekeeper and straighten things up.

Volunteers at information and direction desks are bombarded with queries about ways and means of spending an entertaining and interesting week-end in the big city. There are people in all walks of life and with all sorts of tastes to be advised, and it takes cleverness in sizing up people to give proper assistance in planning a week-end. Humor, romance, pathos, and tragedy crowd the hours of Travelers' Aid workers, and there's never a dull moment in these hectic days for any one who is working at a Travelers' Aid desk.

Uniforms do not keep men from becoming victims of confidence men. An air corps cadet went to the Travelers' Aid desk at the Service Men's Center with a sad tale of having matched coins in another part of the city. Just when he thought he had doubled his $100 he found himself alone with a counterfeit bill and several slips of paper and not another cent. His train left in 20 minutes, so that the Travelers' Aid became Good Samaritan.

Finding hotel, rooming and housing facilities for a day, a week-end or a longer period for strangers coming to Chicago is one difficult task of the Travelers' Aid society. To facilitate this work a hotel clearing bureau, manned by volunteers and a clerical staff worker, has been set up in the central Travelers' Aid office at 608 South Dearborn street. This bureau, which functions over the week-ends, receives requests from workers and volunteers and finds accommodations and makes reservations. More than 300 hotel referals were made last week-end.

Delicately but definitely, professional workers of the Travelers' Aid try to assist men in uniform with problems pertaining to their wives and sweethearts. Experienced workers are quick to recognize runaways, or men who are A. W. O. L. and urge them to take the proper steps to rectify their mistakes. All in all, the Travelers', Aid professional staff and volunteers are doing a worth while job in wartime among our mobile population, which is increasing daily.

A new course in industrial chemistry will be started at the Illinois Institute of Technology on Tuesday, Sept. 8. Applicants will be interviewed this week at the Lewis campus, 1951 Madison street. The requirements are the same as for previous courses: A high school diploma plus college work in chemistry or the equivalent in industry.

Fifteen more women ordnance inspectors were added to the available staff when they completed their training course at Illinois Tech last Friday. Among them was Mrs. Valentine Delles, 6937 South Laflin street, who enrolled in the course so that her husband would be free to enlist in the army. He served in the World war. Mrs. Delles' entire family is now in war work. She has two sons by a previous marriage, William and John Lenoir. The former will be an ordnance inspector in the army and the latter will continue studying chemical warfare. Mrs. Delles is a past national executive secretary of the American Legion auxiliary, and she is now national parliamentarian for the organization.

Another new ordnance inspector is Miss Mariam Kaliski, 7540 Elizabeth street, a dancer who has appeared in London and Paris and has toured the United States. A third is Mrs. Elean Howard, 50 East Walton street, former manager of a puppet show which has been on exhibition thruout Chicago.

BY CECIL SMITH.

Do you mind digging into the files and reading my reviews of "A Yank in Libya," "A Prisoner of Japan," and some of the other war born quickies?

Anything I said then applies to "Little Tokyo, U. S. A.," which is just one more harebrained contrivance, in which an extremely shrewd group of enemy agents in Los Angeles is outwitted by an exceptionally stupid young American. I simply don't think the war is going to be won by the likes of the thick headed detective and the conventional feminine radio commentator represented by Preston Foster and Brenda Joyce.

The tremendous seriousness of our war endeavor is cheaply and viciously brushed aside by such a picture as this, which is based on the Pollyanna assumption that all the lucky breaks always come to Americans, and that neither brains nor hard work is required to crush the axis.

Once and for all, I object strongly to such childish distortion. I think Hollywood needs to reassess thoroly its conception of patriotism.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 30.—Arthur Hornblow has three stories ready for production—"Mary Smith, USA," about a girl who falls in love all over again with America; "Starlight," with Bill Powell and Hedy Lamarr, and "Quo Vadis." In "Starlight" Bill plays an astronomer, whose life is almost as upsetting as an actor's. He works by night and sleeps by day. Hedy becomes an astrologist, which is just about as acceptable to an astronomer as rat poison. You can imagine their complications. . . . His script on "Quo Vadis" should make an outstanding picture. Nero becomes Hitler in the modern version, and fundamentally there isn't much difference between the two. They're both gluttons for power, with a passion for enslaving the populace. Nero had Rome set on fire, then blamed it on the Christians. Hitler started a fire thruout the world, which can only be put out by going back to our Christian concept of life. The part of a Roman soldier was written especially for Gable — a sort of Roman Rhett Butler. Errol Flynn could play it, but he'll no doubt be in our armed forces, too, when they get around to making it—which I hope will be soon, because that's the kind of thing we need on the screen right now.

Gobbling Them Up.

Natalie Visart, Cecil De Mille's fashion designer, has transferred her bits and pieces over to Hunt Stromberg's studio, which was a mighty smart move on his part. I know, because Natalie made me look the way I wish nature had in "Reap the Wild Wind." . . . Did you know that Ted Collins, Kate Smith's producer and director, has introduced more than 50 per cent of the songs which you've whistled and sung the last 10 years? Collins kind of smells a hit tune, and when Kate introduces it, it becomes a permanent fixture . . . Ann Sheridan lost a bet to Alexis Smith, but doesn't know it yet. Alexis bet Ann that she'd never be Mrs. Craig Stevens. She won't. When they marry, she'll be Mrs. Gail Shikles.

Doesn't Happen Here.

George Burns, just back from New York with Gracie Allen, says they're crazy about gin-rummy back there, too. They play three games at once. Well, in a session he was having with Bill Murray, Ilka Chase's husband [who's a nice guy—he had just given George a 50 cent cigar!], George was 'way ahead when Bill dealt him a blitz hand. Not wanting to win, he picked up a king, which ruined his hand, and Louis Sobol watching over his shoulder, said, "Are you crazy?" George explained, "No, that's the way we play out west." Sobol walked away in disgust, ran into Billy Seymour and said, "Of all the dopes—it's George Burns playing gin-rummy!" Billy couldn't wait to get into a game with him. He did. George took him for 75 bucks!

She Got Me.

I've heard Rise Stevens sing at the Metropolitan, at the San Francisco Opera house, and at Our Shrine auditorium, but I'll take Rise in the Hollywood bowl. She was wonderful. . . . Eddie Bracken's had such an urge to meet Carmen Miranda, so his wish was fulfilled at the Players the other night—and all he could say was "excuse me!" . . . Boy, are those long letters Bonita Granville gets from Jackie Cooper. She showed me one of 47 pages. Ain't love wonderful! . . . Rosemary De Camp, who has spoken with a foreign accent in practically every picture she's made, from "Hold Back the Dawn" to "Jungle Book," can't speak anything but English. . . . It was Edgar Selwyn in the last war, and not Arthur Murray, who said he regretted that he had but one wife to give to his country.

Little Enough.

I couldn't be happier. In a letter from Oscar Morgan of Paramount's short department, he tells me that two of my shorts have been put on 16 mm. film and sent to our armed forces. Those two show Jane Withers' birthday party, a Bob Hope broadcast with Elsie Janis, Frances Langford, Jerry Colona and the gang, Lum 'n' Abner on Lum's ranch, with their children and horses, and Lum done up in cowboy clothes—both the boys looking as they do in person, not as the old men they impersonate on the radio and screen—and the prettiest shots I've ever seen of Connie Bennett at home with her three children.

Should Be Fun.

Bud Abbott's brother, Harry, will open the "Swing Shift Revels" here Sept. 5 at the Music Box. Sounds like a smart idea, and you can bet your bottom dollar he won't be able to keep Abbott and Costello off the stage. He's already signed up Carmen D'Antonio, who did that hot dance in "Panama Hattie," but who was discovered by James Roosevelt. He used her in his juke box films, if you can remember that far back. . . . Our Hollywood writers have gotten the nod from New York producers. "Our First Murder," by Bob Presnell, will star Zasu Pitts. Al Woods has taken "This Little Hand," by Wilfred Pettitt, who worked in the story department at Warners'. Columbia Pictures will back "Uniforms by Schiaparelli"—so Laura Wilck tells me. . . . June Havoc's doing a whale of a job at our army camps. There's a fine comedienne. That's what she should be playing on the screen, too.

Hope He Makes It.

When Donald Crisp completes "Mark Twain," he hopes to fly to England and report to the war ministry. He has worked before with Scotland Yard, and would like to get back into it. . . Charles Boyer is preparing a film on his own people, the "Free French," in which he'll star. . . Jack Pierce put the horror in horror pictures by his superb makeup for 17 years at Universal. But Diana Barrymore insisted Wally Westmore make her up as Queen Victoria. . . Those United Air Lines stewardesses did so well playing bits in "The Commandos" that Producer Lester Cowan has enlarged Millie Andrews' rôle and brings her back to Hollywood to complete the picture, so Jim Nutter tells me. Jim showed me the inside of a Boeing Flying Fortress last summer when I passed thru Seattle, Wash., and I couldn't get out of it fast enough!

SYNOPSIS.

Covering the Spanish Civil war in Madrid, James Milcom, British journalist with Loyalist sympathies, meets Raquel, the Condesa de Verdura, seeking a tin of milk for her starving child. Once wealthy, her beauty famous, her husband notorious for his infidelities, she now lives in a basement while her husband, Pascual, is in prison. James befriends her but her child dies. James then helps her escape into France to a frontier hotel where her sister, the duquesa, who is under suspicion as a White spy, is staying. At the same hotel, Rosemary Oldhead, a young English girl, is vacationing with her parents. Rosemary has become intrigued with spies and is especially interested in a famous White spy, No. 17. Raquel's brother, Juanito, is missing and Raquel begs James to visit her husband imprisoned in Spain and try to get some news of Juanito. Before James departs, he and Raquel declare their love for each other. When James visits Pascual, he feels the man has changed from the worthless man he had once been. James fails to get news of Juanito but learns that Pascual's cousin, La Paquita, a famous woman spy, is about to be executed. In the meantime Rosemary's father has unwittingly taken pictures of a frontier pass used by the Whites and members of the White organization have stolen copies of the pictures. Mr. Oldhead reports the theft and the pass is closed. Rosemary and her parents visit a cave under the frontier and Rosemary notices steps worn on a rock leading to the Spanish side. Outside the cave she encounters an aristocratic young man in peasant clothes. She is suspicious that he is spy No. 17. In Spain, James talks to La Paquita just before her execution and she tells him how he can get news of Juanito.

EXECUTION.

Milcom's job was done. La Paquita had told him how he could get news of Juanito. He could have left then, but some obscure impulse of loyalty to this gallant creature made him decide to stay. If she could go thru with it, he could, he thought stubbornly.

Also it occurred to him that Raquel would wish it; would be glad to hear how Francisca died. So he remained, leaning against the wall at the side of the room, till a group of officials came and led her away to the prison courtyard, followed by the priest and the little group of friends, James among them. The courtyard was a big yellow rectangle; the sun streamed into the upper wall at one side, so that the square was warmly lit with a golden reflected glow, a curiously theatrical light.

The other inmates of the prison stood in close ranks along two sides of the square, guarded by warders—James noticed the Conde's tall figure among them. On the third side stood the firing squad, some sixteen men and an officer. The fourth wall was empty. La Paquita, still carrying her bouquet, walked quietly toward it with the priest, the governor and a couple of warders. The rest of the little party ranged themselves at one side. One of the warders came up to her with a scarf in his hands—she waved it aside with the flowers, with the same gesture of negation that she had used to James.

She turned, kissed the woman who stood nearest her, kissed the crucifix which the priest held out. Then, stepping up to the governor, she broke one of the red carnations off her bouquet, and put it in his buttonhole. He bowed gravely. Still quietly, but quickly, she walked across to the firing squad, and breaking off the carnations one by one, she put a flower in each man's buttonhole. One of the warders made a movement as if to stop her, but the governor raised his hand and the man stood back.

When she came to the last, she said in a ringing voice—"It is for Spain," and walked back to the fourth wall and waited, standing there alone, the broken stalks of her bouquet, with two or three flowers remaining, still in her hand—very small, very slight, very fragile.

"I am quite ready," she said in a small voice to the governor—and then, very clearly: "Arriba Espana!" As she spoke the volley rang out, and she crumpled up and fell sideways. The priest dropped to his knees, holding out the crucifix toward the small body. The warders closed ranks around it quickly. The group of friends also knelt, while the firing squad, obeying a word of command, turned about and tramped out. The prisoners followed, last of all the little group of friends, James again with them.

He left the prison with the rest, and waited in the sun outside till the prisoners should have got back to their cells—all over the building there was a tramp of feet, and the clang of doors being slammed and locked. He felt a strong desire to have a whisky and soda, or to go into a church and pray—or even both. As he could do neither, he sat on the parapet, glad of the sun—he was one of the people whom emotion makes physically cold—and watched the little party of La Paquita's friends trailing away down the hill.

Even outside, walking, in their rather shabby black clothes, they somehow kept their look of people out of a religious mural painting. So might the disciples have looked, he thought, trailing away downhill from Golgotha. Francisca's death had hit James rather a full blow. Her courage and gallantry, combined with her grace and air of fragility, had made her death in his sight a thing of beauty and terror.

The little procession was out of sight now. He got up and went back into the prison to see the Conde.

"Ah, my friend, I have waited for you!" He held Milcom's hands in both of his, and if Milcom had thought that Francisca's friends, ten minutes before, looked like the disciples, he himself at that moment felt like Judas.

"I saw you there," the Conde went on. "That was good of you—to go with her. Raquel loved her much. Did you speak with her?"

James said he had.

"She was firm? As outside?"

"Perfectly. She sent Raquel her love."

He reddened as he spoke. In the simplicity of his emotion he had used her Christian name to the Conde, a thing he had not done before. But Pascual took it with an equal simplicity. He asked in great detail for his wife, as before, and read the note she had sent, and heard her messages, and smiled with the direct matter-of-fact pleasure of a nice child over her presents, the sugar, the cigarets, the handkerchiefs—his fellow prisoners, Pepe among them, as before crowding round and getting their share. Then they went over and sat in a corner, the Conde on his own soapbox, Milcom on one which Pepe brought him, and the Conde spoke again of Francisca.

"She was brave, very brave," he said. "It moved me, the flowers. That is how one should die! Ah, friend, we have much to learn from women, concerning courage and concerning love. With their slight bodies and their delicate spirits, they have yet immense courage, and they turn all to beauty, as she did. I have thought much lately, about women," said the Conde, still with that simplicity which seemed to be his keynote that morning. He stooped, and once again pulled the worn first edition of "Jude the Obscure" out of his soapbox, along with the dictionary which James had sent from Barcelona.

"So glad I was, to have that," he said, tapping it. "I have learned so many words. And with it, I have understood this much better." Now he tapped the Hardy. "I have learned much from it," he said. "Never have I read a book like this before. It is wonderful. He knew a great deal about women, no?"

"He knew much about all humanity," James said. "He was one of the great understanders."

The Conde sighed.

"So. You are right. Understanding is what one needs. One does not think, and so one does not understand or know. One is not careful enough. Women, now—one is accustomed to think that external things, and a little love, suffice for them. I see now that this is not so. External things are most unimportant. These poor simple creatures"—and he tapped the novel—"had great souls, a great love—in effect, a great life. One may truly say that of them. And yet they were altogether of the people." He sighed again. "And at last I see also that those with great possessions, with a high position, may all the time be leading a small, mean life, within. I can speak to you as a friend. What a friend you have been to us! Both! And since you came before, I have wearied for your return."

"De mada," said James. "Please do not speak of the little I have done. It was a happiness."

But nothing could stop the Conde. "That is your good heart. Before, I had no such idea of the English—I thought them haughty and cold, and lacking in heart. Now I know better. But concerning Raquel—if I get out from here I shall try to make things otherwise for her. It will not be as in the past. I understand so much more, both what she is, and, being what she is, what she needs." He looked ahead of him, past Milcom, as if gazing at Raquel standing in the future as in a landscape. "She is not too old to have another child, or even several," he said with great naturalness. "I shall make all otherwise, for her," he repeated. "At least, I shall try," he added humbly.

"I am so glad," he said presently, "that I have spent these two years here, and been given the opportunity to learn something of the truth about life. This book, too—and those." He waved at his fellow prisoners. "Outside, in my life as I lived it, I should never have learned what they have to teach. I have been fortunate."

James listened to all this with mounting feelings of distress, of horror, that were yet most strangely mixed with compassion and even an unwilling admiration for the man before him. So he wanted Raquel to go back to him and be his? Everything in James cried out in protest at the bare idea. And yet—O, God!—he had been right about the Conde the first time, and Raquel wrong. If there had never been that most sacred thing, a change of heart, in the world before, there was one now; and there it was sitting in front of him, on a soapbox in a prison.

But besides telling James his hopes for the future the Conde had, it appeared, a request to make. He did it with great humility—"You who have done so much for us should not be asked to do more."

There was, it seemed, a chance that the Conde might be got out, and that quite soon—exchanged for a well known Republican prisoner. And for this he wished to invoke James' good offices. A word to the British embassy at Barcelona might help—they were concerned in the exchanges. So was the Madrid embassy, now at St. Jean-de-Luz. There were one or two Spaniards in Barcelona who would certainly be of use—he gave their names and addresses. One was that of Raquel's Loyalist cousin, who had assisted in their escape.

James was appalled by this request. His first sensation was one of wild revolt, of an absolute refusal to contemplate doing this thing, to which, if he did contemplate it, decency would ultimately compel him.

It was no good. Of course he would have to do it. But that his must be the hand to undo the door and let the fellow out was one of those turns of events which he privately called "needless."

GASOLINE ALLEY—AND HOW!

The marriage of Miss Ann Babcock Peters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Peters of Glencoe, to Lieut. Henry Clarke Thacher Jr., U. S. A., son of Dr. Thacher of New York, took place Saturday in the Morristown, N. J., home of the bride's grandparents, Col. and Mrs. Guilford C. Babcock. The Rev. Dr. Thomas Mutch, pastor of the Morristown Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony.

Walter P. Steffen, son of the late Judge Walter P. Steffen of the Superior court, and Miss Nancy Olson, 320 Sunset road, Winnetka, were married Saturday in the Congregational church in Winnetka. Following a wedding reception at the Exmoor Country club, they left for a honeymoon at Sun Valley. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Willard Olson and was educated at the Fairmont school and Northwestern university. Steffen is completing law studies at Northwestern, and expects to enter the army soon.

Miss Mary Louise Unger, daughter of Mrs. John Lawrence of West Marquette road, will become the bride of William Harry Boyce, son of Mrs. Robert Boyce of West 60th place, on Saturday in St. Adrian's church. A wedding dinner and reception at the Windermere East hotel will follow the ceremony.

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Lavergne Lynch, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Lynch of South Aberdeen street, to Edward Manzke Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Manzke of South Carpenter street, will take place on Saturday in the Visitation church.

On the House

These are days to keep those garden tools clean, for even a lowly trowel is worth preserving, and it will last longer if a stick is used to remove dirt and a greasy cloth used for the wiping. . . . The metal parts of a lawn mower should be gone over with an oily cloth to dry and prevent rusting and for proper storing, keep the lawn mower off the floor, preferably on 2x4s. . . . And if a tool loses its handle, see if a new handle cannot be obtained before the tool is discarded as useless. LOUISE BARGELT.

Engagements Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Koenig of Hyde Park boulevard announce the engagement of their daughter, Miriam, to Lawrence H. Sack, son of Mrs. Kate G. Sack of Cornell avenue. Miss Koenig studied at the Art Institute of Chicago, and both she and her fiancé attended the University of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester M. Hayden of Park Ridge announce the engagement of their daughter, Betty Lou, to Robert A. Gaston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Gaston of Indianapolis, Ind. Miss Hayden and her fiancé met while attending Indiana university, from which he will be graduated in December. Mr. Gaston is a member of the enlisted reserve corps and will enter the service on his graduation.

Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Stamer of Stockton, Cal., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Betty, to Lieut. Bernhardt N. Thal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Thal of Greenview avenue. Miss Stamer was graduated from the University of California. Her fiancé, a graduate of Colorado State college, is stationed at a west coast army air field. The wedding will take place early in the fall.

Club to Hear of Auto Trip from U. S. Thru S. America

Chicago Rotarians will hear the story of the first and only automobile trip from the United States to the Straits of Magellan at the luncheon meeting tomorrow in the grand ballroom of Hotel Sherman. Sullivan C. Richardson, who headed the expedition, will show part of a 27,000 foot color motion picture of the trip which required 11 months and covered 17,000 miles.

'Tain't true that cheese is "indigestible." Cheese is a concentrated food, and should be eaten in small amounts, or distributed with other food ingredients in a dish such as soufflé. Cheese eaten this way is digestible and good for you, for it contains the proteins, minerals, and vitamins of whole milk.

There are about 400 varieties of cheese. They vary from the mild American type, most popular of all, to rich, spicy, blue-molded Roquefort types, now called blue cheese. All the cheeses we eat now are produced domestically.

FALLACIES ABOUT MILK: Adults don't need it. [O, yes, they do! A pint a day, anyway]. . . . Fish and milk shouldn't be used in the same menu [nonsense, bosh, and fiddlesticks!]. . . . Milk is fattening [if you're on a reducing diet, you need milk more than ever]. . . . Milk and acid fruits don't mix [yes, they do, for acids soften the curd of milk and make it even easier to digest].

Perhaps you've been buying homogenized milk, or have wondered whether to buy it in preference to ordinary, pasteurized whole milk. Homogenized milk is whole milk which has the fat globules broken up and distributed evenly thruout the liquid. Otherwise it is the same as your whole pasteurized milk.

Orange Ginger Cookies.
[3½ dozen small.]

1½ cups sifted enriched flour
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
1½ teaspoons ginger
½ cup butter
¼ cup sugar
3 tablespoons molasses
1 egg
½ teaspoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange rind

Sift flour with salt, soda, and ginger. Cream butter with sugar. Beat in molasses, then egg. Beat until light. Add juices and rind. Stir in flour. Chill in refrigerator. Roll small portions thin on a floured board, cut and place on ungreased cookie sheet. Brush with slightly beaten egg white, sprinkle with sugar, and bake at 375 degrees.

* *

Got some leftover vegetables in the refrigerator and a tall can of salmon on the cupboard shelf? Then make a salmon and vegetable loaf—or, better yet, a salmon loaf with a vegetable cream sauce, thisaway:

Salmon Loaf with Vegetables.
[Serves Six.]

1 tall can salmon
2 cups soft bread crumbs
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon onion juice
3 tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
2 eggs
1 cup cooked green beans
1 cup cooked carrots
2 cups medium white sauce

Flake salmon and add crumbs, lemon juice, onion juice, melted butter and salt. Beat eggs and add with milk. Mix well and pack into well greased pan. Bake 45 minutes at 350 degrees. Turn out onto serving plate and serve with hot white sauce to which cut beans and carrots have been added.

Of course, if your green beans and carrots are freshly cooked instead of leftover, so much the better. Peas, turnips, and other vegetables are suitable for a sauce such as this, too. Be sure you season the sauce well with salt and pepper.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

Cucumber Jelly.
[A zippy, colorful salad.]
[Serves four.]

1 cup diced cucumbers
2 tablespoons vinegar
½ teapsoon salt
1 package lime gelatine
1 cup boiling water

Sprinkle cucumbers with vinegar and salt, and let stand. Dissolve gelatin in boiling water and chill until partly congealed. Add cucumbers with vinegar. Turn into molds and chill until firm. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise. JULE MOORE, 4246 Wilcox street, Chicago, Ill.

HOW TO ENTER THE PRIZE RECIPE CONTEST.

1. Choose your best recipe.
2. Type or write it legibly and completely, listing ingredients in order of use, and giving standard, level measurements.
3. Include helpful information, such as number of servings, time for baking, size of pan.
4. Send one recipe at a time.
5. Address it to Recipe Contest, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

There's a $5 prize daily.

Two Frocks for Autumn

MISS' AND GIRL'S FROCKS.

Two age groups are remembered in these patterns. One model makes a distinguished dress for young women to wear on their varied business and social rounds. The other is a jumper frock for school girls.

Style No. 2645 is designed for sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 3⅛ yards of 39 inch material.

Style No. 3588 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14. Size 8 requires, for jumper, ⅞ yard of 35 inch plain fabric with 1⅛ yards contrasting; for blouse, 1½ yards.

Each pattern costs 10 cents, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost (coin preferred—wrap it carefully), for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT: Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired and write your name and address plainly. The summer pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

The proper bidding of two-suited hands seems to give average players the most trouble. Mixups such as the following are entirely too common.

West, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
Both sides 40 part-score.

	NORTH
	♠ None
	♥ A K J 8 3 2
	♦ K Q 10 7 5
	♣ 10 7
WEST		EAST
♠ K Q J 7 2		♠ 9 6 5 3
♥ 9 5		♥ Q 10 7 6 4
♦ A 8 2		♦ 9
	SOUTH
	♥ None
	♦ J 6 4 3
	♣ Q J 9 5 2

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	2 hearts	2 spades	3 clubs
3 spades	4 hearts	Double	5 clubs
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

The first round of bidding needs no comment. On the second round, West, of course, had a sound rebid after having been raised by partner. North also had the values for another bid, but most decidedly not the one he chose! His rebid of the heart suit, to the exclusion of showing his good five card diamond suit, was incredibly bad. No doubt North reasoned that his six card heart suit, being both longer and stronger than his diamonds, was worth a rebid, but if this was his thought it was a completely superficial one. Players too often are blinded by an apparent disparity between suits. They do not stop to realize that a five card suit headed by only one top and two minor honors may be infinitely stronger than another six card suit headed by three top honors if the first named suit finds excellent support in partner's hand whereas the strong suit finds no support.

In this case it must be observed that North's four heart bid exploded all partnership coöperation. South felt that anything would be better than a doubled heart contract and so, in utter desperation, rebid his weakish club suit. After West had doubled this, North still could have rescued profitably by bidding five diamonds, but now that bid would have been pure speculation, and in view of North's two clubs and void in spades would have been bad tactics. For all North could know at this point, South might have six or seven clubs and a club contract might easily be the best available. The point is that by failing to bid properly on the second round, North lost the chance to lay correct information before his partner, and at the same time to sound out the best eventual contract.

Prevention Best Cure Known for That Double Chin

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Who is the woman with the sunken chin? Not you, we hope. It sounds ugly, and it is. Double chin is the usual term for it. A sunken chin describes the process the woman used in acquiring it.

She allowed her chin to droop down toward her chest so much, she developed that unattractive, ageing, extra puff. She let her throat muscles relax until flabbiness became permanent. In time, she may even become the woman with the sunken chins, plural.

Naturally, you don't want that description to fit you, ever. Here are some preventives: Don't read lying in bed. Support your back with pillows. Then your bent head will not push a blob of fat permanently under your chin. When you are sitting at a task, bend your back instead of lowering your head to reach your work. In walking, carry your head high.

Here's an amusing exercise that will keep your throatline young and beautiful. Take a pencil between your teeth and draw pictures. If you are sensitive to art, perhaps it would be better to use an imaginary pencil and outline an imaginary portrait or landscape. It is good exercise. You will stretch and turn and lift your throat muscles. You will keep them strong and beautiful.

Some Suitors Need Urging of Competition

BY DORIS BLAKE.
[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Do you let other men select your girls for you? The majority of young bachelors will answer with a loud "NO!" Think it over. Do you rush only a girl who is popular? Does it take a rival to bring you to the point? Is stiff competition necessary to produce a proposal on your lips? If you are honest and find you must say "yes" to these questions, it means you are letting other men select your sweetheart and even your life partner.

Competition does increase our interest. That is human enough. If a girl is hard to get, a man does feel she is more precious. Yet real love does not depend on what other people think.

To illustrate our point, we are printing a horrible example, the letter of one young man who didn't know he loved a girl until she married some one else.

"Dear Miss Blake:

"I courted a girl for four years. I never told her that I loved her, altho she often tried to make me give her some encouragement for our future. But I always told her she and I could never marry. Often I would tease her by asking her when she was going to get married.

"Then, suddenly, she did get married. Then I realized how much I did love her. I told her then how much I loved her, but she said it was too late.

"Her husband is in the service and, after a week's honeymoon on his furlough, went back to camp. I can understand that she wouldn't want to divorce him while he is in the army.

"Do you think I can still hope that, after the war, she may divorce him and marry me?—EDGAR."

Since he has wasted her time and made her unhappy for four years, he shouldn't wish her marriage to turn out unhappily. The other man has shown that he loves her much more truly.

French Fashions Things of Shreds and Patches Now

New York, Aug. 31 [Special].—A recent traveler from France, who left the Cote d'Azur in mid-July, today provided some interesting fashion footnotes to news stories of fabric shortages and severe clothing rationing trickling out of France.

Frenchwomen this summer, it was reported, took down their cretonne and chintz draperies to make impromptu printed dresses. Scarves, not yet included with yard goods in rationing, were bought in triplicate, sewn together and gathered at the waist to make short dirndls.

All-color, patchy pullovers were made of woolen scraps knitted together. Only the big dressmaking houses in Paris, it was said, now have woolens in stock. Mixtures available in other shops are 80 per cent rayon and 20 per cent reworked wool.

Ribbons, also unrationed, were important in the fashion scheme. Narrow widths were crocheted together for blouses and wider swatches sewn together to make bags and hats. Grosgrain was a popular belt fabric, and summer sandals were made by drawing ribbon lacings thru holes punched in flat wooden soles.

Raffia, however, had the greatest success. On the Riviera shoes with braided straw soles were made of raffia, and shoulder bags with braided straps matched woven belts and waistcoats.

Your Stars ★ Today ★

By WYNN

Monday, August 31.

Here is a day for regaining past losses and building for the future, with the single warning that we should avoid emotional pitfalls. Favorable for well considered action, decision, and reasonable expansion, especially while it's daylight.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead from this, your natal date, shows occupational decisions, more responsibility, changes to be selected wisely. Guard health; no risks. Do nothing suddenly. See better goals. Danger: Dec. 19-27; April 15-28; from Aug. 28, 1943.

Tomorrow.

Crocheted Play Sandals

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

There is no end to styles of crocheted sandals and play shoes, and we need have no fear of rationing when they are created from the scrap bag. This attractive pair of comfortable sandals may be made in little time. Giving the crocheted soles a light coat of lacquer adds to the durability and in no way affects washing.

For instructions in crocheting the play sandals, No. 1153, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Times Do Change.

The young women who are finding—to their sorrow—that they are overweight for the WAACs or the WAVES were born too late. Back in 1722 there was an anonymous book called "Orders Newly Issued for Raising Three Regiments of Women, Under the Name of Fat Guards."

Such a Boss!

"I wonder if somewhere among the readers of THE TRIBUNE there is a white collar girl who has such a boss as I," writes H. "One who comes in whistling at the top of his whistle . . . and an hour later fires his secretary . . . then hires her back before she has time to gather up her belongings and get to the door. One who rants and raves because some fellow worker didn't speak to him with gusto . . . then thoughtfully brings in a frothy malted milk at the low ebb of the afternoon. A boss who greets his secretary with interminable questions about the evening before, or what was done over the week-end and who would be storming if he did not receive a satisfactory answer . . . then closes the office at 4 instead of 5 because we had a hard day. One who, while in the midst of calling his secretary names . . . offers generously to lend her a five or ten upon request. But—perhaps I am more fortunate than I know. What do you think?"

Marital Odds.

What are your chances of getting married? Barring a long war, which, as more than one scientist has pointed out will radically reduce the marriage rate, the American girl stands a better chance to marry—and marry young—than her sisters overseas.

From a study of peacetime America, the Metropolitan Life Insurance company has concluded that in the age group 20 to 24, about one-quarter of the men are married and more than half of the girls are married. For a young girl at the age of 18, says this survey, the chances that she will eventually marry are 87 in 100, and for a young man of 21, the chances are 83 in 100. "This means," states the report, "that under the prevailing customs, only 13 per cent of our girls attaining marriageable age will remain spinsters, and 17 per cent of the men reaching majority will remain bachelors."

Books—

"Please write more about books suitable for the white collar girl. So many of us will have little diversion this fall and winter except reading," begins a letter from Marion.

How about "A Writer's Notes On His Trade," by C. E. Montague? It's not expensive—$1.35—and one of those "special" books you talk about to "special" people. You'll like it. For instance:

"Run your mind over those of your friends who have been offered the conventional 'good education.' . . . One obvious difference among them is between those who worked and those who didn't. . . . But another and more vital difference is between those who were tickled by what they studied and those who . . . were not tickled in the slightest. The former may be arrant idlers, and yet you will find them, at 40 or 50, making the aptest or most diverting applications of classical tags to common life and public affairs. The untickled may have won any number of scholarships but before they are 30 they are as dead to what they read in their youth as they are to the trousers in which they read it."

Children Are Not Innately 'Contrary'

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS
[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Many persons have misconceptions about children. That children are naturally contrary, and that they don't like the things that are good for them are two of these false beliefs.

Neither of these statements is a truism. Children may act in ways that fit those descriptions, but it is not inevitable that they should. What often leads mothers to feel so is the fact that children do develop contrary, or mulishly stubborn, streaks. The cause for this, however, seldom lies in a child's innate "cussedness," but in the way in which the mother has handled certain situations.

If a child is given much freedom, if he is not hedged around with "don'ts" and "mustn'ts" and "can'ts" then when the time comes to forbid him something, he is in a more receptive frame of mind. It is the child who is given too little freedom who has to develop a resistant attitude to gain liberty. Stubbornness or contrariness is the only weapon he has to keep him from being too thwarted in all the things that nature is urging him to do, which are necessary to his growth and increasing independence.

And likewise in this matter of a child's resisting doing or eating "what is good for you." This can be made an attractive idea; but mostly, with the slogan wrongly used, it can become a detested motto.

I remember reading, many years ago in one of Ellen Key's prophetic books, a statement that I never forgot. "Women," she wrote, or words to that effect, "have got to make goodness attractive." "Goodness" doesn't have to be dull and prim.

Well, we have got to use the "this is good for you" idea in a way that makes it attractive to children. When we give our young child a dose of unpleasant medicine, or a vegetable that is disliked, and preface it with the smiling remark that "it is good for you," of course our child is going to associate unpleasant emotions with that phrase. A child can be brought up to like the foods and other things that are best for him, if they are made attractive.

There is no instinctive dislike in a child for what is good for him just because it is good for him, whether it be behavior or food. It is the way we present the idea to him that causes possible resistance.

Thru the Looking Glass

All the girls sufficiently grown up to be interested in finger tip beauty will like a new presentation of one of the finest of nail polishes. A bottle of the enamel—and there are innumerable fashionable and flattering shades from which to choose—and a biggish bottle of oily remover are companion pieces in a smart little bag of velvet or checked material, a bag that holds its contents snug by a plastic ring.

The school girls will love this because it's in their own gay style and also because the bag can double as a day or an evening bag for the few makeup aids they carry. Honest to goodness pocketbooks are as rare on a campus as honest to goodness hats. A little bag like this, in which they can tote a key, a handkerchief, and a lipstick, is just what they like; the whole bag can be tucked in a pocket or a brief case, too.

It's one of those beauty bargains, a special package. The polish is one of the most popular we have, long lasting, lustrous, and in all the high style colors. The remover is bland and efficient.

The same two items, plus lipstick [in one of the new and handsome "victory" cases of compressed paper] are also presented in another case, a ration card case of leather, beautifully lined and expertly made. In this there's an extra, special pocket for defense stamps, ration cards, or train or bus tickets. It's in lovely red, green, or natural leather, amazingly inexpensive and practical.

Tribute.

Jeanne E. Brown, in Detroit for the conventions of the National Association of Women Lawyers and the American Bar association, was spending the evening in Windsor, Ont., when the news came of the death of the duke of Kent. She writes that it seemed as tho a cloud of sadness and quietude settled over the little city, a sadness heightened by the fact that the news was the second thrust the people of Windsor had received of late, since many of the casualties from the Commando raid at Dieppe were from the Essex regiment of Windsor. Miss Brown was struck, however, by the bravery of the Canadians, who were facing this latest communique with the superb fortitude with which they meet other inevitable catastrophes of war.

Loyalty.

As the head of a large business, Mrs. C. L. Washburn has more than ordinary interest in the reaction of men employés toward women bosses. She heard the answer in her own case one evening, when, tuning in on a man on the street radio program, she was surprised to hear the interviewer ask one of her salesmen where he worked and what he thought of his employer. The man answered, "O, my woman boss is swell." As a reward for his loyalty Mrs. Washburn gave him a new winter overcoat.

Ingenuity.

"Several times recently I've noticed a man driving along 103d street on a child's coaster wagon with a motor attached and making around 20 miles an hour. I haven't been able to stop and view the conveyance, but it has a steering wheel at the front, the motor at the back, and a resting place for the driver's feet. At first he didn't have a hood, but now there's a covered wagon affair that is bowed at the back like the top of a streamlined convertible. To me this is quite an idea. At least there's one man who has hitched his wagon to a motor to save tires and gas for the duration. —Georgiana B. Carlson."

Coffee And.

Following their recent army air force aviation cadet test, which they passed with exceptionally high marks, the Quiz Kids were served coffee and doughnuts by the Salvation Army. It was the first time some of them had ever tasted coffee, and Richard Williams confided to Maj. Floyd M. Showalter of the examining board that it was the first time he'd ever dunked in public, and how he loved it!

Eclipse.

"Wish you could have caught the eclipse of the moon from here at French Lick Springs. It was particularly lovely, what with the crickets doing a Disney version of the Pastoral Symphony. . . . The remarkable part of the picture was that the shadow completely covered the moon around 9 o'clock, and at around 11 o'clock I saw a solid black mass surrounded by a golden band. There must be a scientific answer, but it seemed as tho the earth had insisted on a double encore.—A. M."

Knitting Record.

A recent item by Mildred Clover, concerning the sweater she lovingly called Sammy, brought a letter from Mrs. Gladys Culvey of Belvidere, Ill. Mrs. Culvey, grandmother of four, has established a record of 1,400 hours knitting sweaters for the Red Cross as well as for her own youngsters. In the 13 months since she started she's made 57 sweaters, 1 scarf, 18 beanies, 7 helmets, and 8 pairs of children's mittens. In her spare time, when her local chapter was out of yarn, she ran up 3 turtle neck styles for navy men, 1 for a young neighbor to give her best beau in the army, 3 women's sweaters, and 4 children's sweaters. Mrs. Culvey used to call the garments she was making Johnny Britains, but after Pearl Harbor she dubbed them Johnny Doughboys. Nice going, Mrs. G.

Victory In The Air?

Much Depends Upon

Public Opinion

WHEN the United States entered this war, there was no need to "sell" the American public upon the necessity for ships, trains, motor trucks, tanks. Public thinking was solidly behind all of these because they operate upon the earth's surface: in the water and on the land, in the realms in which we were the world's leaders.

Until our enemies made this a third-dimensional war, we had the option of remaining-upon-the-ground or of taking-to-the-air. An overwhelming majority of us chose to stick to the earth's surface. As a result, when this war's challenge came, it came in the realm where we were the least prepared—in the air!

Hitler Knows—

That our staff officers are formidable—

That the fighting quality of our armed forces cannot be underestimated—

That our production genius and vast capacity are unexcelled—

Therefore, to defeat us, he can hope only for public inertia in the realm of aviation—the result of the failure of more of us to understand, adopt and use air transportation.

We Cannot Dodge These Facts

That airplanes will increase in military importance—

That we Americans must gain supremacy in the air in order to survive upon the earth—

That the records prove the new aerial strategy must supersede older methods—

That all of us must think air-thoughts in order to defeat the Axis.

Salute Our Air Men!

There is permanency in what our air officers and their fellow aviators are doing. Their work will not stop when hostilities cease.

As our Air Men fight, they also are drawing the blueprint of our nation's status in the post-war world. They are laying the aerial foundation, around the globe, for America's future trade and commerce. They are designing the new pattern of our lives.

They Are Teachers As Well As Warriors!

They are teachers in the new school of thought which determines tomorrow's balance of world power, economic and political . . . teachers of airography . . . teachers of how to measure in time-units, not in mileage! They know that every race, color and creed on earth is now rapidly becoming united by war-planes. They also know that—

Nations Will Remain United by Peace-Planes

It would be illusory to think that with the conclusion of this war the world will revert to pre-war conditions . . . to dependence upon slow, circuitous surface-travel routes . . . to isolation, immune behind barriers of distance. Aviation cancels the protection of those distances. No longer are we separated from friend or foe by thousands of miles: instead, we are linked to them by a few air-hours. The responsibility of protecting our nation from the results of these epochal air changes does not rest wholly upon our military men.

You Make Public Opinion

Our air officers and all of our aviators are doing their heroic part to win this war. But, for the U. S. A. to dominate the air, the pressure must come from you—the public.

As more of us become air-advocates . . . as more of us get off the ground, physically as well as mentally, we can generate the force that will defeat our enemies. Because, in the last analysis, the effectiveness of our Air Forces must stem from an aroused and articulate public spirit and conviction.

A. N. KEMP
President
American Airlines, Inc.

In recent weeks, American Airlines, Inc., has been assigned by the military to additional new war missions. The people of American Airlines, Inc., are rightfully proud to be doing several different kinds of important war work. One part of their work is maintaining at higher efficiency than ever American's air transportation services here at home for war workers and for American industry. It is self-evident that there is no substitute for air transportation in our nation's war effort. Men in industry are busier than ever. Many of them are taking on more duties and responsibilities. Therefore, they must do more travelling back and forth between factories, offices and sources of supplies widely separated all over our vast nation. For these hard workers on the home front, time is of the essence.

SOX, A'S DIVIDE; CUBS LOSE, THEN TIE GIANTS

AN ISBELL PASS TO HUTSON NIPS DODGERS, 21-16

Packers' Ace Clicks on 19 Throws.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 30 (AP).—On the strength of Cecil Isbell's passing, the Green Bay Packers kept intact today their record of never having been beaten by the Brooklyn Dodgers, winning 21 to 6 in an exhibition game between the two National Football league teams.

Isbell completed 19 of 30 passes for 272 yards as the Packers came from behind with their aerial attack before a paid crowd of 9,874 and 1,209 service men. Passes accounted for two of the Packers' touchdowns, one going to Andy Uram and the other to Don Hutson. Isbell dashed around end for the third. Hutson accounted for all the extra points from placement.

Manders Goes Over Twice.

The Dodgers scored first in the opening period on Merlyn Condit's twenty-nine yard place kick, but the Packers started a drive near the end of the session that ended early in the second period with Isbell passing the last seven yards to Uram. Brooklyn went ahead on a twenty yard touchdown plunge by Pug Manders shortly before the half and moved out in front, 16 to 7, in the third period when Manders again went over, this time from the 2 yard line.

A fumbled punt by Hal McCullough, freshman back from Cornell, set the stage for Green Bay's second touchdown in the same period with Isbell carrying it over. In the fourth quarter, the Packers drove 93 yards, the payoff touchdown coming on Isbell's short pass to Hutson. Lineups:

GIANTS, 17; RAMS, 14

Akron, O., Aug. 30 (AP).—A 16 yard field goal, booted by Ward Cuff before most of the 18,073 spectators were in their seats, proved the margin of victory as the New York Giants defeated the Cleveland Rams, 17 to 14, in an exhibition football game here today. The Rams made 18 first downs to 13 for the Giants and outgained the New Yorkers 325 to 319 yards.

The Rams scored in the second quarter on an 80 yard drive featured by Dante Magnani's 22 yard run and Gaylon Smith's 30 yard smash. Parker Hall skirted left tackle for three yards to score and Chet Adams' place kick earned the extra point.

Leemans' Passes Click.

Eight plays later the Giants regained the lead, Tuffy Leemans crashing over from the 6 yard line after Cuff's passes had chased the Rams back to their goal line.

The Giants went 62 yards for their deciding touchdown in the third quarter, Leemans tossed once to Dom Principe and twice to Don Lieberum to move the ball to the Rams' 2 yard line. Then Bob Trocolor found a hole and scored. Andy Marefos' placement was good for the extra point.

A 35 yard pass, Hall to Ben Hightower, set up the Rams' second score late in the fourth period. Hightower was nailed on the Giants' 2 yard line but Magnani circled right end for the score. Adams again kicked the extra point. Lineups:

THREE-EYE ENDS SEASON; TITLE TO CEDAR RAPIDS

The Three Eye league ended its schedule last night with Cedar Rapids, the 1942 champion, managed by Ollie Marquardt, defeating Waterloo, 9 to 7, for a final won-lost record of 74-43. Second place went to Springfield, which downed the Madison Blues last night, 3 to 2. Evansville, setting down Decatur, 3 to 2, and 4 to 3, came in third.

Cedar Rapids, Springfield, Evansville and Madison will open the Shaughnessy playoffs this week. Evansville goes to Cedar Rapids and Madison to Springfield for the opening games Tuesday and Wednesday.

3 RUNS IN NINTH MAKE IT 5 TO 5; DROP FIRST, 8-6

Darkness Halts Play After Rally.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs outhit the New York Giants in both games of a double header in Wrigley field yesterday—11 to 9 in the first game and 14 to 9 in the second—but the best they could derive from the slugging show before 29,609 fans was an 8 to 6 whipping in the first game and a 5 to 5 tie in the nine inning second game, which was called because of darkness after the Giants had scored two runs in the ninth and the Cubs had tallied three before anybody was out in their ninth.

The Cubs made a valiant try for a victory in the last three innings of the second game. They led off the seventh and eighth innings with triples by Bobby Sturgeon and Dom Dallessandro, respectively, then really went to work in the ninth after Tot Pressnell had done a sad job of relief pitching in the Giant half of the final inning.

Hack Starts Tying Rally.

The big Chicago ninth opened with a double by Stan Hack off Van Lingle Mungo, who had retired the Cubs in the seventh after they had loaded the bases with none out and the score 3 to 1 for the Giants. Phil Cavarretta also doubled, scoring Hack.

Bill McGee, who had finished the first game, went in and Bill Nicholson saluted him with a homer, his 18th, scoring behind Cavarretta to tie the count. Lou Novikoff followed with a double to right, a shot which caused a youthful spectator to topple out of the center field bleacher trying for the ball. Dallessandro was given an intentional pass. Bob Scheffing then fouled to Bill Werber and Lenny Merullo tapped into a double play.

The umpires, Beans Reardon, Jocko Conlan, and Larry Goetz, who had some trouble seeing well even when the scene was bright, then held a conference and called the game. It will be played off this afternoon, which had been an open date.

Mize Smacks 23d Homer.

The lead the Giants enjoyed until the final minutes of the second game for the greater part was due to Johnny Mize's only hit of the day, his 23d homer, good for the second and third runs New York scored in the third inning.

The Cubs made a run on three singles in the fourth inning, but were helpless against Bill Lohrman until the seventh when Sturgeon opened with his triple. Pinch Batter Charley Gilbert then walked and Mungo [who had halted a five run rally by striking out Clyde McCullough after Dallessandro had tripled off Carl Hubbell in the fifth inning of the first game] replaced Lohrman. The fandango dancer walked Hack to load the bases with none out. Then Cavarretta sent a short fly to Babe Barna and Nicholson fouled to Gus Mancuso. Three men were left on base when Novikoff was called out on strikes.

Dallessandro tripled to the center field wall at the start of the eighth and got home on Scheffing's out for the second Cub run. It was after this that Pressnell gave up two runs to the Giants in the ninth, starting off by hitting Werber in the ribs. Then came the big home ninth and the tie.

Cubs Erratic in First Game.

A three error defense by the Cubs nullified a lot of sterling Chicago batting in the first game. Included in the Cubs' 11 hits in the first game were a productive triple and double

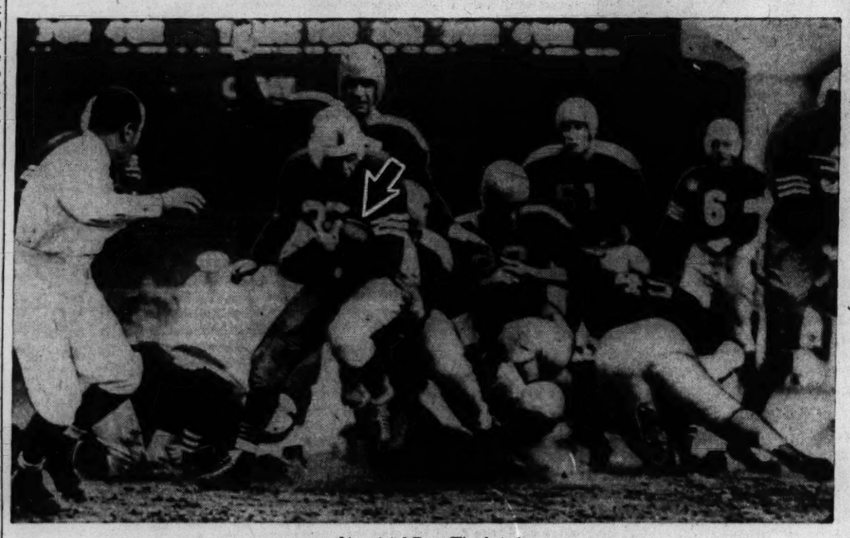
Condit Can't Do It to Packer Line



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Merle Condit (35), Brooklyn Dodgers' half back, gets exactly nowhere in an assault against Green Bay's line in yesterday's exhibition game in Ebbetts field, Brooklyn. Condit is stopped at the line of scrimmage by Joel Mason, Green Bay end. The Packers won, 21 to 16.

Redskins Beat Western Army Eleven, 26 to 7

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 30 (AP).—The Washington Redskins, with Sammy Baugh pitching in midseason form, crushed an Army All-Star football team coached by Maj. Wallace Wade today, 26 to 7, before 55,000 in Memorial coliseum.

Baugh received excellent protection on his passes and the Washington strategy employed Dick Todd to fullest advantage in checks for Sammy's aerial tosses. Just when the Army was set to defend against a pass, Todd would scoot around end or thru the spreading All-Star line.

Masterson Kicks 2 Goals.

Twice, when the Army dug in and held the Redskins' attack, the pros called on Bob Masterson for field goals, and he made good both times, once from the 30 yard line and again from the 33.

John Kimbrough, former full back at Texas Aggies, was about all the Army had in the way of an offensive. On the second play of the game Kimbrough dashed to the right, knocked down two prospective tacklers, cut back and galloped 58 yards to a touchdown. His ex-Texas Aggie teammate, Bill Dawson, added the extra point.

With Baugh running and passing the ball, the Redskins reached the All-Stars' 8 yard line as the first period ended. On the first play of the second quarter Baugh passed for a touchdown to Bob Titchenal. Masterson's placement tied the score.

Poor Punt Aids Redskins.

Washington made its second touchdown in the second period shortly after Kay Eakin got off a kick of only 23 yards to the pros' 31. Baugh and Todd combined in running and passing to a first down on the 18, and at this point Todd faked a pass, hit right tackle and cut back to score standing up. Masterson missed the point try.

The pros really got going in the third period and added 10 points. Masterson booted a placement from the 30 yard line and a few minutes later Baugh and Todd again were scattering the Army defense with runs and passes. Todd finally gathered in a pass from Sammy and went 13 yards for a touchdown. Masterson kicked the point. In the fourth period Masterson booted a placement from the 33 yard line.

The All-Stars left tonight for Denver, where they will meet the Chicago Cardinals next Sunday in another game for army relief. Lineup:

Coast Guard—N. E. Wineskirch, A. E. Moran, E. H. Barrett, R. S. Fiala, M. Simmons, and M. Block, alternate.

Henrich Called to Active Duty in Coast Guard

New York, Aug. 30 (AP).—Tommy Henrich, regular right fielder of the New York Yankees, made his last major league appearance for the duration of the war today in a double header between the Yanks and the Detroit Tigers.

Sworn into the coast guard at Cleveland a week ago, the blond outfielder has been ordered to report for service immediately. He has three brothers in service, two in the army and one in the coast guard.

Meanwhile, Yankee officials announced a trade which will send Relief Pitcher Norman [Red] Branch to their Newark farm of the International league in return for Jim Turner, best remembered for his 1937 season when he won 20 games for the Boston Braves, five of which were shutouts, and had an earned run mark of 2.38.

The Yankees operated today without their manager, Joe McCarthy, who remained at his hotel to recover from a slight back injury he received last night when he slipped in his bathroom.

Cards Win 2; Cut Game Off Dodger Lead

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 30 (AP).—Riding high on a surge which has brought them 19 victories in the last 22 games, the Cardinals triumphed twice over the Boston Braves today, chopping the Brooklyn Dodgers' lead to three games. Harry Gumbert's 11th inning double scored Johnny Hopp from second for a 3 to 2 edge in the second game after a 13 hit attack on four Boston pitchers took the opener, 8 to 3.

Johnny Beazley got credit for his 17th victory in the opener, altho Gumbert pitched the last three innings. Ernie White started the second game and was removed for a pinch hitter in the ninth. All in all, Gumbert allowed two hits in five innings. He received credit for the second triumph.

LYONS WINS NO. 12 IN 1ST, 2 TO 1; LEE BEATEN IN 2D, 3-2

Thornton Loses His Game in Ninth Inning.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 30.—The White Sox were just about ready to congratulate themselves this afternoon over a double victory when the lowly Athletics tossed a batch of base hits in their faces. Going into the ninth inning of the second battle Thornton Lee appeared to have a firm grip on a 2 to 1 decision, the same count by which Uncle Ted Lyons had registered his season's 12th and his 257th American league victory in the opening argument. But a two run finish changed Lee from a budding winner into a 3 to 2 loser.

Uncle Ted's achievement was accomplished only after multitudinous difficulties such as base hits and errors. Twice he squeezed thru tough spots because enemy runners were cut down at the plate, and he'd have done it a third time if Mike Tresh hadn't scrambled a throw from Rookie Bill Mueller. Tresh's miscue let the A's grab off a tying run in the seventh, but Ted was quickly put back on easy street by blows from the bats of Wally Moses and Luke Appling in the eighth.

Four Hits Off Marchildon.

In view of only four hits off Phil Marchildon in the second game, the Sox may not have been entitled to the decision, but the point is that they did pick up their two runs without the aid of an error. Both were driven in because Lee, in an effort to aid his own cause, let go with a timely two bagger, the scoring episode more than balancing a run he had yielded previously when put on the spot by Don Kolloway's fumble.

Even tho he entered the ninth with only one run against him, Lee had turned out only one perfect inning. And he might have dodged the knockout punch if Bob Kennedy, the temporarily transplanted third baseman, hadn't lost his bearings in the outfield. Crash Davis opened the last inning with a single, going to second on a bunt. Dee Miles batted for Marchildon and flied high to left, but Kennedy came in instead of going back and the blunder produced a double, Davis scoring the tying run.

Then Mike Kreevich doubled, Miles scoring, and that was all.

FIRST GAME

It took an error to put the Sox in front in the first game. After six innings of airtight dueling between Lyons and Wolff, the seventh opened with Lou Blair throwing wild on Appling's grounder. Appling's legs carried him to second on Dario Lodigiani's sacrifice. This was where Mueller stepped in with his first big league hit, a healthy single down the third base line, which scored Appling. Jimmy Webb tried to keep things moving by bouncing a single over Wolff's head, but Tresh hoisted to Bob Johnson and Uncle Ted, who

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 30.—Bob Zuppke, who will lead a group of College All-Stars against the Philadelphia Eagles at Municipal stadium tomorrow night in a game for the benefit of the USO, is returning to the scene of one of his greatest triumphs—the 1925 game between Illinois and Pennsylvania. . . . Red Grange, the most widely publicized player in football history, was the star of Illinois' 24 to 2 victory. . . . His performance that day was excelled only by his brilliance against Michigan the year previous, when he made five touchdowns against one of the strongest teams in the Big Ten conference. . . . Grange, whose modesty is not the least of his fine qualities, gives full credit for his showing in both games to Zuppke. . . . "I merely did what I was told to do," Grange recently remarked in acknowledging his gratitude to his old coach. . . . "We more or less popularized the maneuver of running plays to the weak side of the line in the 1925 Pennsylvania game," Red stated. . . . "Early in the contest we lined up with four men on the right side of center and two on the left. Teams employing that formation usually, if not always, ran to the strong side. That's the way we started. The first time we lined up in that fashion we sent Earl Britton to the right—the strong side. He ran into the whole Pennsylvania team. We then lined up in exactly the same formation, but this time I ran to the weak side and I traveled 55 yards before I ever saw a Pennsylvania player. I was given great acclaim for a remarkable gain, but no one credited Zuppke with the formation, which was entirely responsible for it." . . . Zuppke tomorrow night will have only about half the squad he had at his disposal in Chicago's All-Star game Friday night. . . . But then the Eagles aren't the Bears.

Home.

It's oaken doors and shutters green, darkened by wind and rain.
A house that sweetly cradled us thru all of childhood's fears,
Those windows facing to the west, now frilled with filmy lace,
Have watched us coming home from school and framed my mother's face.
'Twas 'neath those elms my brother played, a soldier brave was he,
Yes, in these rooms we daily played and frolicked side by side,
And down those oaken, step worn stairs I came, a blushing bride.
Beneath those windows to the east my father lay so still Till we bore him forth with grief torn hearts to a grave upon the hill.
'Twas 'neath this roof that sheltered me from many a winter's storm,
The crowning glory of my life, my own dear son was born.
Here, too, my mother closed her eyes and went to heaven above,
O, there are newer, fancier houses now, all up and down the street,
But if I'd sell or lose this one my heart would cease to beat.

A Mother to Her Infant.

I have clasped hands with death that you might know
The splendor of the dawn, the star strewn sky,
That you might see a crimson rose aglow
And watch the summer storm clouds drifting by;
That you might taste of laughter and of tears
And know the hearty welcome of a friend
The while you braved the tumult of the years
Faithful and fearless to the bitter end.

And may you in your manhood not forget
The rock whence you were hewn, or ever be Tormented with the anguish of regret
Because your youth knew pain and poverty;
These are the fountains from which greatness springs
The very roots of virtue's blossomings.

RACE AGAINST WHIRLAWAY MAY BE ALSAB'S NEXT

They're Due to Clash at Washington Park.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Washington Park nears the end of its meeting with the prospect that it will present a race between Alsab and Whirlaway. This clash is expected to develop in the $25,000 Washington Park Handicap on Labor day.

Whirlaway, fresh from his victory in the Trenton Handicap at Garden City track, is scheduled to be shipped to Chicago within the next day or two. Alsab, winner of the American Derby on Saturday, faces the Washington Park Handicap as his next assignment, according to present stable plans.

Whirlaway's success in the Trenton added another $8,500 to his world record earnings, bringing them to $466,836. If he could take the Washington Park Handicap he would be just a little short of the half million mark.

Shut Out in Running.

Alsab's followers are pulling for him to pile up as many stake victories as possible to counteract the prizes taken by Shut Out, Mrs. Payne Whitney's 3 year old championship contender. Alsab has the Preakness, Withers, and American Derby to put up against Shut Out's major victories—the Kentucky Derby, Belmont, and Arlington Classic.

Shut Out has other victories—the Blue Grass, the Yankee Handicap, and the Travers Stakes—but while these look well in the records, they cannot be taken too seriously as a gauge of merit. In the first running of the $4,000 Dick Wells Handicap at Washington Park recently Alsab beat a much better field than Shut Out encountered in the Travers, which is one of Saratoga's traditional events.

Shut Out passed up the American Derby, but there is a possibility that he and Alsab will have their showdown in the Lawrence Realization at Belmont. Trainer Sarge Swenke said that if Alsab continues to run well he plans to include that race in his engagements.

Four Stakes This Week.

Four stakes are on the schedule this week—the $5,000 Chicago Handicap at six furlongs on Wednesday, the $5,000 Great Western Handicap at a mile and three-sixteenths on Thursday, and two events on Saturday—the $7,500 Beverly Handicap at a mile for fillies and mares, and the $5,000 Prairie State Stakes for juveniles at six furlongs.

Following the Labor day program, proceeds of which will be turned over to war relief societies, the meeting will close with another war benefit day on Tuesday, Sept. 8.

Falks Score 5-0 Triumph Over Slovaks

BY OFFSIDE.

The Milwaukee Falks, Wisconsin state soccer champions, shut out the Chicago Slovaks, Illinois title holders and Western cup finalists, 5 to 0, yesterday in the second game of the two match series in Sparta stadium. The first match last week ended in a 4 to 4 tie.

The Anderson brothers, Harold and Roscoe, meant the difference between the two teams, for Roscoe personally accounted for three of the Falks' goals.

Benefit Match Draws Crowd.

The benefit match sponsored by the Hansa club for the USO yesterday at St. Paul's park, Morton Grove, attracted a large crowd, and a big entry from teams of the International league. In the class A division the Schwabens captured first place with 9 points, with the Vikings second with 7, and the Linneas third with 6 points.

STATE CHAMPS IN FINALS OF SOFTBALL MEET

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 30 (AP).—The girls' and men's defending champions both reached the finals of the downstate softball tournament after semi-final rounds today. The Peoria Dieselettes, 1941 girl champions, will play Gipps of Peoria, and the Diesels of Peoria, defending men titlists, meet Tenny Pontiac of Decatur in the championship games Tuesday.

The Dieselettes advanced to the finals today after the Don Forsyth team of Decatur forfeited. Gipps advanced by beating Litchfield, 5 to 2. The Diesels beat Pekin, 4 to 0, to reach the championship round, and the Pontiacs beat Urbana, 2 to 0, and Danville, 5 to 1.

BOWLING MEET NEARS FINISH; WILMAN LEADS

The leaders in the three squads and their point totals are: No. 1, Joe Wilman, 81.30; No. 2, Rudy Hableter, 73.23; and No. 3, Eli Maricich, 76.01.

Ned Day, the world match game champion, will bowl again tomorrow night when the teams will roll double headers of eight games instead of the customary four.

Illinois PGA, Presidents to Play Today

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America, which has been doing a noble job thruout this war year with one exception—the weather—will have another try today at conducting its annual gathering with presidents of member clubs of the Chicago District Golf association at the Hinsdale club. The pros and presidents attempted to get together on the same day Byron Nelson won that moist play-off from Clayton Heafner at Tam o' Shanter, but there was more rain in Hinsdale than in Niles on that particular afternoon, and officials decided to call it no go until today.

This was the second experience of this type for the Illinois PGA, their perennial reunion with CDGA club managers having been forestalled by rain at Medinah in the spring. But President Alex Cunningham of North Shore and Tournament Chairman Bill Gordon of Tam o' Shanter aim to set a repetition date for that one, also.

The Chicago Women's District Golf association will assemble at the Medinah Country club next Friday for a two-ball foursome tournament, in conjunction with the annual election of officers for next season. Remembering similar events brings to mind the fact the ladies have drawn more than 250 players on these occasions.

The North Shore Golf league, oldest of the district's interclub families, will wind up its regular season on Sept. 9 at Westmoreland. The schedule arranged by President Ray Matson and Secretary Bill Lane, with a bow to Ray Bowen of Park Ridge, calls for the following matches:

No. 1 Teams—Westmoreland vs. Edgewater; North Shore vs. Skokie; Ridgemoor vs. Evanston; Sunset Ridge vs. Park Ridge.

No. 2 Teams—Westmoreland vs. Evanston; North Shore vs. Park Ridge; Ridgemoor vs. Skokie; Sunset Ridge vs. Edgewater.

No. 3 Teams—Westmoreland vs. Ridgemoor; North Shore vs. Sunset Ridge; Skokie vs. Park Ridge; Edgewater vs. Evanston.

Petersen and Worlds Fight Again Tonight

Bill Petersen, Indiana Harbor heavyweight, who suffered his first defeat in nine starts at the hands of Clayton Worlds, will receive a chance for revenge in a 10 round return bout with the south side giant in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight.

Worlds, who stands 6 feet 3 inches and weighs more than 200 pounds, will be making only his second professional start, but the skill he displayed in his debut was most impressive.

Willie Joyce's Brother Coming.

Jimmy Joyce, junior lightweight brother of the more noted Willie, will attempt to deal Sammy Parotta of Pittsburgh a defeat in a six round semi-windup. Joyce scored a surprise technical knockout over Al Walker in the Marigold arena recently. In a previous fight in this city, Parotta lost a disputed decision to Jackie Nichols.

Four round preliminary matches will bring together Harold Lang, Seward park heavyweight, and Walter Schramm; Lou Campbell, south side heavyweight, and Frank Greene, and Jimmy Martin, former Catholic Youth organization junior welterweight, and Sam Scully.

Walter Palmer, north side heavyweight, and George Becker of New York will be principals in the windup bout of a wrestling card this evening in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. . . . Harvey Dubs, Windsor, Ont., welterweight, who defeated Jerry Pittro of Chicago in Canton, O., last Friday, will be sworn in as a member of the Canadian navy today in Toronto.

GARDEN CITY AND ELMHURST WIN IN GIRLS' SOFTBALL

The largest crowd of the season, more than 4,500, was on hand in Shewbridge field last night as the Garden City Maids remained undefeated in the girls' division of the Amateur Softball Association tournament by beating the Rheingold girls, 4 to 2, behind the two hit pitching of Sonny Berger.

Another portion of the program at Shewbridge included a no hit, no run game by Jim Chambers in which he struck out 12 batters as his Phoenix club of Aurora mates won a 2 to 0 victory over the Joliet Rivals to advance to the best two out of three final series for the men's title. The first of this series will open at 7:30 tonight in Shewbridge field with the Match Corporation furnishing the opposition.

At Shewbridge—8:30—Elmhurst vs. Gary; 9:30—Match Corporation vs. Garden City Maids.

At Rockola—8:00—Mosby vs. Rockola Music Maids; 9:30—Rheingold vs. Parichy Bloomer girls.

IAC to Honor John Behr at Dinner Tonight

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Members of the Illinois Athletic club will give a farewell dinner this evening at 6 o'clock in the club, 112 South Michigan avenue, for John Behr, director of IAC athletics, who has been commissioned a first lieutenant in the army air corps and leaves Wednesday for Miami Beach, Fla., for training. At the completion of his course he will be stationed temporarily in Salt Lake City, Utah.

John Behr.

Sports leaders in Chicago and other friends of Behr will be guests of the IAC this evening. Behr has served as director of athletics for more than 25 years and coached the club's track teams of the 1920s to national and international championships. Behr also served as an assistant track coach for the 1924 American Olympic team, and in 1936 he was head coach of the United States Olympic boxing team that competed in Berlin.

Is War Veteran.

Behr, who was born in Chicago, received his early training at St. John's Military academy, Delafield, Wis., and the United States Military academy. A veteran of the first World war, and over the draft age, Behr volunteered his services and received his commission last week.

Behr has been actively identified with the Chicago Golden Gloves amateur boxing tournament since 1929, a year after THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE inaugurated the local tournaments, and began intercity competition with New York. Since 1934 he has been head coach of the Chicago Golden Gloves squads.

Aids Tribune Promotions.

Behr has been an active member of The Tribune Athletic association for 25 years and has assisted in other promotional activities of this newspaper, including the annual Silver Skates Derbies and swimming meets.

Gilbert Wins Great Lakes Arrow Title

Lou Gilbert won the Great Lakes championship of the Arrow class yesterday off Montrose harbor by sailing his Sheridan Shore Yacht club sloop Pidgie to a quarter-point victory with a first and a third. Gilbert's score was 48¼ to 48 for Alady, owned by Aaron Evans, and 47¼ for Robert Parks' Nimbus.

The second race of the two day series was won yesterday by Nimbus in 1 hour 35 minutes and 26 seconds. Alady was runner-up in 1:36:32, followed by Pidgie in 1:36:43. Sixteen other Arrow sloops competed over the six mile course.

YANKS SCORE IN 10TH TO SWEEP 2 WITH TIGERS

Ruffing Yields Five Hits in First Game.

New York, Aug. 30 (AP).—The New York Yankees turned back the Detroit Tigers in a double header today, winning the opener, 7 to 1, behind the five hit pitching of Charley [Red] Ruffing and squeezing out a 4 to 3 decision in the 10 inning second game on George Selkirk's pinch single with the bases loaded. The double victory enabled the Yankees to boost their American league lead to eight games over the Boston Red Sox.

In gaining his 12th victory against seven defeats, Ruffing allowed only one Tiger as far as third base in the first seven innings, but pinch hitter Ned Harris spoiled his bid for a shut-out with an eighth inning homer, his eighth of the year.

The second game was a close struggle between Marv Breuer of the Yanks and Paul [Dizzy] Trout. The Tiger pitcher gave out nine bases on balls, two of which resulted in Yankee runs. Charlie Keller hit his 24th home run in the fourth. Scores:

INDIANS, 3-0; SENATORS, 1-2.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30 (AP).—Cleveland and Washington divided today, the Indians taking the first game, 3 to 1, behind Southpaw Al Milnar's effective pitching and the Senators winning the second, 2 to 0, with the veteran Dutch Leonard on the mound. Leonard, in his first start since breaking his leg sliding into first base last April, yielded five hits.

Manager Lou Boudreau of the Indians said he would protest the second contest, contending Ken Keltner should have been given first base in the ninth. Keltner ran out of the base line to avoid colliding with Jimmy Vernon, who had scooped up his slow grounder down the foul line. Scores:

Pirates Beat Dodgers, 9-5, After 3-1 Loss

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 30 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers broke even with the Pittsburgh Pirates today, seeing their first place margin over St. Louis reduced to three games as the Cardinals won a double header from the Boston Braves.

The Dodgers won the first game, 3 to 1, but their eighth inning rally in the second game fell short and they were defeated, 9 to 5. Vince DiMaggio put on a one man show in the Pirates' victory, batting in five runs. He also drove in the lone Pirate run in the first contest.

Tresh Lets Run In.

Pete Suder blew open the home seventh with a two bagger to right center, and the Sox's one run lead was dissolved. Davis bunted and Kolloway cut loose a throw aimed to cut down Suder at third, but the throw arrived too late. Wolff flied to Mueller and the rookie made a beautiful bulletlike throw to the plate. Suder should have been out with room to spare, but Tresh let the ball escape. Davis went down to second on the error, but Lyons took care of the next two batters.

Moses doubled to left with one out in the eighth to launch the winning run. With two out, Appling drove him in by singling thru short. In the home half the Macks had Lyons in a jam as the result of hits by Dick Siebert and Johnson with none out, but this threat was erased when the former was nipped at the plate on Blair's tap to Webb.

SECOND GAME

Kolloway kicked a grounder off Valo's bat with one out in the third inning of the second game, and this was converted into the first run. Siebert flied to Mueller, Johnson bounced a hit off Lee's glove, and Knickerbocker singled to right to register Valo.

Marchildon Wild.

Marchildon took on a giddy streak at the start of the fourth. He walked both Lodigiani and Mueller. Webb bunted them along, and after Turner had fouled out Lee took charge of the situation by lining his double over third base, the two runs scoring. A wild throw by Davis on Kolloway's grounder followed, and Lee could have scored with ease, but he neglected to hurry on his way to third, so had to stop there. Moses walked to load the bases, but Kennedy was thrown out. Thereafter the Sox accomplished only a little more than nothing with their bats.

PHILLIPS FLAILS DRIVE TO RATION GAS IN MIDWEST

Tells Aid to East's Shortage Area.

The midwestern petroleum industry, thru an official spokesman, issued a statement yesterday aimed at easterners who are urging that the central states be put on a gasoline ration because the Atlantic seaboard is short of the fuel.

Frank Phillips.

Frank Phillips, chairman of the Phillips Petroleum corporation and general chairman of the petroleum industry committee for district 2, asserted the eastern campaign for midwest rationing "discloses an astonishing misconception of the causes of the gasoline and fuel oil shortage in the east, and an utter lack of knowledge of the tremendous effort the middle west is making to help supply the east."

Finds Cost "Enormous."

He said the midwest oil industry has shouldered "enormous" costs in readjusting transportation and refining to aid the east, that midwest oils needed for heating and war purposes are being rushed eastward in large volume, and that no further aid to the east would result from denying supplies to the midwest "without plan or reason."

"There is no shortage of oil," Phillips said in the statement issued from district 2 committee offices in Chicago. "Rationing has been forced upon the east solely because of transportation difficulties. In peacetime 95 per cent of the east's petroleum supplies were delivered at low cost by ocean tankers. But because of submarine sinkings of tankers or diversion of the oil carriers to other uses, the east has been deprived of almost all ocean deliveries of oil products.

"It has been impossible to continue movement of oil eastward in the normal volume, but nevertheless a strong flow of heavy fuel oils and domestic heating oils has been essential to supply war industries and prepare against suffering in homes next winter. To force preferred handling of these essential fuel oils, it was necessary to ration gasoline in the affected areas.

"To provide the east with more of these essential oils, the midwest refining industry changed expensive refinery equipment so that more of these low value oils and less of high value gasoline is made from a barrel of crude oil.

Other Costs Increase.

"Refiners in the 15 states of midwest district 2 have increased the yield of domestic heating and industrial fuel oils by 20 per cent. This alteration is a war measure, but the industry has not been compensated for consequent extra costs, which may exceed 100 millions a year."

Additional extra costs at the rate of 350 millions a year have been incurred by the industry in recent months in substituting tank car, pipe line, lake tanker, barge and truck transportation for the ocean tanker system, Phillips said.

Normally about 1,000 rail tank cars serve the east from all other areas. The number was 67,264 on July 31.

He suggested that the east help solve its problem by:

HUGE DIESEL ENGINE TO BE TESTED TODAY IN EASTERN OIL HAUL

One of the largest rail shipments of oil made to the east will provide a test for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad's new 5,400 horse power Diesel electric freight locomotive on its first run from Chicago to Philadelphia today.

The Diesel locomotive, first to be used in eastern railroad main line service, will haul an all-tank car train containing 5,300 gross tons of oil. The locomotive was built by the Electro-Motive corporation of La Grange.

Federal Rule of Soy Beans Stirs Traders

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

Soy beans came to the fore in the grain markets last week, not because of trading activity but thru government plans to comandeer the entire 1942 crop. Three developments were the subject of comment in the grain trade:

1. For the first time in history the government, despite trade protests, would take complete control of marketing, processing, and distributing a major American farm crop.

2. Processing and storage facilities appear inadequate for handling the large soy bean crop yet under the federal program, normal marketing facilities designed to protect producers and processors in such a situation will be by-passed.

3. Trade interests disclosed that facts available to them indicated the government had taken a loss of nearly half a million dollars in a soy bean seed buying program last spring.

Await Presidential Approval.

At the same time trade representatives were in Washington to protest a WPB directive that gave the Commodity Credit corporation power to "allocate to itself the entire production or any portion of vegetable oil seed products for resale on such terms as it deems appropriate," press releases disclosed the department of agriculture was ready to announce Presidential approval of such a program.

Under the plan about 186 million bushels of soy beans will be available to the federal agents, according to department of agriculture estimates of this year's crop. But official sources disclosed that if all available facilities of the processing plants were worked 24 hours a day, seven days a week, only 110 million bushels of beans could be converted into oil this year.

Meanwhile, grain dealers discussed the reported losses the government has taken on its soy bean seed purchase program.

Indicated a Loss of 50c a Bushel.

It was learned that the Commodity Credit corporation purchased more than a million bushels of beans at $2 a bushel. Because the beans were so slow coming into the government's hands, only a small percentage could be sold to farmers for seeding purposes.

Some of the beans were sold to processors when the Chicago market was around $1.70 a bushel, indicating the federal agency took a loss of 50 cents a bushel on a large portion of its purchases.

Grain prices in futures trading on the Board of Trade moved up rapidly the last two days of the week as dealers attached bullish interpretations to latest Washington pronouncements. The markets had fallen at the start of the week when the President gave his first hint of his new inflation control program. When later in the week he indicated his plan may be as severe as some commodity men had expected, prices started upward.

GENERAL WAGE INCREASE DENIED

Small Bonuses Awarded Reynolds Employes.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Four thousand employés in six plants of the Reynolds Metals company were denied a general wage increase yesterday by the War Labor board. The International Council of Aluminum Workers [AFL] had asked 20 cent hourly boosts in plants in Chicago, Louisville, St. Louis, Harrison, N. J., Glendale, N. Y., and Richmond, Va.

The board allowed bonuses ranging to 5 cents an hour for second and third shift workers.

The Aluminum Company of America announced its willingness to meet representatives of the CIO aluminum workers in attempting to settle a wage controversy as soon as the union has accepted a WLB directive refusing a general $1 a day pay increase.

Union Hopes for Peace.

Workers in the company's seven plants rejected the directive last week, but Nick A. Zonarich, union president, said he was hopeful for a peaceful settlement.

A compromise ended a five day walkout of 1,200 carpenters at the Pennsylvania ordnance plant near Williamsport, Pa. The men had requested an increase in hourly pay from $1 to $1.25 and compromised for $1.12½.

A strike that began when a group of women workers walked out in protest against delay in contract negotiations closed the Post Products company plant in Battle Creek, Mich. The company, a division of General Foods corporation, was filling a rush order for army rations. Approximately 1,800 employés were affected.

Bar CIO Committeemen.

At Flint, Mich., two union committeemen who appeared on picket lines in front of the Buick aluminum foundry were ordered barred from the strikebound plant pending an investigation to determine their loyalty.

A spokesman for the army air force plant protection office said the men, as officers of the CIO which had publicly pledged itself not to strike, had betrayed their trust and, in effect, were aiding the enemy.

The strike, which began last Friday night, resulted when two 18 year old workmen were discharged as incompetent. All shifts reporting for work yesterday were halted at the gates by picket lines.

At Santa Monica, Cal., 53 drivers of the municipal bus line serving aircraft factory workers returned to work after a brief walkout to effect the discharge of a superintendent they claimed was unfair to them. The superintendent was suspended temporarily.

All Treasury Silver Stocks 'Lend-Leased'

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30 (AP).—Summarizing its efforts to make silver available for urgent war uses, the treasury reported tonight that its entire stock of nonmonetary silver, 1 billion 350 million ounces, was being "lend-leased" to industry and that it had made no foreign silver purchases since November, all imports going to industrial consumers.

Delivery of newly mined domestic silver acquired under forward purchase contract has been postponed and the treasury statement said that "two of the largest silver refiners are already taking advantage of this postponement and are delivering newly mined domestic silver to industrial users." The refiners were not identified.

Higher Ceiling in Effect.

Meanwhile the Office of Price Administration ordered into effect tomorrow a new ceiling price of 45 cents an ounce for imported bullion. The former price was 35.375 cents. A preliminary announcement of the increase was made Aug. 22 by the state department after negotiations with Mexico, whence most imports come.

"The purpose of the increase," said the OPA, "is to permit the Mexican government, one of the united nations, to levy a special emergency tax equal to 7 cents an ounce on its silver in lieu of other production and export taxes and to provide a larger return to the Mexican silver industry to stimulate production, thus increasing supplies available for the United States."

Authorize 45 Cent Base.

The OPA also authorized a base price of 45 cents an ounce for domestically refined silver bullion made from imported ores, thus permitting domestic refineries to pass on to consumers a price increase of 9.675 cents an ounce on silver contained in imported ores and concentrates.

BATTLE LOOMS FOR PROFITABLE WALL ST. TRADE

Open Exchange Fire on Non-Members.

New York, Aug. 30 [Wide World].—A real battle for power may be developing between the New York Stock exchange and dealers in securities who are not members of it, financial men said today.

The smouldering conflict became an open flame a few days ago when the exchange denied its members the right to participate in a "secondary" selling operation in 50,000 shares of Standard Oil company [Indiana] which was headed by the nonmember securities wholesaling firm of Dillon, Read & Co.

It appeared significant that the friction came in the profitable field of secondaries, the series of new marketing methods which have been developed in recent years to compensate for the listed market's inability to absorb big blocks of many securities without prices doing a tail-spin.

Develops Special Offering.

The exchange made its bid, in behalf of its members, for this cozy bit of outside business in its listed stocks this spring with development of a device known as the special offering.

This operation permitted a member to acquire a block of shares from one or more holders who wished to liquidate, and advertise on the stock exchange ticker his offer to sell the shares to other members less a discount which would give the other brokers a profit in reselling to ultimate investors.

This selling method, because it gave brokers who ordinarily work on a mere service commission a merchant's profit for doing what is essentially a retail selling job, has brought back to the floor of the exchange many hundreds of thousands of dollars in commission business since it was inaugurated.

Competes with Older Method.

But it had to compete with an older method—sometimes called the dusk-to-dawn offering—in which any security dealer, exchange member or not, may buy a block of securities and reoffer them after the close, usually at the exchange closing price.

The only limitation on members heretofore was that the offering should not be made during market hours, and that it have approval of the exchange governors. So when the exchange put its foot down and refused to allow its members to participate in the Dillon, Read syndicate, it was really putting up a fight to protect the special offering.

The successful disposal of the Standard of Indiana offering by Dillon, Read and other nonmembers only tightened the tension.

Profit Margin Reduced.

Exchange circles said Dillon, Read had been advised to handle the offering as a special on the floor thru a member firm and had refused because the payment of an exchange member's commission would have whittled down its gross profit, already small in this case, to near the vanishing point.

But the fight, if it develops further, almost certainly will not be just between the exchange and nonmember dealers. For stock exchange members, too, have been prominent participants in the off the floor selling groups, and have profited just as have dealers who are not members.

Ask Chicago District Nominees for Tribune's Award by Sept. 5

Attention, Chicago area war factories. Time is short for nominating candidates for THE TRIBUNE'S second monthly war workers award—made for an outstanding contribution to the nation's war effort. Nominations for the August award must be submitted by Saturday, Sept. 5. Announcement of the winner will be made soon thereafter by a committee headed by Henry T. Heald, president of the Illinois Institute of Technology.

The award consists of a handsome gold pin studded with three small diamonds. Its principal decorative feature is a victory eagle.

Each month THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE will present a pin to a worker—man or woman—who has done something that contributes substantially to America's victory drive.

Anything to Help War.

Such an achievement may consist of an improved method for making war materials, the development of a process using substitute materials in place of much needed critical materials, improvement of a machine that steps up production, unusual devotion to duty or anything else aiding the war effort.

A number of nominations for the August award already have been received. One was made on behalf of a man who improved a welding method that is said to have increased production at his plant 100 per cent. The winner of the July award—the first to be made—was George Dabbert, an electrician at the Goss Printing Press company, who developed a way to speed production of essential machine tools.

The purpose of THE TRIBUNE'S award is to give public recognition to workers in America's production line who by their ingenuity and resourcefulness help the soldiers and sailors on the fighting line.

Workers in war plants in Illinois, Lake county, Indiana, and Kenosha and Racine counties, Wisconsin, are eligible to compete. Nominations may be made by war production committees, labor-management committees, special committees, management or in any manner best suited to the various plants. It is suggested, however, that a committee rather than an individual make the nomination when possible.

26 More 'E' Awards

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30 (AP).—Selection of 26 additional industrial plants to receive the joint army-navy production award for outstanding performance on war work was announced today.

Chicago plants to receive the award are Armstrong Brothers Tool company, Diamond T Motor Car company, Pressed Steel Car company, and United Wallpaper Factories, Inc.

Other plants include the International Harvester company, Milwaukee; Kingston Products corporation, Kokomo, Ind.; Sundstrand Machine Tool company, Rockford, Ill.; Chrysler's Airtemp division and Goodyear's plant No. 3 in Akron, O., and the Frigidaire ordnance plant, Dayton, O.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by GAIL COMPTON

Corn Plants Change.

Aug. 30, 1942.

CORN plants at the farm are undergoing a gradual change these days which only a careful observer sees. The tall stalks have about completed their job and the last growing energy is being directed to the kernels.

The deep, lustrous green of the leaves is becoming lighter and the leaves are beginning to wrinkle and wither slightly. The plants are on the wane. Into the kernels the plants are pouring the last bits of starch and proteins. Before long the ears will begin to dent.

Weather Changes Show.

Rapid changes from hot weather to cold last week also affected the corn. The high temperatures forced the leaves to unfurl, exposing as much surface as possible to the sun. Then the quick fall in temperatures caused the leaves to wrinkle and curl up. It took only some hot sunlight after the cold to bring most of the leaves back to normal.

The ewes have been allowed to roam over the farm where they please. Most of them, upon gaining their liberty, headed for the fresh growth of young alfalfa in the oat stubble field. They browsed the unfenced field and seemed to have no desire to invade the adjoining corn field.

Paints Chicken Roosts.

The flockmaster has given all of the chicken houses a thoro cleaning and has painted the roosts with a mixture of creosote and kerosene. This will act as a disinfectant and lessen the danger of disease or parasites attacking the flock. Clean, sanitary quarters spur the hens to greater egg production.

The clover field is almost ripe now and before long it will be ready to thresh. Almost all of the flower heads have matured and turned brown. Hot weather would help to complete the maturing and loosen the sheaths about the seed so they will shatter readily in the combine. The field should yield from three to five bushels of seed to the acre.

FIELD'S DELIVERY MILEAGE CUT TO CONSERVE TIRES

Traffic management and customer coöperation in carrying small packages has added a year to the life of the rubber on the delivery fleet of Marshall Field & Co., officials said yesterday in announcing that the company will be able to make essential deliveries until January, 1944, on its present tire equipment.

Soon after tire purchases were frozen early this year, the company estimated that this equipment could be effective only to the end of 1942.

Despite a January increase in delivery mileage, the company has been able to show a total decrease of 31½ per cent for the first seven months of 1942 under the approximate 1 million miles traveled in the parallel 1941 period, it was announced. July delivery mileage was 44.3 per cent under last year.

By the end of the year, the company expects to show a shrinkage of 50 per cent in parcel delivery mileage alone, officials said.

PICK CHICAGOAN TO HEAD UNIT OF WPB IN CANADA

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30 (AP).—The WPB announced today the establishment of a Canadian division to handle priorities problems in the dominion. Joe Tucker will direct the division from headquarters in Ottawa, Ont.

"This is a further step toward coordination of munitions productions, materials distribution, and priorities controls in the United States and Canada," the WPB said. "The division will further effectuate the policy of placing firms engaged in war production on both sides of the border on an equal footing with respect to distribution of materials."

Canadian companies engaged in war production are eligible to receive priorities assistance in obtaining materials from the United States, upon special authorization.

REMINDER: REAL ESTATE TAXES DUE TOMORROW

The second instalment of 1941 real estate taxes in Illinois becomes due tomorrow and arrearages will bear interest after that date, the Illinois Manufacturers' association reminded its members yesterday. The association listed the following other returns and payments falling due in September:

Sept. 15—Illinois retailers occupation [sales] tax return and payment for August; third intalment on federal income and excess profits taxes.

SCRAP SCARCITY HAS HAMPERING EFFECT ON STEEL

Scrap collections continue to permit a high level of steel production, but operations of some mills are dependent on daily receipts, the magazine Steel said yesterday in its review of the industry.

"In some districts a lull in collections has been experienced in the last fortnight, for no apparent reason, and receipts have been appreciably lower than in recent weeks," according to the review. "Some larger users have supplies for only 10 days. In Great Britain, supplies of scrap are adequate under intensive methods of collection."

Production last week advanced ½ point to 98 per cent of national capacity, the magazine said.

166 ACRES—The perfect hide-away farm for the quiet businessman who wants peace and quiet on his week-ends—and one that now and always will pay its way; situated in the famous Franklin Grove section, one of Illinois' best soils. All the farm land has been heavily limed and liberally phosphated. Large New England Colonial house built in 1936, fully insulated and well designed, situated on a knoll overlooking the 70 acre blue grass pasture, traversed by a year around creek, stocked with Angus cattle. Marvelous barn, silo, and other outbuildings. Owner moving away, may accept $150 per acre for quick sale. Buildings alone worth $20,000.

160 ACRES—Suberb river view farm. Deep, dark loam with good clay subsoil nearly level and all tillable but 20 acres of woodland. 11 room house situated among beautiful old trees. Large barn; electricity. 3½ miles from Rockford on hard surface road. School across road. Excellent young tenant on farm for four years wishes to be retained by new owner. An investment buy at $110 per acre. Rock River farms are becoming increasingly difficult to secure—see this one soon. In addition to above, we have some 50 choice farms listed. Write for particulars.

PULLMAN INCORPORATED.

Please explain the relation between Pullman, Incorporated, Pullman company, and Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing.—K. W.

Answer: Pullman, Incorporated, is the holding company for Pullman company and Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing. Pullman company operates a fleet of railway cars under contract with the railroads. The manufacturing subsidiary produces railroad cars of various kinds. At present the major part of operations is devoted to war work.

VOTING RIGHTS.

Answer: Stock outstanding at the end of 1941 consisted of 3,982,031 shares of no par common, 442,434 shares of $100 par 5 per cent preferred, and 282,997 shares of $100 par 6 per cent preferred. Each preferred share is entitled to four votes and each common share has one vote.

REYNOLDS METALS.

I have been told United States Foil company controls Reynolds Metals. Is this true? What dividends were paid on Reynolds Metals common last year and what was the price range for the shares?—S. L.

Answer: United States Foil company owns 53.5 per cent of the outstanding common stock of Reynolds Metals company. Reynolds Metals paid no common dividends last year. The common ranged from 6⅜ to 15⅝ on the New York Stock exchange.

SUNSHINE MINING.

How does Sunshine Mining rank in size in the silver producing industry? Does output include other metals?—H. A. C.

Answer: Sunshine Mining company is the largest producer of silver in the United States and one of the three largest in the world. Other output includes copper, lead, antimony, gold, and high quality manganese ore. Rare Metals Institute, a wholly owned subsidiary, is engaged in the development of commercial uses for silver.

Use Clothing Coupons Sparingly, Britons Urged

LONDON, Aug. 30 (AP).—Britons have been cautioned to use their clothing coupons sparingly because shipping and labor shortages may force postponement of the next issue scheduled for 11 months from now. That would mean the present allotment of 60 coupons per person would have to be stretched beyond next July 31, according to Hugh Dalton, president of the board of trade.

Job Insurance Payments Increase 8 Per Cent in July

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30 (AP).—Job insurance payments for unemployed workers increased during July to $32,625,600, a gain of 8 per cent over the June figure and 13 per cent above the total for July, 1941, the federal security administration announced today. A share rise in benefit claims in New York accounted for most of the increase. Most of the states reported declines.

WAR SHOW TO BRING BATTLE REALISM

Chicago Daily Tribune.
THE WORLDS GREATEST NEWSPAPER

DEDICATED by The Tribune to the Army War show, which will be presented each evening in Soldiers' field from Sept. 2 to Sept. 12 inclusive, this page provides readers with samples of thrilling scenes that will be reenacted at this great military spectacle, proceeds from which will be turned over to the Army Emergency relief. The infantryman fighting in the mud—the flame throwers in action—the thundering howitzer—the cavalrymen in guidon drill—all these and many other inspiring flashes from real warfare will be on the program of the Army War show. Tickets now are on sale at leading department stores, drugstores, and elsewhere. General admission is 55 cents and reserve section tickets are $1.10 each.
